Lindberghs' Appeal to Kidnapers to Make Own Terms

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.
International News Service.

Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, speaking as a mother, pleaded today in an open letter to the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., to return her child.

She asked for the confidence of the kidnapers in opening negotiations for the child's return.

The plea was broadcast by radio and published throughout the nation.

The letter which was also signed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh follows;

"Col. Lindbergh and I want to make personal contact with the kidnapers of our baby. Our only interest is in his immediate and safe return. I feel certain that the kidnapers will realize that this interest is strong enough to justify them having complete confidence and trust in any promises we may make in connection with his return.

"We urge those who have the child to select any representative that they desire to meet a representative of ours who will be suitable to them, at any time and at any place they may designate. If this is acceptable we promise that we will keep whatever arrangements that may be made by their representative and ours strictly confidential and we further pledge ourselves that we will not try to injure in any way those connected with the return of the child.

"COL. LINDBERGH AND ANNE LINDBERGH."

Today

The Lindbergh Child, This Nation's Disgrace, New Kidnaping Laws, More Fighting to Come.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YESTERDAY AT half past four, when this was written, no news had come concerning the Lindbergh child. Clues and alleged information had proved worthless.

Doubtless the abductors, in view of the nationwide hue and cry, fear the baby could not be returned without danger to THEMSELVES.

THOSE THAT took the child are, evidently, men of some intelligence, as shown by precautions taken to prevent indentification. They must KNOW that Col. Lindbergh would not deceive them, would not give his word and break it.

His only desire is to get back his child, and end the dreadful suffering of his unhappy wife. Nothing else is in his mind, no feeling of revenge, nothing but a desire to recover the child, pay the sum demanded, and let those that receive it go in peace.

THIS WRITER, and this newspaper, can assure the kidnapers most solemnly that, without any fear of suspicion, they may communicate with Col. Lindbergh, put themselves in his hands, with the certainty that he will deal fairly with them, pay them the ransom upon recovery of his child, and never pursue them, or GIVE TO ANYBODY INFORMATION THAT COULD POSSIBLY LEAD TO THEIR ARREST.

TO RETURN the child now, taking the fifty thousand dollars, means for the kidnapers safety and wealth. To delay, with the child in delicate health, would make future detection and punishment ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN.

It would be simple for the kidnapers to send word to Col. Lindbergh to go to a certain place, there to find written instructions, and proceed immediately in accordance with the instructions to some other spot, where the baby would be delivered on payment of the ransom, with the further stipulation that Col. Lindbergh should remain with the child, on the spot where it was delivered, long enough to give the kidnapers abundance of time to escape.

To return the child, receive the money, and, with it, safety, would not be difficult now.

To delay means danger for the child, and certain punishment for those that abducted it.

IN ENGLAND kidnaping is almost unknown, and is not a firmly established, profitable "racket," as in this country of prohibition, racketeering, bootlegging and lawlessness.

The London Daily News sees in the Lindbergh kidnaping "the most open challenge to civilized government that has ever been ventured."

THIS COUNTRY is disgraced by its lawlessness, its supine submission to the rule of criminals, gangsters, racketeers of all kinds.

You might think that we were a nation of idiots, to see our government busying itself with the affairs and needs of other countries, while showing not the faintest ability to suppress crime at home.

THERE IS NO nation on the earth, calling itself even half civilized, in which there is not better, more efficient internal government, with greater safety for the citizen's life and property than in this country.

IT IS PROPOSED in Congress that kidnaping be made "a federal crime" and that death be made the penalty.

No punishment, not even the most horrible torture that the ancients inflicted, could inflict upon a kidnaper the suffering that he inflicts on the mother and father of a child.

And there is no doubt that kidnaping should be made a crime against the laws of the nation. It is a direct attack on the Constitution. It deprives a human being of liberty and often of life, taking away his freedom without "due process of law."

It is an interstate crime, as almost invariably the criminals pass from one state to another.

As to the death penalty, that might prove to be more dangerous for those kidnaped than for the kidnapers.

IN EIGHT of the 48 states, death is now the legal penalty for kidnaping. In New Jersey, kidnaping can be punished with

Withdrawal From Shanghai Demanded; Tokio Bids America to Conference

GENEVA, March 4.—(AP.)—Cessation of hostilities at Shanghai and withdrawal of the Japanese troops was demanded in a resolution unanimously adopted tonight by the League of Nations assembly.

Naotake Sato, Japanese delegate, previously had suggested a round table conference, with America represtend, be held at once at Shanghai to arrange terms for an armistice.

Japan's Army Renews Drive on Chinese

SHANGHAI, March 4.—(INS.)—After just one day's cessation of hostilities, Japanese military officers today ordered their forces to attack the Chinese army at two points at which it had resisted during its general retreat.

SALES TAX PUT IN HOUSE BILL

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS.)—A 2½ per cent manufacturers' sales tax, designed to raise between $600,000,000 and $625,000,000 a year, was overwhelmingly adopted by the House Ways and Means Committee today.

With a decision on this question, Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, said the new tax increase bill may be completed tomorrow.

Metropolitan Opera Reorganization Seen

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Assurance that there will be no discontinuance of opera at the Metropolitan Opera House was seen today in news that a plan to reorganize control of the presentations is being considered. A new membership corporation, to be known as the Metropolitan Opera Association, would be formed to succeed the present operating company, known as the Metropolitan Operating Expenses. The same executives and singers will be retained, it was believed.

Guard Tightened At Morrow Home

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., March 4.—(AP.)—The police guard about the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, grandmother of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, has been tightened.

All automobiles approaching the private drive to the estate are being stopped and searched thoroughly although earlier those containing friends of the family had been permitted to pass on a signal.

The first identified picture of Miss Gow, the Lindberghs' nurse maid, whom police at the Lindbergh home are questioning at great length. Police also have asked famed Scotland Yard to investigate hers and Chauffeur-Butler Ollie Whealey's pasts.

GIRL WHO DISCOVERED CRIME QUESTIONED FOR CLUE TO BABY

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—(AP.)—Betty Gow, the handsome young nurse of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, was subjected to lengthy examination by police at the Lindbergh home today.

It was learned that police questioned Miss Gow at length last night and started again early this morning.

No statement was issued as to the nature of the questioning or as to what police hoped to develop by their protracted examination.

FRIEND OF GIRL HUNTED

Englewood police revealed that they had been attempting for the last 24 hours to locate Henry (Red) Johnson, a friend of Miss Gow, who, they said, communicated with her by telephone at 9 o'clock Monday night at the Lindbergh home. He is described as a sailor who has been employed on the yacht of a prominent New Yorker.

It was Miss Gow who discovered the kidnaping when she went into the Lindbergh nursery at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night. She had put the baby to bed at 7:30.

When the baby, who had been ill with a cold, was put to bed, Mrs. Lindbergh started to follow the usual procedure of opening the nursery windows and closing and fastening the wooden shutters.

She found, however, that one of the shutters was so warped that it would not close. This shutter therefore was left open and through that unguarded window the kidnaper entered to steal the child.

BABY FOND OF NURSE

Miss Gow, a pretty, black-haired woman with a cheerful, smiling face and the springy step of an athlete, was selected for the position by Elizabeth Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's sister.

Miss Morrow is an educational expert who runs a school of her own in Englewood, and she spent considerable time in choosing the person she thought best suited for her nephew's nurse.

Miss Gow probably has seen much more of the baby than has its mother because of Mrs. Lindbergh's many absences from home with her flying husband. The child was said to be very fond of her. The young woman was considered by the Lindberghs almost DETROIT, March 4.—(INS.)—Working with utmost secrecy through the night, Detroit police today continued their search for a man known to be wanted in connection with kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

The man is "Scotty Gow," inspectors heading the search said as special police details worked this morning in response to a message from Newark, N. J.

The telephone message from Newark police asked that local authorities make every effort to find Gow, who was said to have been a member of the Detroit "purple gang." The gang has been

Walsh to Attend Meet In N. J. on Kidnaping

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh will attend a conference of police representatives from all parts of the country in Trenton, N. J., tomorrow, when plans will be made to co-ordinate the search for the missing Lindbergh boy.

The meeting was called by Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, and will be held in his offices.

Moore sent telegrams to the mayors of Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinanti, St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York, Jersey City and Newark asking their co-operation and appealing for them to send a representative to tomorrow's conference. He also wired President Hoover asking that a representative of the Department of Justice attend.

Mayor Kline answered:

"I am glad to co-operate and my representative, Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police, will be there at 11 tomorrow."

Walsh last night wired New Jersey state police information believed to concern clues to a band of kidnapers in Western Pennsylvania.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—(INS.)—Charles A. Lindbergh, whose rigorous constitution has defied the ardors of flying through storms and icy fogs, today developed a slight cold.

U. S. JOINS HUNT FOR NILES BOY

NILES, O., March 4.—The federal government today placed its forces in the hunt for the kidnapers of James De Jute, as was done in the case of baby Lindbergh. The De Jute boy, 11, son of a well-to-do contractor, was abducted Wednesday morning as he was en route to school, a few hours after the Lindbergh baby was stolen.

The boys' mother is on the verge of collapse, and the father remains beside a telephone in his home, hoping for a message from the kidnapers. He is said to have told police that he will deal directly with the kidnapers if they will communicate with him. He has offered a reward of $1,000.

Doctor Offers Kidnap Clue

TRENTON, N. J., March 4.—(AP.)—Police Inspector Harry Walsh, from the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, today informed Gov. Moore's office that a "Dr. Warnoff, of Philadelphia," would be at the Postal Telegraph office at Hopewell late today to be interviewed by police.

Walsh added that Warnoff had volunteered some "good information," but did not disclose its nature.

It was also learned that police are taking Patsy Orlando, of Brooklyn to Hopewell for questioning.

IMMUNITY FOR KIDNAPERS ASKED IN CALL TO LINDY

POLICE TRACE MESSAGE IN BABY HUNT

as a member of the family instead of as a servant.

Since the baby was kidnaped she has been Mrs. Lindbergh's constant companion.

DENY PLACING RANSOM

In a statement issued to the press, Col. Lindbergh and his wife announced they wanted to make personal contact with the kidnapers and said the child's return was their only interest.

The kidnapers were assured no harm would come to any representative they might send to open negotiations and that any promises the Lindberghs might make would be faithfully observed.

Reports that Col. Lindbergh already had deposited $50,000 in small bills in Newark or Englewood in readiness to pay ransom for the baby's return were officially denied.

MYSTERY PHONE CALL

State police revealed this morning that an anonymous telephone call to the Lindbergh home shortly after midnight this morning asked whether immunity would be granted to the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

The call was disclosed by Capt. J. J. Lamb, of the New Jersey state police, stationed at the Lindbergh home, in a telephone interview through Lieut. Conklin of the state police.

The police intercepted the call and immediately made an effort to trace its source.

The early morning telephone call was the second anonymous message received by telephone at the Lindbergh home asking for immunity. A person named Medina, of Long Branch, who was reported to have made the previous call, was questioned by police and released.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—The kidnaped Lindbergh baby was still in the land of the missing today.

Three long nights and part of a third day have passed since 20-month-old Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen from his nursery crib in his teddy bear sleeping suit.

Since then the hopes of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, the tortured parents, have risen and fallen, like sweet and bitter heart beats.

But how—when—where?

They have not heard from the kidnapers—or at least among the thousands of notes, letters and communications received they are unable to tell the spurious ones from the one letter they are waiting for.

The famous aviator-father wears his habitual mask of calmness—but underneath he is worried today.

PARENTS APPEAL BY RADIO

The condition of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh is that of any mother whose only babe has been taken from her.

Reflecting the attitude of mind of the Lindbergh household, a plea to the kidnapers was broadcast over national radio systems last night. The broadcast said:

"Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh not only wish — but hope — that whoever is in possession of the child will make every effort to communicate with them."

NOTE'S CONTENTS QUOTED

"The first ransom note left in the room on the night of the kidnaping asked for $50,000.

"It specified that the bills were to be in denominations of one, two, five, 10 and 20 dollars. It said that the baby would be well taken care of.

"It was signed with three pen pricks in the paper.

"There were no directions as to how the ransom should be paid and there was no time limit specified."

John J. Toohey, secretary to Gov. A. Harry Moore, denied he had given out the contents of the ransom note.

"CRANK" LETTERS SIFTED

Among the mass of "crank" letters there were several on hand today which were considered of possible importance.

A postcard, intercepted at Auburn, N. Y., was addressed to Col. Lindbergh and read:

"Baby taken good care of. Look for instruction Saturday. If police get too close, watch out."

"Baby will die."

This card resembled a previous postcard mailed the Colonel from Newark, N. J., last Wednesday.

Both cards were printed in pencil. Both were addressed:

"Charles Linberg."

REFERS TO GIRL'S FATE

Another missive was mailed from New York and referred to the fate of Frances St. John Smith, who disappeared from Smith College in January, 1928. Her body was found a year later in the Connecticut River. She was said to have committed suicide.

This letter cautioned secrecy and was of a rambling nature.

There is an average of almost a letter a minute being received by the Lindberghs. The Postoffice Department has been asked if it is possible to take some action to discourage the sending of "crank mail" to the flier.

A modern police headquarters, with radio broadcasting and teletype facilities, was established on the Lindbergh estate to centralize handling of the search for the kidnapers.

LINDY APPEALS TO POLICE

One of the first important messages to go over the teletype system was a personal appeal from Col. Lindbergh to police of Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Camden to aid in running down a clue. It said:

"I request you to make a check of all second-class hotels for the Lindbergh baby."

This lead, like the others before it, failed to bring results to date.

Another "tip" reported that a woman with a baby had stepped out of a green monoplane on a farm near Richboro, Pa., entered an automobile and sped away.

It was discovered that such a plane had landed on the reported site, but that it contained only the pilot.

PEACE HOPES DIM

Thus, although the Shanghai front had been comparatively quiet for nearly 24 hours, the Chinese and Japanese forces today found themselves engaged in bitter warfare again, with little difference in the situation except that the Chinese were driven well out of the Shanghai territory.

Both points of today's fighting are within the 20-kilometer radius of Shanghai which the Japanese had demanded be cleared of Chinese troops.

The fighting bore out the contention of Chinese leaders in Shanghai that there was little hope for immediate peace and that, because of the harsh terms of the Japanese truce offer, the Chinese would continue to resist wherever they believed they could hold ground.

It was announced today that two Chinese generals, Tang Chi-Shui and Cong Chao-Yuan, both of the 19th route army, perished in the defense of the Woosung forts.

CHINA DENIES TRUCE

NANKING, March 4.—(INS.)—The Nanking Central government has ordered the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army to continue its resistance, it was announced today.

A denial was made that Nanking had ordered the army to cease hostilities, as reported yesterday.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the Nineteenth Route Army, reported he was resisting the Japanese at Nanziang and near Tachang, and that the Japanese repeatedly attacked his new defense positions.

Russia Admits Increasing Army

MOSCOW, March 4.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia is increasing its army in the Far East for defense of the Siberian frontier "against Japanese attack," the government newspaper Izvestia said today.

In this first official acknowledgment that Russia is engaged in defensive military preparations, Izvestia asserted that the Soviet government has come into possession of documents attributed to high Japanese military officials, containing proposals not only for the invasion of Siberia but also for combination with other nations in an attack on the Soviet union. The newspaper said:

"Recent events in Manchuria, particularly the serious increase in the number of anti-Soviet provocations, compel us to strengthen our defensive capacity for safety at our borders. We cannot ignore the fact that responsible representatives of Japanese military and non-military circles openly have raised the question of a raid on the Soviet union and annexation of border provinces."

Thousands Orphaned In Shanghai Conflict

One British lady alone was caring for 80 of them whose parents and families vanished during the hostilities.

Fifth Counterfeit Suspect Arrested

A fifth suspect was arrested today in connection with a counterfeiting ring which has been flooding the North Side and Hill district stores with bogus $5 bills. He is Rade Hayden, 21, of 22 East Lacock street, and was turned over to United States secret service operatives.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD, SAYS EINSTEIN

Scientist Sailing, Declares Kidnaping 'Lack of Sanity In Social Development'

PASADENA, Cal., March 4.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert E. Einstein, eminent German physicist, who has been studying with scientists here, turned homeward today with the observation that far better times appear to be ahead for both the old world and the new. He said:

"Whether the machine age has been a benefit or a detriment to humanity as a whole, one cannot say, but at the moment it appears that, in spite of present conditions, it can lead to better times than ever before."

REMAINS OPTIMISTIC

He said he is "too optimistic" to believe civilization is distintegrating. As for other life in the universe:

"It is not known whether there are other planets which are in the same stage of development and upon which conditions are such as to permit life similar to that found on our earth, but it is not possible to doubt such possibilities. It is hardly thinkable that life on other planets does not exist."

Dr. Einstein, who came to the California Institute of Technology last December as a "visiting professor," and Mrs. Einstein will return to Germany aboard the steamer San Francisco, which sails from the harbor late today. They will go through the Panama Canal, but will not touch the American Atlantic Coast.

The bushy-haired father of relativity was in a jovial mood as he and Dr. Richard C. Tolman, distinguished mathematician and his interpreter, faced a group of reporters last night.

DRY LAW UP TO U. S.

Prohibition, he thought, was strictly an American problem. He termed kidnaping "a sign of lack of sanity in social development, not lack of laws."

Asked whether he was satisfied with what he had accomplished here, he said:

"No living man is satisfied with what he has done."

Dr. Einstein said he expected to devote most of the remainder of his life to improving upon his unified field theory, one which attempts a single law governing time, space, gravity and electromagnetism.

Carol Blackburn, aged 10 months, was seriously scalded today while being given a bath by her mother, Mrs. Anna Blackburn, 202 Castle Shannon road, when her 2-year-old son, Marsh, unexpectedly turned on the hot water spigot of the bathtub, police reported. At South Side Hospital the child was said to be suffering from severe burns of the back and legs.

It is important that kidnaping should be made a federal crime, because of the persistence with which the Department of Justice follows criminals, as shown on counterfeiting cases.

Arrangements are being made by the International Labor Defense for her to call tomorrow upon the three Senators who seek to have the Mooney case data of the Wickersham Commission published as a Senate document.

In a formal statement released over her signature here, Mrs. Mooney said:

BRIDGE PLUNGE KILLS FIANCE

Off the Smithfield Street Bridge, Frank Petroglia, 21, plunged to his death in the Monongahela River. And when a girl in Mt. Washington heard the news she fainted.

Frank, who had lived at 135 Sycamore street, and Mary Cafaro, 19, of 315 Wyoming avenue, were to have been married soon—as soon, possibly, as Frank got a regular job.

They told Mary about the plunge today. She learned, too, that possibly Frank had been hurled from the bridge after a fight.

Evidence of this was the fresh rip in the collar of his coat, found on the bridge pavement. Nearby was his topcoat.

Police felt that Frank either had been hurled over during a fight, or that the coat had been ripped when somebody tried to stop him.

SEARCH PHILA. FOR KIDNAPERS

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(INS.)—Two leads, termed "red hot" by New Jersey state police, today swung the search for the kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., toward Philadelphia. Police here said the tips were "confidential" and declined to discuss them.

Search for a woman, however, was known to have been started here today. She is said to be Mary Rogers, 29, from whom Chicago detectives in 1930 recovered a baby adopted from an Evanston (Ill.) orphanage.

Meantime, police pressed a hunt for an automobile driven by a woman, with a child on the seat beside her, which bore Kentucky license plates 603-021, issued in Perry County, Ky. An alarm was sent out from a West Philadelphia station asking the car be stopped.

NEWARK, O., March 4.—(AP.)—Police today found two milk bottles, one bearing a New York company cap, the other a Pennsylvania cap, near the main road from Granville, O.

Police said one of the bottles bore a cap of the Weller Dairy, Johnstown, Pa., and the other, while capped "Oneida Dairy, Oneida, N. Y." was issued by the Franklin, (Pa.), agency.

Chicago Tip in Lindy Search Proves Fake

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP.)—A detective squad raided a Sheridan road rooming house early today on a tip that information concerning the Lindbergh baby kidnaping might be found there. weakened by killings and jail sentences, but Detroit police said they had no record of "Gow" being a member.

After the telephone conversation, a large package, said to have contained fingerprints and police records, was sent from the Police Record Bureau to Newark.

The only Gow known to local police is Alexander Gow, former University of Michigan student, arrested at Ann Arbor two years ago for bootlegging. He fled to Windsor, Ont., his home, across the Detroit River, and Canadian authorities refused to allow his extradition.

NURSE TRACED

Chief of Detectives Frahm said that intensive police investigation had revealed a man known as "Scotty" Gow had lived here formerly, but was believed to have died a year ago.

Detectives are checking authenticity of the death report.

Investigation proved that Miss Betty Gow, nurse to the Lindbergh baby, lived here two years ago, but also revealed she was no relative of "Scotty" Gow. She worked as a maid at the new Whittier apartments for the year ending September, 1930.

Hotel co-workers recalled Miss Gow as capable but aloof. Employes of the hotel are usually required to file their home addresses, but Miss Gow's Detroit address could not be found. John Conroy, manager of the hotel, could not explain why the information was lacking. He said that Miss Gow had an excellent reputation. She returned to New York after leaving the apartment, he believed.

The Tribune said the New Jersey police have sent a request to the bureau here for "any information relative to 'Scotty' Gow," reported member of the notorious "Purple Gang" of Detroit, and that a search of records here failed to reveal a trace of Gow, although it was learned from Detroit a man by that name once headed a bootleg ring in that region.

HUNT INVOLVES WOMAN

The Hopewell, N. J., authorities have been advised by Chief of Chicago Detectives Schoemaker, the paper related, of a Mary Rogers, who made an unsuccessful attempt to adopt a baby boy at "The Cradle," an Evanston home for children, in 1930, and who allegedly was an associate of Joseph Bossone, a reputed New Jersey kidnaping ring chieftain.

The article quoted the police as saying they believed the baby she tried to adopt was to have been used in a kidnaping scheme at the time, as a ruse to deceive neighbors into believing the baby was hers. It would have been possible after showing the adopted child in public to substitute the kidnaped one later without creating suspicion.

Chief Schoemaker's telegram, directed to Capt. J. J. Lamb, of Hopewell, also said "Mary Rogers" gave the address 138 Kensington avenue, Jersey City, when she called at the Evanston home and represented herself as married and very fond of babies.

OBTAINED BABY

After she left with a 12-month-old baby, the wire said, Miss Irene Drew, connected with "The Cradle," became suspicious and employed Pinkerton operatives to investigate the woman. They supposedly found out Mary Rogers was her maiden name and that she had been married to H. Benjamin Lydig and divorced.

The message further said, according to the Tribune, that she has since been living with "a notorious gangster, Joseph Bossone, whose home is supposed to be in Asbury Park, N. J., and who has relatives in Long Branch, N. J.

Buoyed by New Hope, Anne Takes Short Stroll

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—(INS.)—Buoyed by new hope that her son is alive and will soon be returned to her, Mrs. Anne Lindbergh today sought to relax from her long vigil.

After a night of fitful sleep, she donned a white sports suit and a jaunty fur-trimmed black and white sweater and went for a stroll about the grounds of the estate. And she smiled bravely at the stream of persons arriving and departing from the house, who greeted her.

The Lindberghs have their long conferences with the police to relieve somewhat the strain of uncertainty, the anguish that has their hearts in its grip.

According to Gov. A. Harry Moore, who visited Col. Lindbergh and his wife in the white house atop Sorrel Hill, both are looking "wonderfully well" in spite of the past two days. The Governor said:

"Mrs. Lindbergh is amazing. She has given us every assistance, co-operating in every instance."

Mrs. Lindbergh, who is expecting another child in a few months, is reported to have rested comfortably for a few hours last night, and at her insistence no doctor was called to attend her.

Federal Kidnap Penalty To Help All Mothers

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS.)—House and Senate marked time today and deferred action on bills imposing the death penalty on kidnapers and their conspirators caught entering one state from another.

Other branches of the government continued to co-operate with the states in efforts to recover the baby son of Charles A. Lindbergh, stolen from its Hopewell (N. J.) home.

The Senate Judiciary committee will consider the bill of Senator Patterson (Rep.), of Missouri, at its regular meeting Monday. Further consideration of an identical bill introduced by Representative Cochran (Dem.), of Missouri, has been deferred by the House Judiciary Committee until Tuesday.

Cochran in a radio address explained how his bill would operate to aid in apprehending kidnapers and cited the Lindbergh case in New Jersey and the De Jute case in Niles, O., as showing a need for federal legislation.

Referring to the action of President Hoover in ordering all the resources of the federal government, including the Secret Service, to aid the New Jersey authorities, Cochran said:

"Everyone will applaud the action of the President, but he acted without any authority of law. I seek to give that authority in my bill.

"It is not always a Lindbergh child that is kidnaped. I would never object to the President taking this action. I Commend him, even though he had no authority. But the day following another child was kidnaped, this time in Ohio. What I seek to do is to assure every mother that her child will be accorded the same attention from the government as the President provided in the Lindbergh case.

"Dear as this baby is to Mrs. Lindbergh he is no dearer to her than any other child is to its mother, no matter how humble that mother's station may be."

SCHOOLS PRAY FOR LINDY, JR.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS.)—With another day breaking without a trace to the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, the worldwide sympathy aroused on a scale of unprecedented magnitude by millions anxious for the welfare of the universally beloved child was to find one expression today in a prayer by the city's school children for the safe return of the baby.

Members of the school board were to visit classes and lead the pupils in reciting the following prayer:

"Almighty God, we fervently pray to Thee in Thine infinite power and wisdom, please send forth Thy holy angels to protect Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., and to restore this precious child safely and promptly to his beloved ones."

$15,000 Daily Cost To N. J. for Search

TRENTON, N. J., March 5.—(INS.)—The search for the missing Lindbergh heir is costing the state of New Jersey at least $15,000 every 24 hours, according to the conservative estimates here.

It is impossible to obtain an accurate figure, but officials said that the salaries of the officers working on the hunt, the cost of equipment employed and the telephone and telegraph charges alone would probably aggregate this amount.

Lindbergh 'Neighbor' Returns for Quiz

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS.)—Patsy Olando, 23, who lived in Hopewell, N. J., until recently, returned voluntarily to that village today in company of Lieut. John Osanto, of the Brooklyn police.

Olando, according to police, lived in Hopewell, the nearest village to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's home, "until about 6 o'clock last Tuesday night."

FINDS MARRIAGE GAIN AT VASSAR

More college girls are marrying and rearing families than ever before because they can combine motherhood with a career outside the home, according to Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College.

Dr. MacCracken was here today to address the Twentieth Century Club and to visit several private girls' schools. His father, Henry M. MacCracken, was chancellor of the old Western University of Pennsylvania.

He said:

"A marked change has occurred in the last 30 years. In 1900 only 50 per cent of Vassar graduates married and the children averaged one to a family. Today, 75 per cent of our graduates marry and in the last 10 years the number of children to a family has increased to an average of two and a half."

Two Pedestrians Robbed by Bandits

James J. Leidecker, of 232 Linnview avenue, Carrick, was held up by an armed thug near his home last night, and robbed of $25.

Bandits Captured After Bank Holdup

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., March 4.—(AP.)—Three bank robbers, one identified as a former police lieutenant at South Bend, Ind., robbed the Flat Rock State Bank, at Flat Rock, Ill., of $4,000 today and were captured on the Wabash River Bridge an hour later. The money was recovered.

Mexico on Lookout For Lindy Kidnapers

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—(AP.)—The Department of Communications announced today that every train, automobile, airplane and steamship entering Mexico is being carefully checked by immigration, customs and Army officials in an effort to apprehend the kidnapers of Col. Lindbergh's baby.

Manchester Center Opening New School

Educational activities as an antidotes for the evils of enforced idleness will be the purpose of a school for persons over 16, to be opened at Manchester Educational Center Monday. Sessions of the school will run from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. during the first three days of each week until April 1.

Crash Victim Aided By Anne Joins Hunt for Baby

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 4.—(INS.)—Not so long ago there was a farmer who was injured seriously when his automobile crashed into a bridge.

A great lady from an adjoining estate was passing in her machine. She took the injured commoner into her car and tended his wounds until she arrived at the hospital.

So today Alfred Denzler, who never forgot the kindness, closed up his farm and came over to aid in the search for the baby of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

And Denzler isn't going back to work until the baby is found.

Cardinal to Pray For Baby's Return

JAP MURDERER TO DIE IN CHAIR

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 4.—(Universal.)—Gentaro Akiyama, Japanese butler, today had been found guilty of first degree murder in the stabbing to death last December of his wealthy employer, J. William Schatz.

The Butler's sister-in-law, Sadako Otsuka, who posed as his wife, was found guilty of second degree murder and sentenced to from 20 years to life in Bedford Reformatory.

Akiyama was sentenced by Justice Witschief to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing in the week of April 11. His counsel is expected to appeal.

Schatz, Poughkeepsie manufacturer, was stabbed to death the morning of December 20 as he was entertaining Mrs. Florence Quick Carozza, comely brunette. Akiyama had been discharged the evening before for incompetence.

Police Guard Posted In Kidnaping Fear

HAVERFORD, Pa., March 4.—(Universal.)—A police guard was posted about the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Mitchell, II, after they expressed fear their 3-year-old son was threatened by kidnapers.

Two women motorists who, it was reported, loitered near the home and acted strangely prompted the precautions. The child's nurse told police the women seemed to be watching the residence.

Coe, Writer of Gangland Tales, Cites 'Only Way' To Find Lindy Baby

By WILLAM RANDORF

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS.)—Charles Francis Coe, writer of gangster stories, today suggested the "one and only way," in his opinion, that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh can expect to get his kidnaped baby safely back home.

The plan, put forward in an interview with International News Service, is as follows:

"Col. Lindberg should publicly offer a reward of $50,000 (equal to the sum demanded in the ransom note left by the kidnapers) provided the missing baby is found safely abandoned at any point in the United States.

"The reward should be made payable in 30, 60 or 90 days. It would be payable to anyone who presented a piece of the baby's garments which the kidnaper could remove before abandoning the child.

"Col. Lindbergh would pledge his honor that payment of the reward would be a private transaction with no danger of criminal prosecution."

Coe added that such wide publicity had been given the kidnaping that if the Lindbergh child was left in a public spot he would be discovered and returned immediately by the finder. He said:

"I am convinced that is the only practical solution of this amazing crime, as the kidnapers are too frightened by this time to communicate in any manner with the Lindberghs."

Coe said that he thought the child was safe "if the police don't catch up with the kidnapers." He continued:

"The band will be as happy to get rid of that baby as Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh will be to get him back. The Lindbergh baby, right now, is what gangsters would term 'hot property.'

"I do not believe that the kidnapers are professionals. I think the leader is a weak-minded amateur, committing his first crime, probably because unemployment has driven him to seek funds.

"It doesn't look like a professional job. There are too many rich people for kidnaping gangs to work on who wouldn't attract attention. Professionals would no more attempt kidnaping the President than try to steal a baby of the Lindberghs.

"It wasn't a gangster crime, because gangsters would walk in with guns and take what they wanted. The lack of violence, the comparatively small amount asked and the way the job was done indicates the work of amateurs."

TRAYLOR HALTS OWN BOOM

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 4.—(INS.)—Melvin A. Traylor, nationally prominent Chicago banker, in an address before a joint session of the Kentucky Legislature, today discouraged the activity of Democratic friends who urge his nomination for President. He declared:

"I have not been, am not now, and do not expect to become a candidate for political office."

Traylor said he was flattered that friends mentioned him as a potential presidential contender, but said he has no desire to desert banking for politics. He added that he hoped his adherents in Kentucky, Texas and elsewhere would understand his position.

Gang Bullet Misses Two Men in Garage

Penn avenue police today were seeking three men who, from a speeding automobile, fired a bullet through a plate glass window in the garage of G. J. Gretz, at 3427 Bigelow boulevard, last night. The bullet pierced the window, valued at $175, endangering Gretz and his mechanic, John Price, of 3533 Bigelow boulevard, who were a few feet away.

RAID 'NUMBERS' IN HOMEWOOD

When Homicide Detective James P. O'Kane strolled into a store at 7300 Bennett street, Homewood, and saw 150 numbers books, a penny slot machine and three punchboards, he called in the police, who arrested the storekeeper, George C. Walker.

O'Kane testified in East End Police Court today that Walker had told him he was selling numbers for J. L. Goldstein, of Morrowfield avenue. O'Kane also quoted Walker as saying that Constable Robert Marshall, of the Thirteenth Ward, had introduced Goldstein to him.

Walker and Goldstein made denials. Goldstein was arrested when he appeared to post bond for Walker. Magistrate Charles Papale instructed the police to bring Marshall in as a witness for another hearing tomorrow.

Vincent Tolino, South avenue, Wilkinsburg, with six others, arrested when police said they had evidence he was operating a "numbers racket," was released in $500 cash bail furnished by Goldstein. Police alleged that Tolino, as well as Walker, was selling "numbers" for Goldstein.

ONE YEAR LEFT, HOOVER FACES HEAVY TASK

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A year from today the bands will be playing up and down Pennsylvania avenue and they will be inaugurating a new President.

Whether it will be Herbert Hoover, or a Democrat yet unidentified, is a question that the next eight months in all probability will determine. It is an axiom commonly accepted in politics that conditions in the months immediately preceding a national election usually determine the outcome. In this respect, politicians expect 1932 to be no exception.

BOOM COLLAPSES

It was three years ago this March 4 that Mr. Hoover rode down the avenue in the rain to accept the presidency.

The country then was riding the high road of the greatest prosperity it had ever known. Business was booming, jobs were plentiful and seemingly there lay ahead an endless stretch of "good times."

Conditions on this fourth of March are painfully different. The country is laboriously trying to extricate itself from perhaps the greatest business depression in its history. Millions of men are unemployed, and war-time measures have had to be undertaken to forestall an even worse state of affairs.

Whether Mr. Hoover can sufficiently overcome the political handicap that these conditions impose upon his candidacy, to ride again triumphantly down the avenue a year hence was a question in everyone's mind in Washington today.

RENOMINATION EASY

The fourth of March is a significant date in Washington. It is a day of reckoning, of appraisal, of looking backward and forward.

His pathway to renomination has been made easy. No one has any doubt but that Mr. Hoover will be overwhelmingly renominated at Chicago next June. Every possible opponent of any prominence, Progressive or Regular, has declined to contest with him.

But as easy as the President's political path is with regard to nomination, there are nevertheless imposing obstacles ahead of him, and some weighty decisions to be made. One such concerns the party attitude toward prohibition.

It is now considered virtually certain that the Republicans at Chicago will stage a bitter fight over prohibition. And the prediction is freely made in responsible Republican quarters that the convention will adopt at least a referendum plank in their platform.

MURRAY FIGHTS TAX ON HOMES

VALLEY CITY, N. D., March 4.—(AP.)—If elected President, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, says he would make it part of his administration's duty to get every man in love with one woman and to have them live in a house they own.

Appealing for support in the North Dakota presidential preference primary, March 15, the Governor in an address last night advocated abolition of all ad valorem taxes on homes. Through the income tax and large inheritance taxes, the latter aimed to "break up the big estates," he proposed to make up for the losses in revenue.

He criticised the Republican rule, blaming it for having "opened the way to our deplorable misarrangement of credit." He accused that party of having placed control of the Federal Reserve board in the hands of bankers, contrasting it with the central Bank of England, where he said "bankers are not permitted on the board."

FESS TAUNTED ABOUT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, March. 4.—(INS.)—The third anniversary of President Hoover's inauguration was observed in the Senate today by partisan debate with Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, Taunting the Republicans by prophesying overwhelming Democratic victory at the polls next November, He declared:

"In 1928 the Republicans conducted a whispering campaign. Now it has changed to a whimpering campaign. Before next November it will degenerate into a weeping campaign."

When Senator Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, interrupted to defend the President, Harrison quoted a statement by Fess assailing Herbert Hoover for "seeking the nomination at the hands of a party he conspired against in 1918" and demanding a candidate "whose Americanism is not in question."

THE STORY OF JOHN N. GARNER -:- -:- By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc. All Rights Reserved.)

Accident of Politics Brings Speakership To Garner

CHAPTER XIII.

Success in life is due to ambition, courage, energy, brains—and accident.

John N. Garner early in his Congressional career was possessed of the ambition to be the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

He was endowed with courage and energy. He brought to bear upon the multitudinous duties which devolved upon him an unusual mental equipment.

But an accident, which produced a complete and unusual change in party leadership in the House in the Seventieth Congress for a time removed him from the line of succession to the Speakeship. He was like to have failed of his goal when he had all but reached it.

To understand how this came about it is necessary to analyze what transpired in the House of Representatives after the Democratic debacle under Woodrow Wilson in 1918, and in 1920, the years in which Garner was coming to the full fruition of his powers.

While Warren G. Harding was being inaugurated as President of the United States, on March 4 1921, the flags over the Capitol were at half mast for a great American leader, and the Democratic idol.

Champ Clark Dies

Champ Clark died in Washington, March 2, 1921. His passing left the party which he had brilliantly led in the House, all but demoralized.

From March, 1915, to March, 1919, in the Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Congress, Claude Kitchin, of North Carolina, was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Under the Democratic reforms which took place when Clark was elected Speaker at the beginning of the Sixty-second Congress, in 1911, it was arranged by the Democrats that the Ways and Means Committee should comprise the Committee on Committees, charged with the creation of the House committees, and with responsibility for party policies, and that the Democratic Chairman of Ways and Means should be the Floor Leader of the party. This arrangement concentrated a considerable power in the hands of the Chairman of Ways and Means, who, in this instance, was Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama.

When Underwood went to the Senate, Claude Kitchin became the Chairman of Ways and Means.

The Democrats lost the House with the opening of the Sixty-sixth Congress in 1919, and Kitchin, as former Chairman of Ways and Means became the ranking Democrat on that committee. But he stepped aside as Minority Leader, the head of his party in the House, and Champ Clark filled that position, and was the Democratic candidate for Speaker against Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts.

Kitchin Is Leader

Toward the end of his service, Mr. Kitchin again became minority leader, with the passing of Clark. He was in ill health. He was an old-fashioned Democrat on the tariff question, virtually a free trade advocate. Garner believed that agriculture was entitled to protection along with manufactured products. The gentleman from Texas was not wholly in harmony with his party on this question, and not at all in harmony with Kitchin. In passing, it should be recalled that in 1928, Garner had the satisfaction of seeing the nominee of his party, Alfred E. Smith, take the position on the tariff which he had taken years before.

Kitchin finally became too ill to attend to his duties, and he now did an extraordinary thing, which might, in the end, have cost John N. Garner the speakership, had not fate interposed at the eleventh hour.

Kitchin went before the Democratic caucus, and explainplaining the condition of his health, proposed that the caucus designate Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, as minority leader in his absence. Presumably he did this because of Garner's conservative views on the tariff.

SPEAKER JOHN N. GARNER
Mr. Garner in characteristic pose as the presiding officer of the House of Representatives.

A Radical Departure

It was a radical departure from the Democratic precedents established under Champ Clark. Since 1911, the ranking Democrat on Ways and Means had been the Democratic leader. And Garrett was not even a member of Ways and Means. However, the caucus agreed to Kitchin's proposal.

Garner had been placed on Ways and Means at the beginning of the Sixty-third Congress, in 1913, and had helped to write the Underwood-Simmons tariff law. He was then tenth Democrat in rank. Kitchin, Henry T. Rainey, Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, and others, ranked him.

But Palmer left the House. That moved Garner up. In the Sixty-sixth Congress, Garner was again placed on Ways and Means. His place there was, of course, by now secure. Cordell Hull and Henry T. Rainey were both defeated for the Sixty-seventh Congress. Kitchin was therefore ranking Democrat on that all-powerful committee, and Garner was now next.

Thus, by surviving the elections of 1920, when Democrats ahead of him on the committee were defeated, Garner was in second place on the Democratic side of Ways and Means.

Kitchin Passes Away

Claude Kitchin died in May, 1923, before the Sixty-eighth Congress convened, and when that Congress met, Garner was, by seniority rule, at the top of the Democratic list on Ways and Means. The long, grilling climb of a lifetime was at an end.

But, by the perversity of Fate, he was not the Democratic leader. There, in that place, stood Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, who owed his standing in the party to his place on the Rules Committee.

Garner's friends canvassed the House to ascertain if the Texan could be elected minority leader. It would mean a party fight, perhaps a disastrous split. In the interest of party harmony, Garner did not become a candidate for the minority leadership, in the Democratic caucus, and Garrett remained firmly entrenched as the leader of his party in the House. This won for Garner, later on, all of Garrett's friends in the House.

There was one thing, however, and an all-important thing, that John N. Garner did keep. As ranking Democrat on Ways and Means, he retained the power originally conferred by the Champ Clark organization, the power of chairman of the Democratic committee on committees, which determined all the Democratic committee places in the House.

Retains Chairmanship

And he also retained the chairmanship of the Democratic committee—not of the House, but of the caucus—which determined party policies. Two strong factors in leadership were still his.

It is to the eternal credit of John N. Garner, as a party man, believing in the constitutional system of government through parties, that he supported Garrett, the minority leader, with absolute loyalty.

No unkind word ever passed between the two men, as they worked side by side, with divided authority. They saw things together with a single eye, and worked for the good of the party. Garner lacked a title, but of the two, he was the stronger.

When the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was put through by the Republican party in 1930, Garner labored against its iniquitous features in committee, and voted against the bill. There was enormous pressure exerted upon him in his own district to induce him to support it, because of the protection it gave to various agricultural products in that district. He stood firm.

Garrett Is Picked

Still it was Finis J. Garrett who was the Democratic nominee for the speakership in the Sixty-eighth, Sixty-ninth and Seventieth Congresses. Claude Kitchin had certainly thrown the switch on the Garner "Speakership Special."

What would have happened if Finis J. Garrett had remained in Congress? If he had been his party's candidate for the speakership in the Seventy-first Congress, in all human probability he would have been his party's candidate for that high office in the Seventy-second Congress, and would have been elected Speaker.

Here again accident, fate, call it what you will, interposed to shape the career of John N. Garner.

Finis J. Garrett left the House and made an unsuccessful race for the Senate. On February 18, 1929, he accepted an appointment by President Coolidge as Judge of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. His congressional career was at an end.

In the Seventy-first Congress, John N. Garner, who for 26 years had stuck doggedly to his job of being a member of the House of Representatives, thus came into the full possession of all his prerogatives.

Candidate for Speaker

He was ranking Democrat on Ways and Means, and became minority leader in his own right.

He was his party's candidate for the Speakship in 1928, but his old friend, Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, defeated him.

But many deaths occurred, including that of the beloved Longworth himself.

By the time the Seventy-second Congress convened, the Democrats had a slender majority of four, since increased to five.

Fate in her most dramatic mood seemed to have interposed to make John N. Garner at last, after 28 years of faithful service to the country, the Speaker of the House, and the Democratic leader of the nation.

Hindenburg Cheered In Army Uniform

BERLIN, March 4. — (INS.) — Cheered by many thousands, President Paul von Hindenburg today made one of his rare public appearances in his field marshal's uniform of the Imperial Army.

Clothed as he was on dress occasions during the World War, when he was commander of Germany's great army, the veteran soldier-statesman reviewed a thousand troops on the capital's parade grounds.

HOUSE TO SPEED LABOR BILL

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—The Norris-LaGuardia bill to limit use of federal injunctions in labor disputes and to outlaw the "yellow dog" labor contracts today was given legislative preference in the House by the Rules Committee.

Decision to push the measure already approved by the Senate by an overwhelming vote, was made by the Democratic leadership to clear the way for the new revenue tax bill to be brought up next week.

Chairman Sumners of the Judiciary Committee said the urgency of the measure was determined largely upon the general recognition of the unsettled economic situation.

Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, co-author of the measure with Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, told the Rules Committee that Speaker Garner and Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, had expressed the desire to expedite action on the legislation.

FREE FILIPINOS, HOUSE ADVISED

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—The House Insular Affairs Committee today approved a bill intended to give the Philippine Islands complete independence in seven to nine years.

Chairman Hare explained the measure as finally accepted by the committee would require the United States to maintain sovereignty over the Philippines five years after they had established a new government.

REPORT SCORES ALABAMA VOTE

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS.)—The Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections today adopted the report of its chairman, Senator Hastings (Rep.), of Delaware, declaring the Alabama 1930 senatorial contest "no election."

Hastings5 report said there was evidence of "universal disregard of the Alabama election laws" in the contest, which resulted in the victory of John H. Bankhead over Senator Thomas J. Heflin. It added:

"I realize it is a serious matter for the United States Senate to declare this was no election in Alabama in 1930. I do not see, however, how it can be avoided without approving the shocking facts disclosed by this record."

Air Official Denies Agreement on Bids

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Warren Oakes, representing American Airways, denied today that his company entered into any agreement with other companies before being the sole bidder to carry air mail on the Atlanta-to-Los Angeles lines.

Testifying before the House Postoffice Committee, Oakes answered in an emphatic negative every question on the rumored agreement put to him by Representative Major (Dem.), of Illinois.

Indiana Officials Indicted for Rum

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 4.—(INS.)—Forty-one persons from Delaware and Madison counties, including some of the highest city officials of Muncie and Anderson, were indicted by the federal grand jury here today on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Prosecutor Wins Conviction With Card Tricks

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—A deputy district attorney, who as a youth was a vaudeville magician, dazzled a jury with card tricks yesterday and won his case.

Plucking a card or two from the air Prosecutor George Stahlman demonstrated to his audience "the more you see, the less you know. The practised hand is quicker than the eye."

The jury then convicted Joe Ramirez of picking a woman's purse on a crowded street car, obtaining $3.20. His defense was that he could not have taken the money without being seen by other passengers. Stahlman did his tricks to refute this claim.

HOOVER SIGNS FARM AID BILL

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS.)—President Hoover today signed a joint resolution appropriating $10,000,000 for the establishment of an agricultural credit revolving fund under direction of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The Secretary is empowered to use the fund for loans to individuals, under such regulations as he may prescribe, for the purpose of assisting in forming local agricultural-credit corporations, livestock loan companies and like organizations. Loans are also authorized to increase the capital stock of agricultural-credit corporations.

HOOVER BUDGET CUT 6 PCT.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Chairman Byrns, of the House Appropriations Committee, told newspapermen today budget estimates for government operations in the coming fiscal year as submitted to Congress by President Hoover on the first six big money bills have been reduced an average of nearly 6 per cent.

Byrns said a total of $114,000,000 had been shaved off the estimates by his group pursuing its plan of reducing expenditures to help balance the budget. Five more annual departmental supply bills are to undergo similar operation, the Tennessee Democrat said.

The committee reduced the estimates for the independent offices about $55,000,000, and those for the State, Justice, Commerce, Labor, Agriculture, Interior, Postoffice, Treasury and first deficiency bill a total of $59,000,000.

SENATE VOTES WALL ST. QUIZ

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(INS.)—A sweeping inquiry into stock transactions of the New York Stock Exchange was ordered by the Senate this afternoon.

The inquiry was authorized when the Senate unanimously approved a resolution drafted by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, empowering it to conduct the investigation.

Cardozo Commission Signed by President

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Only a new oath of office remains between Benjamin N. Cardozo and the title and robes of a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

President Hoover today signed the commission of the present chief judge of the New York State Court of Appeals, who will succeed to the seat left vacant on the highest tribunal by the resignation of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

'Clubwoman' Shows Sample Quiz Slip on Merchandise Return to Be Sent Club Members

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A sample quiz sheet on returned merchandise is printed in this month's issue of the Pennsylvania Clubwoman, the State Federation's official publication, this being a part of the General Federation's wise spending program. Copies of the sheets are to be made by individual clubs for their members, who are expected to send their filled-in sheets to Mrs. Alfred A. Crooks, Norwood.

Queries Made

The questions ask if and how often merchandise has been returned, what merchandise was last returned, if it was bought for cash or on credit, and why it was returned. If the returned article was a garment, the woman replying will state whether it was tried on in the store, whether the store called for the article and whether the return was made necessary through fault of the store.

Many other questions which will help in the survey being conducted by the national organization appear on the quiz sheet and in later issues of the magazine summary forms will be carried.

In their further study of "The Printed Word," Epoch Club members heard three fine papers on "Newspapers" yesterday, when they were guests in Mrs. A. T. Morgan's home, Maple avenue, Edgewood. Mrs. Hobart B. Ayers took "The Evolution of the Newspaper" as her topic; Mrs. Truman P. Gaylord discussed the great metropolitan dailies and Mrs. Frank H. Rea described the collection and distribution of the news.

A covered dish luncheon will be held in the kindergarten room of the Clayton School next Friday by the Clayton Mothers' Congress. A meeting will follow. Chairmen are Mrs. Harry Eades, Mrs. R. H. Crusan and Mrs. Ward C. Sanders.

Edgewood Girl Marries Pitt Instructor

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Nield, of Walnut street, Edgewood, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Nield, to Ralph B. Roth, of Pittsburgh, son of Thomas Roth, of Erie, Pa. The ceremony took place in the Mifflin Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with the Rev. N. H. Sannar officiating.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a blue lace and net gown, and carried bridal roses. After a honeymoon in Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Roth will reside in Holland street, Wilkinsburg.

Mr. Roth, who is an instructor of geology at the University of Pittsburgh, is a member of Theta Delta Phi.

Goldenson to Speak At Memorial Rites

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Temple, will occupy the pulpit of B'Nai Israel Synagogue Sunday night when special services will be held in connection with the dedication of a tablet in memory of departed members of the B'Nai Israel Congregation. The tablet was the gift of Mrs. Barnett Davis and family.

The tablet will be unveiled by Dr. Isaac Davis and accepted by Saul Schein, president of the congregation. Rabbi B. A. Lichter will offer greetings. A musical program will be given by Cantor Julius Bloom, Jerome Tagress, Freda Davis, Mrs. Edith Cantor and Mrs. Emma Finkelpearl.

Girl Bridge Player Holds Perfect Hand

WHEELING, W. Va., March 4.—(AP.)—Players in a bridge game report that Miss Margaret Edwards, of Moundsville, a student at West Liberty Teachers College, was dealt a perfect hand of 13 hearts. Her partner was Alice James, of Follansbee. David Frew, of Follansbee, and Eleanor Carnahan, of Wheeling, were the opponents.

Teachers' Pay Cut In Lower Tyrone

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 4.—Salaries of teachers in Lower Tyrone Township will be reduced to the minimum prescribed by law as the result of action of the Board of Education in that district. As faithful harbingers of spring as the pussy-willow . . . dots with their dash and verve, so becoming to women of all ages and all types. Tomorrow our entire Second Floor will be "dotted" with these smartest of the new fashions.

MISSES—

Embroidered dots are their selection—white dots that appear with regularity on the black silk, the green silk bands and inserts, the red silk belts or ties. Two-piece dresses and jacket frocks in sizes 14 to 20.

JUNIOR-MISSES—

use dots for militaire ensembles . . . with plain wool crepe, full length coats in black, and red silk dresses marked with white polka dots, or navy coats with lighter blue dresses having black polka dots. Sizes 13 to 17.

WOMEN—

Here's where the polka dot comes into its own . . . six lovely models—some in rough Kenwood crepe, others in washable silks . . . jacket dresses, one-piece dresses and vestee-effects in navy, black and brown, all with white dots and contrasting white trimming. Sizes 34 to 44.

QUALITY MARKS MANY ESSAYS SUBMITTED

Well Written Papers Show Grasp of Washington's Address, Contest Basis

Good writing and intelligent grasp of the farewell address of George Washington are only a few of the fine points in many of the essays already received by the contest editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

The test, which continues until April 4, is open to all youths, in or out of school, under 21 years.

The first prize, open to any competitor under 21, is $100 and a gold cup. A picture in color, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," will appear in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph. It is one of the series of six illustrations being printed in connection with the Washington bi-centennial.

The classification and prizes:

The William Randolph Hearst gold cup and $100 for the best essay, not to exceed 100 words in length, in any class, by any person up to the age of 21 years.

For the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length, by any person between the ages of 16 and 21, in or out of school, the Hearst gold medal; for second, silver medal, and third, bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in any junior high school, a gold medal; for second, a silver medal, and for third, a bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in the grammar grades, a gold medal, with silver medal for second, and bronze medal for third.

In each of the classes, 2, 3, 4 and 5, there will be awarded 100 diplomas for honorable mention for the 100 best essays produced in each class after the first, second and third prizes have been awarded.

Rum Seller Jailed For Breaking Parole

Joseph James Shortt, of Pittsburgh, was sentenced six months in jail by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, after the court revoked a 2-year probation imposed May 10, 1930. At the time Shortt pleaded guilty of selling and possessing liquor on Station street. Because of his failure to report to the federal probation officer and violations of other provisions of the probation term, he was brought into court and sentenced on the liquor charge.

Clerk Kills Consul, Then Ends Own Life

MARSEILLES, France, March 4.—(AP.)—Server Djmel Bey, the Turkish consul general here, was shot four times and killed today by a 23-year-old consulate clerk, Ahmed Osmann, who then committed suicide.

Police were informed that the consul had complained of the clerk's inefficiency and that Osmann had been nursing a grudge against his chief.

LESLIE OPPOSED AS CONVENTION DELEGATE

L. B. Cook Rival of Former Senator; Others Also Run In M'Govern-Pinchot Camp

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who is furthering Gov. Pinchot's plans in the western end of the state, has set up Lawrence B. Cook, of the First Ward, to oppose former Senator M. G. Leslie as a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention from the Thirty-second Congressional District.

Prior to Cook's entry it appeared Leslie would have no formidable opposition, as it was generally accepted Mayor Kline and State Senator James J. Coyne intended to support him.

Other delegate candidates running under the McGovern-Pinchot banner, whose petitions were put in circulation yesterday, include Harry A. Quay, of Avalon, alternate, from the Thirtieth District; Thomas E. Whitten, of Wilkinsburg, alternate, from the Thirty-first District; David McClelland, of the Thirteenth Ward, delegate from the Thirty-third District; Dr. George S. Bubb, of Moon Township, delegate, and Ellsworth C. Trott, of the Twenty-ninth Ward, from the Thirty-fourth District.

As candidates for members of the state committee, McGovern directed the circulation of petitions for Robert Malcolm, of West Deer Township, and Margaret O. Bowers, of Bellevue, to represent the Fortieth Senatorial District and J. Denny O'Neil, of McKeesport, the Forty-fourth District.

The "regular" Republican organization is reported to have slated James Duff and Harry E. McWhinney as candidates for delegate to the national convention to represent the Thirty-fourth Congressional District, and John Potts as member of the state committee to represent the Forty-fifth Senatorial District.

Dr. Sickman Enters Race Against Temple

Dr. Albert S. Sickman, of Charleroi, has announced his candidacy for Congress from the Twenty-fifth District, comprising Washington and Greene counties. He is opposing Dr. Henry W. Temple, incumbent, who has represented the district 18 years.

Dr. Sickman declared he favors modification of the Eighteenth Amendment, keeping out of entanglements with foreign nations, insistence on payment of debts owed by Europe, assistance to organized labor, help for war veterans and protection of bank depositors.

Erie Boy Killed By Gasoline Blast

ERIE, Pa., March 4—(AP.)—Burns he received when a can of gasoline exploded caused the death of George Geros, 11, today. Coroner W. G. Strobel said the boy poured gasoline upon sand while playing near his home, ignited it, and then poured more gasoline into the sandbox. An explosion resulted, showering the child with the burning liquid.

In 30 Days Heals Sore She Had 30 Years!

Happy Woman Used Only Two 35 Cent Boxes of Peterson's Ointment

Mrs. J. C. Henderson, of Winston-Salem, N. C., had an ulcer on her ankle for 30 years and could not get it healed. Had medical treatment. Then she got 2 boxes of that powerfully healing and skin-reconstructive Peterson's Ointment and entirely healed her ulcer before she used the second box. She says, "I don't think there's a better remedy on earth."

And right she is! Peterson's Ointment contains aids to healing bruised, broken tissues which no other ointment has—it replenishes infected and sickly skin with those very essentials it's starving for—it promotes rapid healing. Generous box only 35 cents. Any drug store.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Suggestions to Aid in Making Reports to Government

(This is the ninth of a series of articles planned to give assistance i n making out federal income tax returns.)

While all net income up to $5,000 is considered earned income for the purpose of the 25 per cent credit which reduces by 25 per cent the amount of tax that otherwise would be due, thousands of returns are received reporting net income part of which was earned and part of which was unearned. Following is an example of how to compute correctly the tax on such a return:

A taxpayer, married and with no dependants, received in 1931 a salary of $4,000, and from a real estate transaction made a net profit of $4,000. His personal exemption is $3,500. The tax rate is 1½ per cent on the first $4,000 in excess of such exemption and 3 per cent on the remainder:

Net income	$8,000
Less personal exemption	$3,500
Balance, taxable income	4,500
1½ per cent on first $4,000	60
3 per cent on remaining $500	15
Total tax	$ 75

But of the $8,000 net income, $5,000 is considered as earned net income. From $5,000 therefore, is deducted the personal exemption of $3,500, the tax on the remaining $1,500 at 1½ per cent amounting to $22.50. Deduct one-fourth of $22.50, or $5.63, from $75, leaving payable a tax of $69.37.

ROSENBAUM'S BASEMENT

DESIGNERS PREDICT SHORT JACKETED SUIT FOR SPRING

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 4.—The mode is about the only phase of our complex existence about which predictions may be made that have a reasonable chance of coming true. Therefore when it was prophesied that this spring would find the short jacket in vogue, and that belts would be on almost everything, we looked for these points at the various new collections and there they were. You will find the short belted jacket on ever so many suits and you will like it for the trig, youthful look it bestows. Suits will be very important, since most of them now feel that our wardrobe is incomplete without at least one model. The suit provides such alternatives with its sweaters and blouses of every description, and it is splendid for general day wear. Light weight woolens in various weaves are well represented. Separate and detachable fur scarves are shown on both suits and coats and are a grand economy move. It's a wonder that we haven't had them long before this. Now we have one garment that can do service on cool days as well as more balmy ones, also giving us a chance to wear our fur scarfs with the collarless coat.

* * *

WE SHOW TODAY advance sketches of suits that are making their appearance at the new collections. Monsieur Worth is one of those predicting the short jacketed suit for spring, of the type shown in the sketch. It is of light weight wool in bright green. The vertical seams which shape the jacket over the bust curve down below the belt and pass into each side seam. They are open at the sides to allow for the insertion of pockets. The skirt is wrapped over at the center front and there is a flat box-pleat at each side. The blouse is of white satin with a scalloped collar, cuffs and front closing. A closer inspection of this suit will reveal that it is not as simple as it looks on first glance.

* * *

CHANTAL IS ANOTHER designer predicting the short belted jacket for spring suits. This particular model is of brown woolen with a diagonal corduroy weave. The blouse is of yellow-green crepe georgette with insets of darker green. There is no collar on the coat, but a separate scarf of dyed squirrel in dark brown is worn for cooler days. The greater part of the curving sleeve is of fur, and the triangular pockets as well. The flaring pleats, placed at the center of the skirt in front, give a barely perceptible width to the straight silhouette.

DRYS GAINING IN DIGEST POLL

The drys again gain an increase over the wets from 19.28 per cent to 22.61 per cent of the total vote, in the third week's returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide Prohibition Poll, with 1,323,285 ballots tabulated, as announced in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

The drys polled 15.85 per cent in the first returns of this "straw" referendum.

The addition of 500,000 more votes from 24 states in the current tally shows 299,207 ballots, 22.61 per cent, for continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment and 1,024,077, or 77.39 per cent, for repeal.

Kansas is the first state to report a dry majority.

The third report of the 1930 Literary Digest Prohibition Poll, asking three questions instead of two, showed a total tabulation of 1,244,483 votes of which 333,978 were for enforcement, 383,117 for modification and 527,388 for repeal.

The third report of the Literary Digest's 1932 poll shows:

2 Beaten in Battle In Ohio Mine Strike

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 4.—Charges and counter charges were filed by Junior and Ivan Wolford, operators of Wolford mine, near Newport, and unionists following the second disturbance at the mine in two weeks. Werner Grewell and Clifton Ward, employes of the mine, were beaten after being dragged from their automobile as they approached the mine with operators. Union sympathizers charge that the Wolfords pointed revolvers at them.

New Army Bomber Visits Airport Here

A bi-motored bomber plane, one of the newest in the United States Army, landed at the County Airport yesterday on its way from Bristol, Pa., to San Diego, Cal. It was in charge of Lieut. Beebe. The craft, built by the Keystone Aircraft Corporation, in Bristol, is one of the largest in the Army.

COLDS

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours . . . what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.

It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MISSION PAIR WED IN CHINA

From war-torn Shanghai comes a wedding announcement telling of the ceremony in that city several weeks ago which united Andrew Torrance, formerly of Pittsburgh, and Miss May Hayes, daughter of a missionary. Torrance, representative of the Sixth Presbyterian Church of Squirrel Hill, in Chinese missionary work, has been in the Orient since 1916.

Torrance is an instructor at the Hamilton Academy for Boys at Tsinanfu. He has a sister, Mrs. C. A. Thomson, of 43 Carrick avenue, Carrick, and two brothers, John and James Torrance, residing in McKeesport.

Mrs. Torrance is a kindergarten instructor in a girls' school at Hangchow. The Rev. Egbert Hayes, brother of the bride, performed the ceremony. After the wedding, the couple left for Tsinanfu, where Torrance will continue his work.

Mrs. Torrance was born in China, but was educated in the United States, spending several years at Columbia University.

3 ENTER RACE FOR ASSEMBLY

John Young of Pitcairn has filed in Harrisburg nomination petitions as a candidate for the Legislature from the Tenth District. He announced he would support establishing of old age pensions and seek a strengthening of the statutes regulating compensation for workmen.

John C. Davis of Mt. Lebanon, in announcing his candidacy for the Legislature from the Twelfth District, declared that if elected he would introduce a bill "that will immediately put everybody to work at good wages." He also is pledged to land tax reforms.

Ronald L. Thompson, commissioner of Mt. Lebanon Township, has announced his platform as a candidate for the Legislature from the Twelfth District. He stands for unemployment relief, fair utility rates and election law reforms.

DEATH CLOTHES GIVEN ROSE

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(INS.)—The clothes Francis A. Donaldson wore on the tragic night he was shot to death, were in the possession of Rose Allen today as keepsakes.

She made a formal request of District Attorney Stewart Nase at Norristown yesterday to gain possession of the torn and stained garments that her sweetheart wore the night he met death at the hands of her brother, Edward H. Allen.

Rose was in a gay mood when she claimed the clothes—in sharp contrast to the somber figure of the girl in black at the murder trial of her brother. She laughed and chatted with the District Attorney, but shunned all questions of the press.

Albert G. H. Lucas, friend of the dead youth, accompanied Rose and drove her back to Philadelphia.

The modiste by whom Rose has been employed for the past few weeks is said to have given her the day off for the trip to Norristown. According to her employer, Rose has proved a conscientious worker.

SKIDS INJURE 1, WRECK AUTOS

Motorcycle Patrolman Anthony Fruth, of Millvale, was recovering at his home today from injuries suffered when his motorcycle collided with a taxicab, and damage of several hundred dollars was caused when a number of automobiles skidded on a "trick" surface of the newly-opened Evergreen avenue, Millvale, last night, according to police.

Fruth suffered torn ligaments in his leg when a taxicab driven by Jack Charbosky, of 1543 Center avenue, and an automobile driven by Michael Fragnac, of 91 High street, Spring Hill, crashed into his motorcycle as the officer was directing traffic.

Police said the crashes were caused when the tar-like surface of the street became slippery during rain fall.

DRIVERS SHUN AUTO TESTS

Of the 1,500,000 motor cars in Pennsylvania, only 620,000 were officially inspected and approved during January and February, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today on receipt of figures from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Harrisburg.

This indicates a rush that may lead to confusion in the last few days of the prescribed period which ends March 31, the club pointed out, in urging that autoists have their machines checked at once by one of the officially designated stations.

Of the cars thus far examined, 84 per cent required repairs or adjustments to safety devices, the figures disclose. After April 1 drivers of unapproved cars will be subject to arrest and fine.

CHILD DROWNS IN LILY POND

Two-year-old Conrad Carothers was drowned yesterday afternoon when he fell into a lily pond in the rear of his grandmother's home in Lincoln Township, according to ... Coroner's report.

The child, at play, was believed to have toppled from a plank which had been laid across it. He was found in the water by his mother, who said her view of the pond was obstructed by a garage. Efforts to revive the child proved futile. The pond is only 15 inches deep.

Mackey Candidate For State Assembly

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(AP.)—Former Mayor Harry A. Mackey has announced he will seek the Republican nomination for Representative in the Legislature in the April primary.

At the same time it was indicated that he probably will support Edward Lowber Stokes, banker and candidate for William S. Vare, for Congress from the Sixth Philadelphia District.

Mount Mercy Plans Cornerstone Laying

The Sisters of Mercy and students Monday will celebrate the laying of the cornerstone for their new Activities Building at Mt. Mercy College, Fifth avenue.

Flanking the brow of the hill campus the new building is being erected to house the extra-curricular activities of the students. The building will be of brick and stone.

Lillian Davis, Stage Star, Dies in England

MANCHESTER, England, March 4.—(AP.)—Lillian Davies, the noted English actress, known to American theatergoers principally as Katja Karina in "Katja the Dancer," died here yesterday in her thirty-eighth year after an operation in a nursing home.

100 Per Cent Increase In Water Rate Asked

The Ingomar Water Company has filed a new schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission, effective April 1, increasing domestic flat rates 100 per cent. The company furnishes water to Ingomar and McCandless Township.

The rate will be increased from $6 a quarter to $12, the company notified the commission. The new meter rate provides for a minimum charge of $6 per quarter for the first 9,000 gallons of water used. Over that amount the rate will be 5 cents per 100 gallons for the next 6,000 gallons, and 10 cents per gallon for all over 15,000 gallons.

GIRL SLASHED, LANDLORD HELD

Caroline Schmitt, 13-year-old schoolgirl, of 1600 Rutherford street, was recovering from cuts on both cheeks today which she says she suffered when their landlord, Nicolas Perri, of 1624 Metnyl street, shattered two windows of the Schmitt home because the Schmitts were two months behind in payment of rent.

Perri posted bond last night for a hearing before Alderman Jacob Yeager, on charges of aggravated assault and battery and surety of the peace, preferred by the girl's mother, Mrs. Bertha Schmitt.

Man Fined $5 After Theater Disturbance

Frank Mitchell, 29, of 2622 Brewer street, ejected from the Academy Theater yesterday by Special Patrolman Frank Diamond, "took a punch" at the officer. Diamond, once a boxer, did a little punching himself and then took Mitchell to jail.

Musical Comedy At Ingomar School

A musical comedy, "The Price of Pasadena," will be given tomorrow night in the Ingomar school house by the Dringomar Players under the direction of Esther C. M. Mowry. The cast includes 30 players and two pianists.

Malone Shuns Role In Play Critic Row

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Dudley Field Malone yesterday sent Dr. William I. Sirovich, chairman of the House Committee on Patents and Copyrights, a telegram declining to serve as professional adviser in the committee's inquiry into present-day theatrical criticism.

Holdup Men Slash Throat of Victim

Victor Pearson, 45, of 1807 Bailey avenue, McKeesport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today with a severely slashed throat and lacerations of the head suffered when he said he was attacked by two Negroes in Railroad street, McKeesport, last night, according to a hospital report.

X-Ray of Estelle Follows Stage Offer

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(AP.)—Estelle Taylor, screen actress, expected today to learn from X-ray plates whether she can accept an offer telegraphed her yesterday to star in a New York musical comedy. An examination was made to determine whether spinal injuries Miss Taylor received in a Christmas Eve automobile accident have mended sufficiently.

Durant Glass Plant Buyers Revealed

Papers filed in the office of the clerk of the Federal District Court disclosed Norman Howells and W. L. Heim as the buyers of the property of the American Plate Glass Corporation in Durant, near Kane, Pa., sold at auction sale February 13 for $45,000.

Edgar M. Moore, of Pittsburgh, who acted as purchasing agent, filed a document directing M. L. Peterson, special master appointed by the court, to convey the deeds to Howells and Heim. The property was sold under a decree of the Federal Court, in an equity action brought against the corporation by the Kane Bank and Trust Company.

Lindy News Told By Globe-Trotter

With the entire country waiting for latest developments in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, WCAE listeners get the news first from Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

James J. Long, sports authority of the Sun-Telegraph, gives his weekly review of sports activities throughout the country over WCAE tonight at 7.

None of Pittsburgh's bargains escapes the watchful eye of Peggy, who gives chatty hints as to what to buy and where, at 9 a. m. during WCAE's "Peggy's Tips" broadcast.

Everyone enjoys the instrumental solos, songs and recitations of kiddies during the Sun-Telegraph Family Period on WCAE at 4:45.

Get rid of BUZZING TUBES

EVEN fairly new radios sometimes sound as though bees had set up housekeeping. Don't blame static . . or the set. The choicest squeals, rat-tat-tatting, and rasping may be the death rattle of one tired-out tube.

Even a tube only six months old often makes noises. If your set is that old or older . . take your tubes to a dealer . . have them tested . . replace the bad ones with new Sylvania radio tubes. Sylvania tubes don't cause noises so frequently believed to be static. They've been tested for a set like yours. At present low prices, even a full set of Sylvania tubes costs very little.

DOW'S

LISTENING IN

With the Radio Editor

EARLY BIRDS and night hawks alike can find plenty of entertainment on WJAS from 3 to 4 a. m. tomorrow. With a program which is part of a nationwide DX week observance, the Pittsburgh station, operating on a clear channel of 1,250 kilocycles, expects to be heard around the world.

Nell Galbraith

Chief Engineer Walter McCoy and four announcers, Howard E. Clark, Paul C. Munroe, Joseph Boley and James F. Murray, miss their accustomed sleep to present the program which will include the Galbraith Sisters, Nell, Mary Louise and Jeanne; the Five Aristocrats, the Rhythmic Trio, Will Potter and the Band Moderne, Paramount String Trio, George Lyle, baritone; Margaret-mary Hagarty and Herbert Fritsche.

When George Seibel, dramatic and literary editor of the Sun-Telegraph, speaks on an NBC network, including WCAE, at 5 o'clock this afternoon, he is expected to tell something of Gerhart Hauptmann, Germany's foremost poet and dramatist, an old friend whom he went to New York to welcome. Hauptmann came to this country to take part in the commemoration of the centenary of the death of Goethe, to whom the modern writer bears a most striking resemblance.

Incidentally, the invitation extended Mr. Seibel for the chain broadcast was in recognition of the popularity and quality of his regular Wednesday and Sunday evening programs on WCAE.

Program Pointers

"Today and Yesterday," which replaces the News Dramas, makes its initial appearance on WJAS at 8:30 tonight with a presentation of present economic conditions and those attending William Jennings Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" speech in 1893.

Allan Jones, the former Beaver Falls taxi driver, whose domestic affairs were aired recently in local courts when Mrs. Jones sued the enchanting Frances Williams for alienation of affections, is guest tenor with Leo Reisman's Orchestra on WCAE at 9:30.

Willie and Eugene Howard, the famous musical comedy funmakers, are with Leonard Joy's Orchestra on KDKA at 8.

Don Ameche plays the title role in "Beau Bachelor," romantic personification of night life on two continents, which makes its debut on WJAS tonight.

Five months ago, a battalion of Royal Canadian Mounted at Chesterfield Inlet, in the Far North, sent a request to KDKA for "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." It just arrived, and Adam McNaughton sings it at 5 in the Homey and Old-Fashioned program.

Peggy Fears Blumenthal, former Ziegfeld beauty who married a millionaire real estate man, is interviewed in the Bath Club program on WJAS at 8. Peggy is returning to Broadway soon as sponsor of Preston Sturges' new play, "Child of Manhattan."

WWSW has three hours of sport broadcast tonight, starting first with the basketball game between Tech and Duquesne, and following with the fight from the Arena.

Question Box

What has become of Peter Higgins?—D. H. J., Mt. Washington.

Pittsburgh's most famous young tenor is still under RKO contract. Listen in on the Theater of the Air, WCAE at 10:30 tonight, and hear him in his first radio appearance in several months.

Fan Fare

Gladys Britain, "Evening in Paris" star, is featured in the new "Today and Yesterday" broadcast ... She's been in radio only a year ... It's a puzzle when Joe Sartory sleeps ... Always on the job at WWSW ... Don't miss Grace Moore in Massenet's "Manon" on WCAE from the Metropolitan Opera tomorrow afternoon ... Billy Jones and Ernie Hare are back East to start their new series Monday ... Ilo May Bailey walked into Lee Sims' piano school to take piano lessons ... Now they're Mr. and Mrs. Sims ... Mary Wood, NBC soprano, suffered "mike-fright" in her first transcontinental broadcast ... The Revelers sing for President Hoover Saturday and then start a concert tour ... Kelvin Keech is Scotch.

Miss Britain

Jimmy Melton has turned down three magazine offers for his private spaghetti la Reve recipe.

There's hardly room for anything but sound effects at KQV when the Pirate Club goes on the air. Rolling thunder, a storm with shrieking wind, the dash of waves against a cliff and a deep-toned gong go to make up a background for the program.

Julia Sanderson wanted to be a playwright when she was a little girl . . . Ruth Lyon has missed only one broadcast during her two years on the air, . . . Martha Boswell studies portrait painting . . . Graham Harris, who creates spooky tunes for Sherlock Holmes and the Mounties, is afraid of bats . . . Nat Shilkret writes 105 special arrangements a month, . . . Vaughn de Leath says her fan mail for the last 10 years, averaging 10,000 letters a month, has made Uncle Sam richer by $20,000 . . . There's one sister-act which boasts it doesn't use rouge or lipstick . . . Sisters of the Skillet, of course.

Beatrice Fairfax, who started her new evening program on KDKA last night, says she wants to give the men a chance to hear her love-lorn advice because she gets as many letters from men as from women.

Henry Ford is a jewsharp addict, and, according to Dad Pickard, of the Pickard Family, the auto magnate is the best player of that lowly instrument in the country. Dad Pickard, after an NBC broadcast one night, played jewsharp duets with the Detroit industrialist at his home and ought to know.

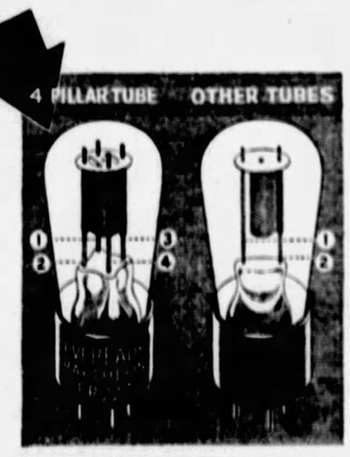
IT'S EASY TO SEE...WHY

ACCURATE TUBES

MAKE A DIFFERENCE



Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a tub-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

IF YOU want a sharp, clear photograph, you make sure your camera is accurately focused . . . or if you want the exact time, you consult an accurate watch. In the same way, if you want faithful reception from your radio, with each musical note strong, true and well-rounded, with speech that is living instead of metallic and harsh, be sure to use tubes which you know are accurate.

EVEREADY RAYTHEON 4-PILLAR TUBES have rigid strength, to safeguard their vital accuracy. Four sturdy pillars anchor their elements in place, one at each corner of a square. Ordinary tubes use only two supports . . . and their elements are easily jolted out of position by the knocks and vibration of handling and usage.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

Eveready Raytheon Tubes are Quick Heaters. Don't be fooled by tubes of the old, slow-heater type with which the market is flooded. A modern tube should heat up in 10 seconds or less. Time it yourself!

GERMAN TO WED 'PETER PAN'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—The little girl who first won worldwide prominence in the screen version of Sir James Barrie's "Peter Pan" is to marry within a week. Little Betty Bronson, who was chosen from hundreds of applicants by James Barrie himself, will be the bride of Ludwig Laeurseville, N. C.

Prospective bride- ...ars ago when she ... brother at Oxford. ... Heidelberg. Mr. Lauerha... ...ned to be in London at the ...e. He was charmed with the simplicity of the screen actress. After a tempestuous wooing, Betty permitted him only a few days ago to slip a beautiful star sapphire and diamond ring on her engagement finger.

The wedding will be a very quiet one. The bride and bridegroom will leave shortly for a trip abroad.

It is interesting, I think, that Betty will marry about the same time as the original Peter Pan, the boy for whom Sir James Barrie wrote his play.

NOTED PIANIST, D'ALBERT, DIES

RIGA, Latvia, March 4.—(AP.)—Eugen D'Albert, Anglo-German composer and pianist, died here yesterday. He was 68.

D'Albert, who had been described as "the world's most married man genius," came to Riga to obtain a divorce from his eighth wife, Hilda Fels D'Albert. His home was at Lugano, Switzerland.

He was world famous as an interpreter of Bach, Brahms and Beethoven, and made many tours of the United States.

Wife of Writer Seeks Separation

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lydia Shorn Bradford, wife of Roark Bradford, New Orleans novelist and short story writer, filed suit for separation yesterday in Civil District Court, charging abandonment. The petition asks $500 a month alimony, declaring the writer's income is approximately $1,500 a month.

Bradford, one of whose novels furnished material for Marc Connelly's play, "The Green Pastures," was charged in the petition with abandoning his wife in January, 1931.

Estate Judge Ponders Disposition of Rum

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 4.—(AP.)—Probate Judge Travis B. Williams is in a quandary. Listed among the assets of the estate of the late Christine Reitz by appraisers was "quantity of liquors, value undetermined."

Judge Williams says inasmuch as the liquor is contraband, it cannot be distributed among the heirs. Miss Reitz was a sister of the late Francis Joseph Reitz, widely known for his Catholic philanthropies.

Stadtfeld Rebuff Laid To Early Apathy.

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Down in Harrisburg in administration circles they will tell you that the failure of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld to be placed on the organization Republican slate for election to the Superior Court was due primarily to early apathy of the Judge's Allegheny County friends, and not to the pact recently made by the Governor with William S. Vare, which secured backing for Judge William M. Parker, of Venango County, just appointed to Superior Court by Mr. Pinchot.

Mr. Shields

There is no effort within the Pinchot circle to conceal the fact that the Governor authorized the deal with Philadelphia affecting Parker and Judge William B. Linn, promoted to the Supreme Court. But the administration contends that this bargain cannot be taken as a slight to Stadtfeld. His opportunity had come when the slate-makers were at work when there were only two Superior Court places to be voted on, and when the Philadelphia organization, through William S. Vare, picked former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James rather than the Pittsburgh jurist to run with Judge Robert Gawthrop.

* * *

Leader Reported Not Being Much Interested

They will tell you that Pittsburgh organization politicians were asked weeks ago what they were doing about Stadtfeld. And at that time nothing was being done. Indeed, it is reported that one of the so-called leaders out here replied that he wasn't much interested in Judge Stadtfeld, and that there was not much concern here about the Superior Court.

If that story is true, and I have every reason to believe it is, one begins to find out why James was thrust through. And once slated no power on earth could make Bill Vare shunt him aside, for he owes James much in redress for past slights, and was determined to go through with the debt payment this time, once he had made public announcement of James' slating.

The time to have done something for Stadfeldt was last fall and in early January, before the tentative slate was picked. When the rally finally was made, the political gentlemen not becoming zealous until the judge's friends at the bar and among the laity and the Pittsburgh newspapers demanded recognition of his ability, the door had been closed.

It was only because of the third place becoming an issue through the elevation of Judge Linn from the Superior Court that the door even became slightly ajar again. And that opening was curtained through the Pinchot-Vare agreement.

* * *

Is Appointed During Commissioner Contest

It might be recalled that the appointment of Judge Stadtfeld to the Superior Court was made during the last campaign for County Commissioner. It was urged by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and other friends of the judge who were interested in an Independent victory. There has been a general disposition to believe that the activity of McGovern in Stadtfeld's behalf gained some assistance for Commissioner C. M. Barr, whom McGovern was backing against the combined forces of Mayor Kline, Senator James J. Coyne, E. R. Crawford and Commissioner William D. Mansfield, who were trying to elect the Democrat, David L. Lawrence.

Judge Stadtfeld had no part in that turn of sympathy through any action of his own. And if politics did play a primary part in his appointment, then, because of the judge's ability, it was one move of politics out of which the people got a break through securing his services.

* * *

Binding Nature of Agreement Revealed

Some organization men contend that McGovern should have fought a Pinchot-Vare bargain for Parker so long as Stadtfeld was left out. I doubt if he knew of the agreement. Certainly many of the Philadelphia leaders, who leaned toward the slating of Stadtfeld in the conference in the East last Sunday did not. Nor, I am convinced, did Gen. Martin.

The binding nature of the agreement did not become known until the Philadelphia leaders came to Harrisburg Wednesday and bluntly said they must back Parker because of Vare.

I am afraid that Judge Stadtfeld, an able and sincere gentleman, unwittingly became a pawn of politics, and until the agitation of men and women interested in the betterment of the bench became so insistent in his behalf a short time ago, I am constrained to wonder just how much enthusiasm there was for him among some organization politicians of Allegheny County, as they remember an election only a few months gone, when their effort to take over the County government was blocked.

5 More Girls Win in Air Voice Test

5 MORE GIRLS WIN IN WCAE VOICE TEST

Allegheny Valley Group Selected For Finals In Hunt For 'Sweetest Voice'

Only 15 more girls remain to be selected for the final eliminations next week in the contest sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and radio station WCAE at the Alvin Theater this week to find the Pittsburgh girl with the "sweetest voice." When the contest closes tomorrow night 35 winners will have been chosen from the South Side, East End, Monongahela Valley, Allegheny Valley, Turtle Creek Valley, Ohio Valley and city and suburban districts.

JUDGES GIVE ADVICE

The judges were Miss Marjorie Stewart, of the Microphone Theater; Mouris S. Albertson, division traffic supervisor, Bell Telephone System, and Mrs. Byron King, Jr., of the Byron W. King School of Oratory. Mr. Albertson's advice to girls who will have auditions tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening is:

"Avoid nasal tones and a monotonous, mechanical voice. What we looked for last night was enunciation and proper inflection combined with a natural sweetness."

Mrs. King advises aspirants to instill a quality of sincerity in their voices which will express the individuality of the speaker.

Miss Stewart said:

"I believe Pittsburgh girls are becoming air-minded. Girls in these auditions have shown an intense interest in possessing a beautiful voice. Above all they should not feel they are talking into an inanimate microphone. They should sell their personality and individuality to the living audience which hears them."

PRACTICE METHODS

Some of the girls disclaimed any preparation for their auditions. Others revealed weeks of practice in reading aloud to families and friends. Several high school girls received special instruction from their dramatic and public-speaking teachers, they said. One girl received training reading aloud to a sick woman. Another has been drinking hot lemonade all week to clear up her voice, left husky from a cold.

After each girl had finished her audition she was permitted to join the audience to listen to her competitors and to watch the elaborate stage show of radio stars which followed midway and at the end of the auditions.

Last night's audience was the largest and the most appreciative of any which has attended the auditions. Those who attended previous nights evidently have passed the word about to their neighbors and friends that the best show in Pittsburgh is at the Alvin this week. The "air stars" have lost any shyness which may have characterized their first

RELIEF LEADERS TO ASK PUBLIC BOND ISSUE

City, County Funds Sought To Help Destitute Here; Increasing Pleas Cited

A large issue of bonds by city and county will be asked by Allegheny County Emergency Association leaders to meet the need for from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 relief funds which it is estimated will be required within the next year.

Both the Welfare Fund and Emergency Association were represented at the meeting where the decision was reached. A committee was appointed and will confer soon with County Commissioners and City Council.

The need for immediate funds also was stressed and a committee named to seek ways and means to get cash either through public subscription or by borrowing. Relief cases in the city have virtually doubled since November 1, 1931, and the increase in requests for help is described as "overwhelming."

An effort to avoid, if possible, another public campaign for subscriptions before fall was indicated. The sense of the meeting was stated as favoring the appeal for public funds, inasmuch as every effort has already been made to raise money by private subscription.

The city and county have set up this year approximately $600,000 for relief, it was stated. The proportion is much less than in other large cities of the country, Emergency Association leaders stated.

The committee to confer with public authorities includes Frank B. Bell, Thomas A. Dunn, Edmund W. Mudge, John F. Casey and Philip Mathews.

The committee on ways and means inclues A. E. Braun, H. B. Rust, Irvin F. Lehman, A. K. Oliver and C. F. Lewis.

ALBERT TANGORA GIVING A FEW TIPS TO MISS STELLA JOOS

Mr. Tangora, world's speed typing champion four times, in Pittsburgh to demonstrate his skill and speed—132 words a minute.

ARCHDUKE OTTO, PRETENDER, ILL

BRUSSELS, March 4.—(AP.)—Archduke Otto O. Hapsburg, young pretender to the Austrian throne, was ill of chicken pox and appendicitis today at Steenockerzeel Castle, the family home near here.

No alarm over his condition was expressed in the announcement from the castle, however. He spent a good night, it was said.

Kaufmann Proposed As G. O. P. Delegate

Petitions were put in circulation yesterday to place the name of Edgar J. Kaufmann, of the Fourth Ward, head of the Kaufmann Department Store, on the Republican primary ballot as a candidate for delegate to the national convention from the Thirty-second Congressional District. The papers were being circulated by followers of State Senator James J. Coyne.

Nominating petitions were taken out yesterday from the County Election Bureau for Hattie McCaffery, of McDonald, as a candidate for membership on the Republican state commitee from the Forty-fifth Senatorial District; Jacob Shenkel, of the Nineteenth Ward, as a candidate for the Legislature from the Sixth District.

TYPIST GIVES SPEED RULES

One rule on how to be a champion—in anything—was given today by Albert Tangora, of Paterson, N. J., four times world champion of speed typewriting, as he gave a demonstration in Boggs and Buhl's store. It is:

"Make up your mind right at the start."

That's exactly what Tangora did when he first enrolled for a two months' course at a Paterson business school. In a preliminary test he wrote 78 words a minute without any previous training. Then he decided there was no good reason why he couldn't be the best in the world.

In winning the International Typewriting contest at Sacramento, Cal., in 1928, he made his best time, writing 132 errorless words a minute for 60 minutes.

Tangora also will give demonstrations at the store tomorrow.

Turtle Creek Man Hurt in Auto Crash

Stewart Freshwater, of 342 Albert street, Turtle Creek, suffered lacerations of the head and face and a leg injury when an automobile in which he was riding plunged over an embankment in the Wilmerding-Turtle Creek road early today. He was taken to McKeesport Hospital.

SECRET BALLOT URGES END OF LAW, 3 TO 1

Modification and State Control Plans Also Given Margin; Oppose U. S. Rule

By a 3-to-1 vote the members of the Allegheny County bar are on record today as favoring the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The result of the secret ballot under the auspices of the Bar Association was announced last night by Chairman John E. Laughlin. Ballots were sent to 1,778 lawyers. The vote was by mail. 1,221 lawyers balloting on four questions as follows:

Favoring modification to permit light wines and beer 643, against 249.

Favoring regulation of liquor traffic by the state 670, against 227.

Eugene D. Strassburger, Robert T. Houlden, Albert C. Hirsch and William K. Johnson were the other members of the committee.

The tellers included Joseph G. Rebel, Ralph M. Blair, Herbert T. Sorg, Francis P. Anton, Robert H. Ireland, William H. Markus and J. Randolph Thomas.

BIRD DRAWINGS EXHIBITED

By PENELOPE REDD.

The Junior League is exhibiting through March 11 pictures of birds by Rex Brashar, of Chicksdee Valley, Kent, Conn. Mr. Brashear made original drawings, which were reproduced and colored by hair and air brush. Ignorance of the refinements of the ornithologist's pictorial standards compels this comment to be limited to the decorative aspect.

Penelope Redd

The drawings have complete freedom from the conventionalized style of the Japanese, which is so familiar that it is accepted as our basis for judgment.

Mr. Brashar has the advantage of intense enthusiasm for his subject and just enough lack of technical training to imbue his results with the flaver of the primitive now so appreciated. "Upland Plover" in a clover field: "Florest and Calliope Humming Birds," and "Chickadee" demonstrate this engaging effect.

"Baltimore Orioles," "Derley Flycatchers" and "San Pedro Bluebirds" beckon one to invent decorative uses for many of these friendly pictures.

Mr. Brashar has devoted his life to the portraiture of birds. He has made 3,300 sketches representing 1,200 species from the United States. The prints exhibited are similar to those used as illustrations for his monumental published works.

CAMPBELL GETS UNION BACKING

Congressman Guy E. Campbell, of the Thirty-fourth District, candidate in the Republican primary to succeed himself, has been indorsed by Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, according to James F. Gallagher, member of the organization.

President Patrick Fagan, addressing the organization's meeting last night in Carpenters' Hall, reviewed Campbell's labor record and said the Congressman always voted in the interest of the workingman.

"Independent" Republicans of the North Side have indorsed the candidacies of Anthony Lucas and Herman P. Young, as members of the General Assembly from the Eighth Legislative District. The candidates are pledged to work for election law reforms, lower public utility rates and blue law revisions.

Swissvale Man Held in Car Theft

James Flaherty, of 7337 Burton street, Swissvale, was under arrest today, accused of stealing an auto. Swissvale police reported that Flaherty was arrested while driving about the borough in the auto of Myers Miller, of McKee way, Wilkinsburg, which had been stolen a few hours earlier.

NEW ASSEMBLY SESSION URGED

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(INS.)—A huge mass meeting will be held tomorrow in Convention Hall here, with the object of forcing Gov. Gifford Pinchot to call another special session of the Legislature to enact measures for the unemployed.

The meeting is sponsored by the Central Labor Union of Philadelphia. Officials of the union say organized labor, welfare organizations and the American Legion will take part.

Senator Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, will be the principal speaker. Other speakers include William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; John A. Phillips, state industrial commissioner and president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; the Rev. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Council, and Gov. Pinchot.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 4.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Did you ever see such a day? Nobody feels like doing anything or taking any interest in anything. The attention of the world is on a little curly-haired baby. Till he is found we can't get back to normal. Never, since the two days and a night that this same kid's father was out over the Atlantic, has the attention of everybody been centered so completely on one thing. The greatest single "kick" that a whole nation got, outside of the signing of the Armistice, was when the news was flashed that Lindbergh had landed in Paris. The next one, we hope and pray, will be when this baby is delivered safe home. Yours, WILL.

Mother Agatha Asks Friends to View Improvements

One hundred and sixty former inmates of the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged will be "back home" this afternoon. The 90 women and 70 men were taken care of at private homes and the James P. Wall Memorial Home, 1028 Benton avenue, North Side, since the night of July 24, when fire destroyed the institution and claimed 47 lives.

The old home has been transformed into a new, light, airy building, at a cost of $400,000. Many additions and improvements have been made. The chapel has been rebuilt, a new fireproof roof erected, floors are terrazzo, and all doors covered with steel. Five extra stairways have been installed, and in three sections of each floor of the four-story building fire hose encased in a steel cabinet, with fire alarm boxes installed throughout.

Mother Superior Agatha announced that the public is invited to inspect the home Sunday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the England Breaks Ancient Custom By Paying U. S.

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Europe is sore at England for paying us that 250,000,000 smackers.

It establishes a bad precedent.

The tight little isle loosened up and laid it on the line six months ahead of time. The money was borrowed to boost the English pound. In other words, let me have a dollar, will ya? I want to fool a guy.

Did you read that the dentists claim we are hoarding our gold in our back teeth? At the present rate of 18 karat filling all the world's gold will be in our mouths by 1990.

Then hijackers will have to have medical diplomas so they can stick you up and make you say, "Ah."

England's premature payment of the debt took us by surprise. It was just like a man stepping out of a bread line and handing us a piece of cake.

COX PROPOSES NEW UTILITIES COMPANIES

Assails High Rates, Tax Dodging; Judge Marshall Urges Care in Balloting

Pittsburgh should get rid of all its present public utilities and start new companies if the public is not given an even break, the Rev. James R. Cox declared in an address last night at a meeting of the Seventh Ward Community Club in the Liberty School. Father Cox was one of several speakers who addressed members of the organization, celebrating the club's affiliation with the Allied Boards of Trade.

James Porter, president of the club, opened the meeting and introduced Arch Looney, who presented the speakers. Besides Father Cox, speakers were Ray C. Dever, of the Bureau of Elections; Judge Thomas R. Marshall, and Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, candidate for Congress from the Thirty-third District.

SCORES TAX DODGING

Father Cox declared the utilities based their rates on inflated valuations, meanwhile escaping taxes on their properties. He declared that, had the utilities been properly taxed, it would not have been necessary for the city to furlough 400 police and firemen.

Judge Marshall asked the members of the club to consider deeply their duty of casting ballots at election time. He said the community spirit is necessary to promote civic welfare.

URGES VOTE REFORMS

Dever declared in favor of permanent registration, continuing:

"Why should we pay 50 cents to be permitted to vote and then stand in line at the treasurer's office for hours to get our receipt? And while we stand in line the politician takes a long list to a side window and gets served.

"We need adjustment of the election laws to clear away any possibility of fraud. The elections in the past have been swung by phantoms. The last one proved that if the people want good men in office they can put them there."

Unitarian Head Here for Conference

Malcolm C. Rees, of Boston, administrative vice president of the Unitarian Laymen's League, will address a meeting tonight at the First Unitarian Church. He was to confer with lay leaders of the Unitarian Church in this city today.

Mr. Rees.

The league chapter of the First Unitarian Church is sponsoring tonight's meeting. The League is a Canadian-American organization of men active in church life.

BARBER SHOP ROMANCE ENDS

The barber shop romance of Jessie Heselbarth, 39, 133 Brown avenue, Turtle Creek, and Carl S. Heselbarth, 40, 600 West Main street, ended yesterday in Common Pleas Court when Judge Ambrose B. Reid granted her a divorce for desertion.

Heselbarth operated a barber shop in the Westinghouse Building and his wife was a manicurist there when they were married January 19, 1928. He left her in their Carrick home May 8, 1929, she testified. She said:

"We got along until he started drinking heavily. He would come home and act like somebody crazy. I pleaded with him to take care of his business. He told me it was none of my affair. He just said he was tired of responsibilities."

3 Gunmen Hold Up Jacktown Garage

IRWIN, March 4.—Three bandits held up Carl Proctor, attendant, in the Jacktown Hotel garage, on the Lincoln Highway west of Irwin, and took $45 from the register early today.

HONOR LINEMEN AS HEROES

Four men employed as linemen by the Duquesne Light Company were honored by company officials through the presentation of medals for saving the lives of two persons. The presentation took place today in the office of E. W. Judy, vice president and general manager of the company.

Edward P. McGroarty, Frank Powell and John C. Schofield were given National Safety Council president's medals and Steve Whitmore was given a certificate of merit for valuable assistance. Cash awards also were given the men.

'POOR' RECLUSE WILLS $30,000

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(Universal)—Death today unfolded the secret pages in the life of an old, gray-haired women, a recluse, who passed quietly and as a miser through life while she hoarded a fortune of $30,000 beneath her dress.

The body of Mrs. Viola Kaufman, 77, lies in a funeral home here awaiting word from some relative who may be living.

A will found in her personal effects leaves her entire fortune to the Birth Control Clinical Research Bureau, West Sixteenth street, New York City.

BANK HEARINGS ADVANCED

Hearings for Herman Friedman, mortgage broker, and Charles A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan have been advanced two days from March 14 to March 12.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, counsel for Bardolph and assisting in the defense of Friedman, is also one of the defense counsel for Mayor Charles H. Kline, whose trial is scheduled for March 14 at Butler.

Friedman and Bardolph, together with R. T. Armstrong, vice president of the bank, and David Kellerman, produce merchant, have posted bonds for their hearings on charges brought by George F. Taylor, Jr., Deputy State Secretary of Banking, in connection with the affairs of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company. The hearing for Armstrong and Kellerman will be held March 14.

Mother Agatha said:

"As we are very grateful to all the residents of Pittsburgh who helped to rebuild the home, we fell it would be a pleasure for them to visit us Sunday. Catholics, Protestants and Jews contributed money during the drive for funds that followed the fire and enabled us to continue our work, and we are very grateful."

Duquesne Incline Bridge Nearly Ready

Contractors constructing the overhead bridge across Carson street at the Duquesne Incline said today they expected to have the bridge ready for use in a few days. Stairways lead from the bridge to the sidewalks and safety zones. It was built at a cost of $18,000.

TAX COLLECTOR AUDIT FINISHED

Auditors for the County Commissioners are compiling the result of their investigation of the accounts of 10 deputy delinquent tax collectors which will be submitted to the commissioners in a few days.

One of the audits includes that of the books of L. R. Mechling, of Wilkinsburg, a deputy collector of the 1929 delinquent tax list of that borough, whose accounts have been reported short. Mechling hanged himself the day after the probe of his accounts started.

John Brown, Jr., County Delinquent Tax Collector, has been advised of the shortage. Mechling's bond was for $60,000. At the time of his death, Mechling was charged with an uncollected balance of $22,000. The original sum given him to collect was $76,000.

DRUGGIST HURT IN CRASH DIES

James D. Leslie, 51, a pharmacist, of the Oakland Apartments, Forbes and Halket streets, died yesterday in West Penn Hospital from a cerebral hemorrhage which developed, duputy coroners said, from injuries suffered in a collision of two automobiles, in the Boulevard of the Allies three months ago.

Mrs. Kate Arenth, 76, of 350 South Highland avenue, was in St. Francis Hospital today with injuries suffered last night when an automobile driven by her son-in-law, S. J. Heimbuecher, Jr., of 350 South Highland avenue, in which she was riding, collided with another car. A man and woman in the second car abandoned it and fled, according to police reports, and it was towed away by the officers.

Minnie Youngo, 19, of Cadogan, Pa., was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital for bruises suffered in a collision of two automobiles at Fifth avenue and Beechwood boulevard, late yesterday.

Chrysler, Former Auto Executive, Dies

LA JOLLA, Cal., March 4.—(AP.)—Edward E. Chrysler, 60, former executive of the General Motors Corporation and a brother of Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, died here yesterday.

Because of poor health, Chrysler retired from the General Motors Corporation in 1918 and came to California.

KERR TO REVEAL SCHOOLEY DATA

Controller James P. Kerr, who several days ago received a report of the audit of the office of deposed City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, will make known the results of the probe tomorrow or Monday, he said today.

The audit is known to criticize severely the manner in which the revenues of the city were collected, but does not go into the subject of disbursements. The audit of the school accounts will not be placed in Dr. Kerr's hands, by Price, Waterhouse & Co., which made the audit, before another week, as a few details are yet to be collected.

Dr. Kerr, who was away for several days, said today he has not had time to read the report, which, it is understood, covers more than 200 pages, with recommendations regarding a better bookkeeping system.

15 Families Flee Fire in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(AP.)—The $500,000 four-story plant of the Philadelphia Toilet and Laundry Company and six frame dwellings in the rear were destroyed by fire today, forcing 15 families to flee.

Two firemen were hurt and a night watchman narrowly escaped injury when a five-ton machine fell into the basement. He had left two minutes previously.

ACTORS' EXPERIENCE

Accustomed to a silent, uncritical "mike," it was an entirely new experience to most of them to have to be seen as well as heard. Instead of being able to concentrate their energies on voice, they found themselves also dependent for their success on visible presentation of their art.

Every night this week they have been welding the visual and auditory bond which will link them closer than ever to their silent radio audience in the future. The stars were warmly received last night. When Ford Miller, master of ceremonies introduced them by name, they were greeted by applause before they could begin.

PROGRAM FEATURES

Dave Levin, WCAE maestro's interpretation of "Song of India" was a thing of exquisite beauty. Dave Olson, Pittsburgh's own "Seth Parker" did a comedy turn with Sam Custer which brought many a laugh. They both sing, too. Helene Ward, a newcomer to radio, but well known in vaudeville sang two numbers, "Who's Your Little Whoozit" and "On Saturday Morning," a circus song.

WCAE'S Novelty Trio, with Ralph Federer, pianist; Kathryn Rickert, violinist, and Alyce Martin, 'cello, furnished music for a series of short comedy "blackouts." Ford Miller, getting tired of announcing titles of popular songs played by WCAE'S orchestra, got half a dozen pretty blondes from the chorus to do it for him. Just before the second half of the auditions began, the master of ceremonies was rudely interrupted by what appeared to b. a stage hand equipped with overalls and a broom. It turned out to be Sonny Joy, without his "pork-chop" (banjo to you). Leota and Jean, a dance team, did several snappy numbers.

The last half of the show had a night-club setting, with the stars at tables. Ford Miller had his hands full with Dave Olson, who was "out for a good time in the big city." A grand finale, with all the stars on the stage, closed the show with a bang.

Tonight is set aside for girls from the Turtle Creek Valley and near downtown Pittsburgh including Braddock, East Pittsburgh, Edgewood, Rankin, Swissvale, Wilkinsburg, North Bessemer, North Braddock, Pitcairn, Trafford, Turtle Creek, Wilmerding, Braeburn, Cairnbrook, Claridge and Linhart.

JOIN HOTEL MEN IN DRY FIGHT

Members of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association today announced that the organization has forwarded to President Hoover a copy of its recently-adopted resolution protesting the prohibition laws and asking the control of liquor sales be placed in the hands of the states.

The resolution is similar to that adopted last month by the American Hotel Association of the United States and Canada and charges that hotels and cafes face financial ruin due to diversion of their legitimate trade to "illegal clubs, speakeasies and similar places."

Ex-Dancer Divorces Movie Producer

Superior Judge Joseph Call listened to Brock's testimony that his income recently had fallen from $750 a week to $350 a week and ordered him to pay his former wife $100 a month for two months. The court refused her request for recognition of a property settlement under which Brock had agreed to pay her $75 a week for two years.

Vatican to Build New Observatory

VATICAN CITY, March 4.—(AP.)—Father Stein, the Vatican astronomer, said today he had concluded arrangements with a German company for the construction of a new observatory at Castle Gandolfo, the Pope's summer residence.

Chicago Became City Just 95 Years Ago

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP.)—It was 95 years ago today that Chicago peeked into the census records as a city, changing from the classification of a town. The population then was 4,170.

Since then Chicago has grown to a population estimated by Frederick Rex, municipal librarian, at 3,491,635. Rex said there were 38 states in the Union with fewer people than that.

Britain Cuts Credit On Soviet Exports

LONDON, March 4.—(AP.)—Credits for longer than one year will no longer be extended to Soviet Russia on British exports, except under more stringent conditions than have prevailed in the past, the government has declared.

The announcement was made in the House of Commons yesterday. The exact nature of the conditions was not set out and it was explained these were still under negotiations with Moscow.

Coverdale Miner Fights Old Charge

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 5.—(AP.)—Counsel for Louis Ross sought depositions today to save him from possibly paying the death penalty for a murder conviction 17 years ago. The state claims he is Frank Pauletta, convicted in 1915 of killing a workman and sentenced to be hanged. Ross denies he is Pauletta. He was arrested some weeks ago in a mine at Coverdale, Pa., after a chase through a mine.

Goodrich Suffers Paralytic Stroke

YORK, Me., March 4.—(AP.)—Charles C. Goodrich, retired tire manufacturer and representative to the Maine Legislature, was stricken with a paralytic shock at his home here last night.

Goodrich, a native of Akron, O., retired some years ago from active participation in the affairs of the rubber company founded by his father, B. F. Goodrich, but still retains a seat on the board of directors.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

In the first place, I'll bet that Representative Sirovich, who objects to the dramatic critics can't even do a handstand . . . He demands that the oracles be put to a spelling bee . . . And then he will prove that they are not fit to sit in judgment on the shows. . . . That the critics are destroying the theater . . . That the managers and authors should be protected from "destructive criticism." . . . Constructive criticism, as Nathan once yelled, is criticism written by reviewers who must keep the advertising department in mind . . . Sirovich, who has written too many third rate plays, naturally has an ax to grind in somebody's neck . . . His hammy-teurish efforts were merely another form of anaesthetic . . . Little wonder, then, that he now uses his power as a statesman to even matters . . . He doesn't say anything about protecting the gullible public from the army of swindlers who pose as showmen . . . And that's why critics were born . . . To help guide the sapidillo and his girl from the Sirovich type of show . . . He particularly objects to "the former prize-fighters, porters who pose as being qualified to criticize the drama" . . . James Huneker, one of the outstanding reviewers, came up in the world after working in the Baldwin Locomotive shops . . . Some of the oracles started as printers. . . . One of them was schooled in the theater and can't spell yet! . . . Broun was a baseball reporter before he got stage struck . . . Atkinson was a Harvard teacher . . . And Hazlitt, whose essays and books on criticism still are used as text books at Oxford and other universities, never went to school!

"There's nothing wrong with the food," growled an annoyed diner in a restaurant. "It must be the chef!" . . . Had Rep. Sirovich checked his facts before releasing them in the garbled manner, his argument might have carried some strength . . . But when he groans that of the 80 theaters here, only 10 are tenanted, when almost 30 are he leaves himself wide open . . . When he says, too, that Alexander Woollcott, a former critic, wrote a play which was praised and log-rolled by his former colleagues, he's wrong twice. . . . For only two of the critics liked the show that Woollcott helped write . . . Then there's the plight of John Anderson, of the Journal. . . . A good critic he is—but hardly so good a playwright . . . Two of his shows were felled with one concentrated blow by his fellows—one of them only recently . . . The other, which he also adapted from the old country, was produced by Jed Harris, who lost his last penny on it . . . But did the Anderson confreres help him? . . . They helped close it in one week or less! . . . It was done so poorly that the producer publicly apologized in the paid amusement page columns . . . Well, the fast fading dramatic critic business needed something like Sirovich to bring it back to life . . . The critics now are important again . . . With so many dull pieces to report their stuff naturally appeared monotonous . . . Aristotle said it so much better: "The guest, and not the cook, is the sole judge of a dinner!"

What a grand composition it is . . . I mean that lawyer's last will . . . They found it in his pockets when he died in an asylum a few years ago . . . It was pronounced so legally perfect by lawyers that the Chicago Bar Ass'n passed a resolution having this will placed in the records of the Probate Court of Cook County, to wit: "I, Charles Lounsberry, being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this my last will and testament, in order as justly may be, to distribute my interest in the world among those succeeding me.

"That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in the sheep-bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderate and of no account, I make no distribution of this in my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal. But, these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

"Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, the world over, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every flower of the field, and blossom of the wood, with the right to play among them freely, according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

"And I leave to children the long, long days to be merry in a thousand ways, and the night, and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject, nevertheless, to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item: I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful idle fields, the pleasant waters where one may swim, all snowclad hills where one may coast, all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood, and all the meadows and clover blossoms and butterflies thereof; the woods with their appurtenances, the squirrels and the birds, the echoes and strange noises and all distant places which may be visitant, together with the advantages there found. And I give to said boys, each his own fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance, and without any incumbrance or care.

"Item: To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorne, the sweet strains of music, and aught else that they desire, to figure to each other the lastingness and the beauty of their love.

"Item: To young men, jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous and inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave them the power to make lasting friendships, and of possessing companions, and to them, exclusively, I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

"Item: And, to those who are no longer children, or youths, or lovers, I leave memory—and bequeath to them the volumes of Burns and Shakespeare, and of other poets (if there be others), to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns, I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children, until they fall asleep."

Those Pepitaphs are getting better. No. 10, from a Pittsburgh gal: "Here Lies W. W. At Last the Dirt's On Him!"

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.

It took Hal Roach 30 days to make an airplane survey of South American audiences—and he found out they like the same kind of pictures we do here.

Mr. Roach, who is back in Hollywood planning his new program, has bad news for the foreign actors. Spanish versions are out, he declares, until the rate of exchange assumes a more normal level.

"In South America," he tells me, "Greta Garbo, Ramon Novarro, Maurice Chevalier are among the most popular stars. And Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy rank with the top comedians.

Ramon Novarro

"As a matter of fact, audience preferences there are about the same as here. The only exception was the gang film. South American audiences didn't understand them and thes weren't popular."

Roach was 90 hours in the air during his trip and his plane turned back only once—for a storm this side of Mexico City. He was accompanied by Arthur Loew, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's foreign department.

NO CHANGES PLANNED

The proposed peace between Japan and China will not halt Hollywood's plan to film several pictures around the unsettled conditions in the Far East. Of Paramount's "Come on Marines," B. P. Schulberg says:

"Our story will go into production within the next few weeks and will be released before the war's roar has been silenced or, if peace comes, forgotten."

Dave Selznick, speaking for R. K. O., says that "The Roar of the Dragons" deals with the tandits in Manchuria and is not concerned with the Shanghai situation.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Wilson Mizner showed me a letter he had received from a friend. On the corner of the envelope was written: "Open—not a touch" . . . Saw Adrienne Ames and Al Kaufman at Richard Bennetts' first night in "Cyrano de Bergerac" . . . Lois Wilson was there with George Hill, the director . . . The other evening John P. Medbury, columnist, radio artist, etc., tried a new gag on the air. "It is customary," he quipped, "for the fans to ask autographed pictures of the entertainer. Tonight I'm going to reverse this and ask the audience for autographed pictures." And what was Mr. Medbury's amazement when the next day brought dozens of pictures from the public and hundreds of letters apologizing for not having any . . . Saw Anan Q. Nilsson at M. G. M. today. She's taking that test . . . Leo Carrillo will sponsor the "Teatro Carrillo," a small show house on Los Angeles' famous Olvera street. Back in the old days, Leo's father and mother were among the first couples to be married in the church on the Plaza. Many of his people lived on Olvera street.

Polly Moran Gets New Movie Contract

Polly Moran has been signed to a new long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Miss Moran has co-starred with Marie Dressler in such films as "Caught Short," "Reducing" and "Politics." She has been seen also in "Guilty Hands," "It's A Wise Child" and "A Tailor Made Man." Her most recent role was in Buster Keaton's new starring film, "The Passionate Plumber." Next she will play with Marie Dressler in "Prosperity."

The Working Girls Are With Us

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"Working Girls," a frilly, light affair of young ladies on the man-hunt in the great big city, is the new feature in the Fulton.

Judith Wood and Dorothy Hall, cast as sisters, have the prominent roles. They answer the want ads, get their feet wet—and get jobs. One works behind a hotel telegraph desk. The other pastes archaeological clippings into a bulky scrapbook. And there are moments in the film when you think those pre-historic animals had more sense than she.

"You don't need to be afraid of me, my little frog," he says to her.

And says she to him: . . . . .

"I'm not, my big frog."

So they croak about in lovey-dovey fashion until he gets himself engaged to a society girl. Then "little frog" has hysterics.

Three Erie Shops Damaged by Fire

ERIE, Pa., March 4.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed the interiors of three shops in State street early today. The loss is estimated at $15,000. The origin of the flames was not determined. The Abe Heiman tailor shop, the Dixie shoe store, a women's clothing store and a jewelry store were damaged. Miss Maya Eugenia, living in an apartment over the jewelry establishment, was rescued by a policeman.

Film and Stage Entertainment

Edna Mae Oliver comes to the Harris tomorrow in the film version of "Ladies of the Jury." Buck Jones also will be seen in "One Man Law."

The Sheridan Square, beginning tomorrow, will present Robert Montgomery in the Lonsdale play, "Lovers Courageous."

Benwood Steel Plant To Resume Monday

WHEELING, W. Va., March 4.—The Wheeling Steel Corporation plant at Benwood will resume operations next Monday on a 90 per cent operation basis, according to official information given out today.

Four Films Opening Today

"Broken Lullaby," a story of war's aftermath, comes to the Penn, with Lionel Barrymore starred. Phillips Holmes and Nancy Carroll also are in the cast. "Loew's Vaudeville Revue" will be on the stage.

The Stanley screen begins an engagement of "Impatient Maiden," co-featuring Lew Ayres and Mae Clarke. It is based on Donald Henderson Clarke's novel, "Impatient Virgin." Eight vaudeville acts, including Dick Powell, will be on the stage.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Hot-Cha," the new Ziegfeld musical comedy is in its final days here, three more performances, those of tonight, Saturday afternoon and evening being the last until the big show opens in the Ziegfeld Theater, New York, next Tuesday evening. The attendance here has been remarkable, with standing room in heavy demand at many performances, especially at the matinees.

* * *

"The Blue Bird," which will be presented in Syria Mosque next Thursday evening under the local management of May Beegle, is a Russian revue presided over by its creator, Yascha Yushny, who acts as interlocutor, or master of ceremonies, as the movie house presentations have it. It has a large company that has been making its first American tour, the artists including singers, dancers, comedians and musicians, who will be seen in a program of 17 novel acts, ranging from real opera to burlesque.

* * *

Helen Vinson, who was seen here a little more than a year ago as leading woman in "Death Takes a Holiday," has been snatched from Broadway and "The Fatal Alabi," by Warner Brothers for a role in the fillim, "The Jewel Robbery" . . . "The Challenger" is the title for the next photodrama in which George Bancroft will take off his coat and go to work.

DR. COPELAND :-: Practical Hints for Good Health

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City. United States Senator from New York.

At the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, we were reminded once more of the nutritional value of milk. We have always regarded it as an indispensable part of the daily diet. But, I am sorry to say, recent statistics show that the children of this country are not getting the vitally essential quart of milk a day.

Scientists claim that every child should drink at least one quart pint of milk. Where milk is disliked as a beverage, it is advised that dairy products and foods cooked in milk be taken.

This food supplies all the necessary substances essential for proper growth and development of the infant and the growing child.

Persons who do not like it often ask, "Why drink milk? It is not the only food." But it has been demonstrated that milk is the most nearly perfect food. It supplies all the necessary substances essential for proper growth and development of the infant and the growing child.

Milk contains important lime salts, carbohydrates, proteins and the vitamins so valuable for the child and the adult, too.

Because it contains these important substances milk is spoken of as a "protective food." When milk is deficient in the daily diet, children are more susceptible to colds and infectious diseases. This is believed to be due to lack of vitamin A which is found in milk. When children receive the proper amount of milk in their diet there is a marked improvement in health. Likewise colds and infections are less frequent.

Milk is the most digestible of all foods. It is absorbed with ease and comfort. Adults taking large quantities of milk should remember that it is more easily digested when combined with other foods. A graham cracker or a biscuit should be nibbled with the customary glass of milk between meals. This practice breaks up the curds and makes the milk more easily digested.

I frequently hear people say they cannot take milk. This is really an exaggerated statement, and seldom is it true. Of course, they honestly believe it is a fact, but a little experimenting would show how mistaken they really are.

To turn against milk is a bad habit acquired in childhood. Many children cultivate an aversion to milk by overhearing the talk of their elders. I beg of you to refrain from expressing your dislike for milk or any other food, in the presence of children.

The words of the wise live on through the ages. These lines were written centuries ago: "The cows are our friends; they give strength, they likewise give a good complexion and happiness." This statement is as true today as it was hundreds of years ago.

Milk possesses qualities that give strength of muscle, clearness of skin and the contentment of mind that goes with good health. I wish I could get all my readers to appreciate this truth.

HOT CROSS BUNS — One-quarter cup fat, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cake yeast, ½ cup luke-warm water, 2 eggs, 7 to 7½ cups flour, 1 cup currants.

Pour boiling water over fat, sugar and salt. Add milk. When luke-warm add yeast that has been dissolved in luke-warm water. Add beaten eggs. Stir in 4 cups flour. Beat hard. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Pick over currants, wash well and drain. Fold into dough. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover with waxed paper and a lid or cloth and keep in a cold place until ready for use. About an hour before meal time pinch off small pieces of dough and shape into buns. Let rise until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Brush buns with melted butter as soon as they are removed from the oven. Add enough evaporated milk to a cup of confectioner's sugar to make a soft frosting. Using this frosting, mark a cross on top of each bun.

The dough is the kind that can be made up in advance and successfully kept in the refrigerator for a week. It can be used all the year 'round for excellent hot rolls.

make Glasses and china SPARKLE BRILLIANTLY • LIKE DISPLAYS IN FINE SHOPS

Just add a teaspoon of Climalene to your dishwater. Then use only ¼ the amount of soap or soap flakes you ordinarily use. Wash your dishes in the soft, lasting suds. Rinse with hot water. And you will find that they "gleam" and "sparkle" the same identical way.

Climalene softens the water and so takes away that greasy feeling that is so annoying in dishwater. It's the grease that makes your glasses "streaked" and dishes "dingy."

Here's economy for you, too. You can wash dishes four times this way with the same amount of soap that you will use in just one pan of dishwater without Climalene.

You can banish dull, gray washings by using Climalene. Renew floors and woodwork, polish silver without rubbing, use Climalene wherever you use water for cleaning, in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. You'll be glad you did.

Your grocer has Climalene. Ask him for it today. It's in a bright, shiny, blue box in two sizes, 12 ounces for 10c, and 2 lbs. for 25c.

Lives Wrecked Because of Marriage Without Love

Shall she marry him, even though she doesn't love him—because, sez he, "if she doesn't he'll just throw up everything and go to the dogs," and she'll be ruining his life?

She has tried to explain that she likes him, but just as a friend, and nothing more; that she doesn't love him and doesn't want to marry him, but—

"That doesn't matter!" he cries with tears in his voice. "I simply can't live without you, and you'll learn to love me some day!"

She doesn't cotton to the idea, yet she can't bear the thought of wrecking his life. So she wants to know what to do.

And there are scores of other girls, who would like to know what to do with a gent like that.

GETTING SERIOUS

"Dear Sally—

"Will you try to help me? Perhaps you will say that I am selfish, and shouldn't have to ask what to do. But whatever your advice is, I need it and I will try to follow it.

"I am 26 years old and for about two and a half years I have been going out with a young man who is now 23. We have been seeing each other fairly steadily, and have had a lot of good times together, but I find that even after all this time I cannot regard him as anything but a good friend and pal.

"And here is where the trouble begins. He is beginning to get very serious, and harder to handle, every time I see him. He cannot see why we can't get married right away, whether I love him or not. He says love will come after marriage, which sounds a trifle selfish to me.

I have given him to understand all the time I have known him that he was perfectly free to go with whomever else he pleased, but now he insists that I go with him and no one else.

WANTS HIM TO ADVANCE

"Of course, maybe all this is my fault. Maybe I have been unfair. But I have really enjoyed his company, and would miss it if I didn't see him, yet I don't want to marry him, and I have never pretended that I loved him. And now I don't know what to do.

"The real big trouble is that he has a good position, and good chances for advancement, and I do want to see him get ahead. But he says if I don't marry him soon, he is going to throw up everything and leave town. I know his folks well, and it is one of their biggest ambitions in life to see him get ahead, and if I step out of the picture and he does that, it will spoil everything.

Yet, in spite of all this, I just can't bring myself to marry him. However, if it means spoiling all their lives, I'd rather do that than have it on my mind all my life that I have been responsible for such a thing. I am fond of him, as a pal. I don't want to hurt him. So the whole thing has me at my wits' ends.

I have tried to explain things to him, but it always ends up the same way, and if this keeps up much longer I think I'd rather marry him than go on arguing. Won't you please help me? I don't know what on earth to do.

"CONNIE."

WOULD DESPISE HIM

Shall you marry him to save him?

No, honey. It isn't up to you to save this man's life from wreck and ruin. It's up to him. And if you let him use his whining and his weakness to club you into marrying him, you'll be picking plenty of grief for both of you. For it won't be long before you'll begin to resent that weakness, to resent him for being weak, to resent him for being selfish enough to force you to do something you didn't want to do.

And very far from "learning to love him," you'll begin to despise him. No matter how much you try not to, you'll be bound to betray the way you really feel, then you'll have another big row, and there will be another broken marriage.

Both your lives will really be scarred and broken. Then what'll you do?

Stop, seeing him. Yes, I know, you'll miss him for a while, but you'll both be better off. He will have time and chance to get over you, and learn to love someone who can give him the love he wants. Don't worry, he will get over it. His life won't be ruined, unless he elects to ruin it.

"If you have a pretty foot—wear short petticoats."

"If you are in the least doubtful as to that—let them be rather long."

"If you have a good hand and well-turned arm—play on the pianoforte or make purses."

"If they are clumsy—wear gloves."

"If you have a bad voice—always speak in a low tone."

"If you have the most mellifluous voice in the world—never speak in a high tone."

"If you are envious of another woman—never show it but by allowing her every good quality except those she really possesses."

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Urged to Take a Rest at the Seashore

That Lillian and Dicky shared some plan for me, which they had so far kept from me, was plain, but until they chose to tell me what was in their minds I had no other course but to act as if I suspected nothing. Therefore, I answered Lillian's insistent "and then what?" with the same reply which I would have given if had I not seen the signaling glances which had passed between them.

"Next comes Mr. Veritzen's inspection of the revised third act," I said, smilingly.

Lillian made an impatient gesture.

"I know that. I mean after that," she said.

I might have retorted that she also knew the answer to the question as well as I did, but I answered patiently.

"Then comes the fourth and final act of this thing, which I have promised Mr. Veritzen in 10 days."

"Ten days," Lillian said, reflectively. "That isn't so bad. It's a stiffish schedule. Of course you'd be able to do it if you could be absolutely free from interruption and if you weren't so near exhaustion already."

She was looking at me speculatively as she spoke and Dicky chimed in quite. I told myself, with a suppressed little smile, as if he were taking his cue with a speech already rehearsed.

"Why wouldn't it be a good thing for her to take an absolute rest for three days and come back to the job rested in mind and body?" he asked. "She probably could turn the act off as if she were saying the alphabet or the 10 commandments."

"It's not only a good thing," Lillian said. "It's the only thing possible. Don't you think so yourself, Madge?"

I hesitated, hating to contradict the two who had my welfare so surely at heart, but I knew that that part of their plan was unworkable.

"It sounds a most attractive program," I said, "but—with so many people in the house, unless I'm terribly rude and inconsiderate, I don't see how—"

My voice trailed off helplessly, and Lillian laughed gleefully.

"Tell her," she commanded, and Dicky smiled at me with the expression of a small boy who is just going to present his mother the Christmas surprise for which he has saved his pennies.

"Lillian and I have a plan all thought out," he said. "It's a pippin' too." I have been looking up places out at the east end of the island, and we have found a whiz. A small but bully little hotel with few guests, and I have picked out the best suite in the house for you—sitting room, bedroom and bath, and a tiny balcony overlooking the ocean. It's near enough to the beach so you can run down into the surf the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, and as many times in between as you want to. I prescribe three days there away from everybody, where you will do nothing but sleep and eat and let the surf pound you. I haven't even consulted you. I am being a masterful man. The rooms are all engaged and you start tomorrow afternoon as soon as you get through holding the post-mortem with Veritzen over the revised act. It is less than 20 miles away, with a telephone right at your bedside, so if by chance you were needed here, any good automobile could get you back in half an hour. Does it please you? I hope so, for, by gum, you're going away whether it does or not."

"It's wonderful," I faltered, but was conscious my voice was not as enthusiastic as it should be, and that the prospect of three days' solitude, even though I needed it so sorely, did not appeal to me. I heard disappointment in Dicky's voice, but in Lillian's there was whimsical sapience.

"Only one ingredient lacking in this particular batch of cake," she said, "but without it I am afraid the cake will fall, eh, Madge?"

I nodded, flushing, for with the clairvoyant knowledge of each other's moods, which our years of association have brought us, she had guessed the reason for my lack of enthusiasm.

"What do you mean?" Dicky queried, petulantly. "What's wrong with the program?"

"You, my bucko boy. Nobody else in all the world but you. Why this should be, Allah alone knows. I could get along for three or four weeks at an ocean-side hotel without seeing you, but Madge is queer that way."

Dicky stared at me, still with the little boy look, only now the reverse side of the coin was uppermost, the Christmas surprise was his.

"Why didn't I think of this before?" he demanded. "It's the thing I'd like best to do in all the world, but——"

He turned to Lillian. "I don't see how I can get away. You know what's on hand."

He looked at Lillian meaningly, and I realized that all of their pact had not been revealed to me.

Household Hints

Put a little salt in the water when you clean your vegetables and it will fetch out any insects. Wash your dishcloth in some hot salt water, and it will always be sweet and clean.

Baked custards will not be watery if a few grains of rice are put into the bottom of the dish in which they are cooked. The rice will absorb any moisture and leave the custard firm and solid. Bread crumbs can be substituted for the rice if preferred.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me how long after my husband's death I should wear my wedding ring.

2. I should also like to know the degrees of mourning, and if this is ever properly varied. I have never worn deep mourning, as I work in an office, and felt that it would be best to modify my mourning. I am 25 years old. G. I. A.

1. A widow usually wears her wedding ring the rest of her life; or, if she is to marry again, she ceases to wear it when she decides to announce her engagement.

2. You are wise, I think, to modify your mourning since you work in an office. This is being very sensible.

As a matter of fact, people don't pay anywhere near as much attention to the wearing of mourning as they used to, or as much attention to the varying degrees of it. No longer do we see very much the wearing of mourning veils, except at the funeral, and seldom do we see the heavy-hearted crepes that used to be so much a part of a widow's mourning.

If I were you, since you have started so sensibly, I should wear about the degree of mourning that you are wearing now, and then for the rest of a year wear dark clothes or the black and white combinations that are so good now and are so appropriate.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Camphor cream is said to reduce local fat. It can be used with safety on shoulders or upper arms. Massage should be firm and brisk, the cream rubbed in well.

Easy enough to find the correct standing posture. Back up against the wall and see that heels, shoulders and head touch it. Stretch the back bone, lift the head high. There you are.

An oily skin attracts atmospheric dust, and dust creates blackheads. The excess shine is produced by sebaceous glands that are bent on overactivity. They are subdued by using soap and warm water freely, by laving the skin surface with eau de cologne, by using a light powder, and rubbing with ice. Heavy creams are of little service, but thin liquid cleansers help skim the grease away.

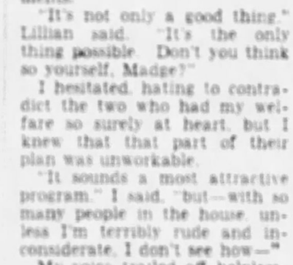
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Don't Potter

Many a game is lost by following a stupid ritual under the impression that experts would bid that way. The following hand will yield game, but Z misled his partner, thereby making only a part game score.



Z made a sound opening bid of 1-Diamond. A bid 1-Spade. Y shifted into 2-Hearts, thereby showing all his strength, and a bit more. B did not have a sound raise for his partner, but he overcalled with 2-Spades. Z bid 3-Clubs, ending contracting. A was well satisfied to save game; Y felt that he could not rebid his hand.

Having taken his two spade tricks, A was hard put for a reasonable lead, finally deciding upon his 7 of hearts as the card least liable to do harm. For all he knew B might hold the missing Q of the suit; in any event, a low lead was not giving up his control of hearts. Z won the trick with his Q, then he took two rounds of clubs, winning the second trick with dummy's K, so as to try a lead of diamonds for the finesse of his own Q. Having made a successful lead and finesse, Z was completely cut-off from further entrance into dummy and completely at a loss to know what to do. If he pulled trumps he could win one heart and one diamond trick; the first time an opponent gained entry Z would have his lone trump taken away by an adverse lead of spades, after which he would be wide open to leads of spades. Playing the hand in that manner he surely would be defeated at least one trick. He dared not attempt to pull trumps, not knowing that each opponent held one trump; for all he knew both trumps might be in one hand.

Z finally decided to lead off his top diamond, and then give his adversaries a single trick in that suit, in case the adversely held diamonds happened to lie 3-3. Z laid down his Ace of diamonds, followed by a small one. The suit broke and B won with his K. Not wishing dummy to ruff a spade lead, B led his heart; A sensed that his partner could trump a third lead of hearts; A won the trick, led back a heart and B ruffed, giving his side five tricks, and defeating the contract by one trick. The return lead of spades was trumped with Z's lowest club. He played his Q of clubs, picking up A's last trump, and leaving his own thirteenth diamond good.

Instead of bidding 3-Clubs on a short suit, over B's declaration of 2-Spades, Z should have risked a jump into 4-Hearts. Z should not have trusted Y to bid game; Z should have bid the limit. As a matter of fact, had Z bid only 3-Hearts, Y could not have bid game; his one bid had shown all his values. Played at hearts, Y-Z would have lost only three tricks; two spades and one trick to the top heart. Z's pottering around proved costly, even if he did think he was bidding as an expert would.

Care of Feet Essential in Children

In childhood is the time to begin the care of the feet. Parents make a mistake unless they carefully supervise the selection of the children's shoes.

Dr. Copeland

For the infant, allowance must be made for rapid growth. To this end the foot is placed on a sheet of paper and its outline drawn. The width of a lead pencil beyond the end of the foot should be allowed for length.

As the child grows older and has a voice in the choice of shoes, there is more difficulty in settling the matter; but the wearing of high heels should be prohibited, and the constant use of a heelless shoe also discouraged. A common-sense heel of moderate height will give ease and grace in walking. The mincing, artificial gait of the wearer of high heels, and the slouching gait of the wearer of "sneakers" are alike most ungraceful.

A shoe that does not fit may cause its wearer endless discomfort. Such shoes cause blisters, overlapping toes and broken arches.

The human foot has two arches, one each for front and back. The large posterior arch may be injured by straining poorly developed muscles. Long standing, too much walking, or the wearing of improper shoes may do this. Once broken, the fallen arches may make their owner almost a cripple, besides causing many symptoms of nerve disturbance.

Examination of the affected feet by a specialist and the adjustment of suitable arch supporters is the proper treatment. In severe cases, rest, massage and foot exercises may be required.

The front arch, known to the profession as the "anteriod" or "metatarsal" arch, sometimes becomes weakened. When that happens, there is pain and discomfort in the foot, ankle and leg, and a callous forms on the sole of the foot just behind the toes. A small pad in the shoe may give great relief, but foot exercises should be practiced.

No one but the sufferer seems to take foot troubles seriously, but anyone who has had them knows that corns are a joy killer. Ill-fitting shoes, either too large or too small, will cause friction and by irritating the skin produce a thickening of the irritated part. A well-fitting shoe is both preventive and curative. Home care of corns is often dangerous, as serious infections may follow careless treatment.

Ingrowing nails are painful and are commonly due to a too narrow shoe. The toenails should be cut squarely, not in a pointed way. When a nail has begun to press inward, a small piece of cotton slipped underneath the nail will relieve the pain. A wet dressing of boric acid water must be applied if much inflammation is present.

Excessive perspiration of the feet is a most distressing condition, making the sufferer a person to be avoided. A run-down state of health and lack of cleanliness encourage the invasion of germs.

The local treatment is to wash the feet thoroughly daily with an antiseptic soap, then sponge with cold water and powder well, especially between the toes. A fresh pair of stockings each day is a necessity, and two pairs of shoes, worn alternately, should be the rule.

MENU HINTS :-: Prudence Penny Gives Latest Recipes :-: WHAT TO SERVE

* * *

COOKED SALAD DRESSING—One teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mustard, dash of white pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 6 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter or other fat.

Sift the dry ingredients together to mix them thoroughly, add the cold milk, stir until well blended, then cook in a double boiler until thickened. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer. Beat the egg until very light and add some of the hot mixture to the egg gradually. Then combine and cook the whole mixture a few minutes longer. Add the vinegar slowly, stir and continue to cook until fairly thick, then add the butter or other fat.

* * *

FRIED CARROTS AND APPLES—Six medium-sized carrots, 6 tart apples, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Pare the apples or leave the skin on, as preferred, core and cut into slices about ¼ of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and the carrots in a large skillet with the fat, cover tightly, and cook until well browned, turn and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Serve on a hot platter, first a layer of carrots, then a layer of apples, so the two can be lifted together.

VEGETABLE SOUP—One large soup bone with meat (cracked), 3 quarts cold water, 4 tablespoons fat, 1 green pepper, chopped, 1 cup chopped onion, 1½ cups chopped celery and leaves, 1 cup finely diced carrots, 1 cup finely diced turnips, 2 cups finely diced potatoes, 2 cups tomato juice and pulp, 3 teaspoons salt, or to taste, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Wash the soup bone and be careful to remove all small loose pieces of bone. Put the bone in a large kettle, cover with the cold water, and simmer for 2 hours. Remove the bone from the broth. Cook all the vegetables, except the tomatoes, in the fat in a skillet for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add the vegetables, tomato, salt and pepper to the broth and simmer until the vegetables are tender, but not broken. Serve the meat with the soup or save it for hash or croquettes.

This makes a rather large quantity of soup, but it is equally good reheated and served another day.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE ICING—One square bitter chocolate, 2 cups granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Put chocolate into the pan into which the fudge is to be cooked and melt over hot water. Add sugar and salt and blend well, then add the milk and butter. Cook rapidly to the soft ball stage (236 degrees F.) with constant stirring. Remove from the fire and cool to luke warm stage. Do not stir or handle the fudge while it is cooling. Beat until the fudge crystallizes, then knead as you would fondant, until the mass is soft and plastic. Place in a jar and cover tightly. Let stand at least 24 hours before spreading on the cake. This will keep, however, for several days or even weeks. When ready to use, if too stiff, add a spoonful of cream or milk and work smooth to a spreading consistency. Yield: Sufficient to cover three layers of cake.

* * *

HAM MUFFINS—One cup white flour, ¾ cup graham flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup butter, ¾ cup chopped ham.

Cream the butter, add sugar, then the beaten eggs and milk. Sift the dry ingredients together and add. Stir only until mixed. Fold in the chopped cooked ham. Bake in greased tins in a moderate oven 375 to 400 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Serve hot.

* * *

BANANA AND PEANUT SALAD—Six bananas, 1 cup chopped nuts, lettuce, salad dressing.

Select ripe bananas, skin, scrape and cut in halves or in slices. Put the banana on lettuce leaves, sprinkle with the nuts and serve with salad dressing, or a little lemon juice.

* * *

BAKED SPINACH WITH CHEESE—Two cups chopped spinach, 2 cups white sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cupful grated cheese, pinch of pepper, 1-3 cup breadcrumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter.

Mix spinach, white sauce and seasonings. Butter baking dish and put in layer of spinach mixture. Then breadcrumbs, cheese and 1 tablespoon butter. Alternate layers, having crumbs and cheese on top with remaining butter poured over all. Bake until brown.

No more "WASH-DAY HANDS" where TAG is used

Millions of women have found in TAG a sure and certain relief from "wash-day hands." TAG has no naphtha, caustics, or other harmful ingredients that chap the hands and make them hard and red. Instead, TAG is made of the choicest of soap ingredients. You can use TAG all day and still have your hands delightfully soft and white.

And TAG is as easy on your clothes as it is on your hands. Your clothes will be whiter—colors brighter—woolens softer and fluffier. TAG has one-half more actual soap than other laundry soaps contain. It lasts longer—goes further—is more economical to use. TAG isn't pretty—just a plain, homely bar. But try it. Your grocer will be glad to supply you.

YOU CAN'T SPEED UP WASHING WITHOUT A WASHING MACHINE

BUT they hadn't tried the New OXYDOL

● Of course a washing machine saves you work. But even if you haven't one, washing doesn't need to be the back-breaking job it used to be.

The New Oxydol floats dirt out safely in 15 minutes. Sprinkle it in your washtub and you'll understand. It makes 50% more suds—richer, quicker, longer-lasting suds.

That's why this mild soap can save you so much work and time—its extra suds take the place of rubbing—they soak dirt out of clothes and hold it out—they never collapse and let the dirt fall back—they never ball up or leave a scum.

Try the New Oxydol. See how much it lightens all your housework—how easy it is on hands. It makes rich, clean-smelling suds in any water—and all water hardens when you add dirty clothes or dishes.

Another Hub Tragedy. • Ott Veteran at 23.
Several Precede Morris. Quinn, Hoyt Reunited.

DEATH MAKES BOSTON CLUBS TARGET

WHEN STALKING DURING the off season in baseball, and cutting down prominent diamond figures between pennant campaigns, death has made the Boston clubs its favorite prey. The fatal stabbing of Pitcher Ed Morris when he was about to report to the Red Sox for spring training is another grim addition to an appalling list of tragedies centering strangely around the major league teams of the Hub. The clubs there have been hit harder by deaths between seasons, taking away star players or prominent officials, than all the others combined.

Ed Morris

This is the second time a tragedy has ended the career of a Red Sox star just before the start of a season. On March 28, 1907, while the Boston Americans were training at West Baden Springs, Ind., Charles Sylvester (Chick) Stahl, manager and outhelder, whom veteran Pittsburgh fans will remember as having played center field for the Red Sox in the world series of 1903 against the Pirates, committed suicide in his hotel room by swallowing carbolic acid.

BUT THAT WAS not the first instance of a star player being lost by a Boston club during an off-season. On January 9, 1894, Charley Bennett, of the Hub Nationals, rated with the greatest catchers of all time, in attempting again to climb aboard a train from which he had alighted at Wellsville, Kan., while on a hunting trip with John Clarkson, the famous pitcher, fell under the wheels and though he escaped death his playing days were ended, as both of his legs were ground off.

The most shocking tragedy of all occurred during the off season following the National League race of 1899. On January 19, 1900, Martin Bergen, who, like Bennett, had been a star catcher of the Boston club, ranking as the foremost backstop of his time, killed his wife and two children and then ended his own life.

ON JUNE 19, 1901, George B. Dovey, president of the Boston National League club since the beginning of 1907, and with whom the late Senator John P. Harris, of Crafton, was associated in the ownership of the team, then known as the Doves, died of heart disease while on a train en route from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati.

Another president of the same club to die between seasons was Christy Mathewson, who was chief executive of the Braves when he passed on at Saranac Lake, N. Y., October 7, 1925, seven months after the death of John M. Ward, one of his predecessors at the head of the club.

THE DEAD PITCHER, 32 last December 7, was the second bearing the name of Ed Morris to become famous in the major leagues. The first was the old lefthander, still hale and hearty at his home on the North Side, who pitched for the Alleghenys or Pittsburghs in the American Association, National League and Players' League. The Red Sox hurler was a righthander, who made good in the American League after two failures in the National, having been turned back by the Cubs in 1922 and by the Reds in 1925. He made an impressive start with the Red Sox in 1928 by winning 19 games against 15 defeats. In 1929 he won 14 and lost the same number, but his record in 1930 fell off to 4 and 4, and in 1931 to 5 and 7.

Mel Ott

A VETERAN AT an age at which the average player is just breaking into the major leagues, Mel Ott, of the Giants, claims the distinction of being the youngest old-timer in the big show. Though only 23 last Wednesday, he is starting his eighth season in the main tent, having come up to join the Giants in 1925.

Ott is to go back to right field this year, whether Freddie Lindstrom plays second base or returns to the picket line. Lindstrom will go to center if assigned to the outfield again. "Ott is the best rightfielder in the National League, and I do not believe he was quite at home in center," said Manager McGraw. "Maybe the shift to center and a new job had something to do with Ott's falling under the .300 mark in hitting."

IT WAS FORTUNATE for Ott that when he came into the majors he fell into the hands of so smart a manager as McGraw. Under many another pilot, the youngster might have proceeded along the wrong course to certain failure.

For Mel, who was a catcher then, was handicapped by heavy legs and crouching behind the bat soon slows up a maskman. Some of the experts said that Ott's heavy underpinning would force him out of the game in a few years. But McGraw saw the danger and averted it by turning the kid into an outfielder.

SPEAKING OF BASEBALL ages, there is an odd situation in the Brooklyn camp at present that shows how little they may mean sometimes. When he went from the Red Sox to the Yankees in 1921 Waite Hoyt had Jack Quinn as a teammate. Hoyt was 21 and Quinn 36. There appeared to be no question as to which would last the longer, as Quinn was nearing the age at which big league hurlers are generally done, while Hoyt had not only youth in his favor but such rare ability that in the world series that fall he pitched three complete games against the Giants without allowing a single earned run and only two tallies of any kind.

A SUGGESTION THEN that the two might become teammates on another big league club 11 years later, and with the venerable Quinn rated as the more valuable of the pair, would have been considered a joke. But there they are, working out in Dodger uniforms every day down in Clearwater, Fla.

Quinn is now near 47 by his own admission, several years older in reality, it is said, and Hoyt is 32, yet Jack's great relief work caused him to be rated as Brooklyn's most valuable pitcher last year, while Waite has been let go by three American League clubs in less than two seasons and was taken on by Brooklyn recently after every other major league club had turned him down.

THE LATEST FOOTBALL man to find fault with the new gridiron rules, though denying that they will handicap his alma mater, is Tom Conley, who in 1930 was right end and captain of the last Rockne-coached Notre Dame team.

Tom Conley

Discussing the new code with Gordon Mackay in Philadelphia, Conley referred to the rule changing as "another noble experiment," and expressed the opinion that it probably would turn out "exactly as the other one did."

"I THINK THE motive that inspired the changes was splendid — the desire to save life and limb—but I don't believe the new rules will work out," Conley said. "Too, they will rob the game of some of its best features and most thrilling moments. There has been a tendency to strip football of its drama. They prevented a fumble from being run back by the defending side and took out of the sport one of its biggest thrills. Now these new changes will take away more thrills. But the impression that the ban placed on the use of the hands will ruin the Notre Dame defensive system is all wrong. We used our hands, certainly; but so do Warner teams, and so does almost every other football team playing the game."

PANTHERS BEAT PRESIDENTS EASILY

GAMES TONIGHT

Duquesne at Carnegie Tech.
Duquesne Frosh at Carnegie Plebes.
John Carroll at Allegheny.

By JESS CARVER

Carnegie Tech and Duquesne match basketball strength for the second time tonight, with Carnegie on the spot. The Tartans need this one, as much as they've needed a contest for a long time. They lost two to Pitt and were walloped unmercifully in their first clash with Duquesne.

Of late, though, the Tartan colors have been flying high. The boys have won four games in a row, taking Princeton, Temple, Georgetown and West Virginia in the order named. Duquesne, unbeaten by a district opponent up until Monday night, were flagged down by Geneva, and tonight, with somewhat of a patched-up lineup, hope to close their 20-game campaign with a triumph, and at the same time to sweep their two series against city rivals.

Coach Chick Davies must rearrange his lineup for tonight's battle. He's lost Jim MacDougal, the big forward, who turned up with a busted ankle after the Geneva clash, so he'll start Snubby Irwin and Art Feldman at the forwards, shifting Capt. Bunk McGeever back to center and depending on Marty Reiter and Dudey Moore at the guards.

TECH IN TRIM

Carnegie's varsity is in fine shape, and the starting lineup is to be the same that punched holes in West Virginia the other evening. The forward jobs will be held down by Smith and Jagnow; center by Stentz, and the guards by Fergus and Capt. Jimmy (Brute) Leonard.

Carnegie is accounted a fine chance to secure revenge for its early-season walloping. The team is clicking well, something it decidedly was not doing at the time of the first meeting with the Red and Blue, and the Dukes do not figure to be the same team with MacDougal out of there. The game is booked for the Tartan gymnasium, will be preceded by a meeting of the two freshmen fives and will be handled by Cal Bolster and Leo Mackey.

Dukes		Tech
Feldman	F	Smith
Irwin	F	Jagnow
McGeever (C)	C	Stentz
Reiter	G	Fergus
Moore	G	Leonard

Officials—Cal Bolster, referee; Leo Mackey, umpire.

PITT BEATS W-J

Last night, in the Pitt Stadium, Pitt's Panthers took another fall out of Wash-Jeff, in a listless, unexciting ball game. The Panthers won, 28 to 16, after the Pitt frosh had defeated the Red and Black Yearlings, 41 to 27.

So slow and ragged was the first half of the varsity encounter that only by some miracle popping by Timmy Lawry did the Panthers leave the floor for the intermission with a lead. The score at the half was 8 to 4. Lawry dumping one from the side just as the gun was fired.

In the second half, the home boys went to work and rang up 10 field goals to stow away the victory. Lawry, who had three in the first 20 minutes, added three more to take the high scoring honors of the night. For Wash-Jeff, Zagray, with two field goals and two fouls, totaled half a dozen points.

For the first time in a long time, since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, or something like that, Pitt did not score from the foul line. The Panthers missed all of their nine charity shots. Wash-Jeff bungled 11 out of 17.

The feature of the contest occurred in the second half, when Zagray became peeved as Umpire Beggs Snyder called an out-of-bounds play and hurled the ball into the crowd. It struck Johnny Freund, veteran basketball promoter, on the chin, caromed off and smacked Moon Klinzing on the shoulder.

"Nice stop, Moon!" shouted a spectator.

CATHOLIC HIGH PLAY OPENS

Holy Name High School, of Duquesne (Pa.), and Johnstown Catholic High will play the first game in the fourth annual Pennsylvania state Catholic high school basketball tournament in the Duquesne University gymnasium at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Three other games are scheduled in the first bracket of the two-day tourney.

Six teams are making their headquarters at the Fairfax, in Oakland, these including all entries with the exception of Central Catholic of Pittsburgh and the Holy Name five.

John D. Holahan, Duquesne graduate manager of athletics and this year's tourney director, expects a large attendance at the annual state title playoff, which the Dukes sponsor. The winning team will be eligible to compete in the national Catholic tournament at Loyola University, in Chicago.

Scheduled on the hour, games today, following the 2 o'clock tussle, will be: North Catholic, of Philadelphia, vs. St. Catherine's, of DuBois; Central Catholic, of Pittsburgh, vs. St. Joseph's, of Ashland, and St. Stanislaus, of Erie, vs. St. Thomas, of Scranton.

Tomorrow afternoon, the winner of the Johnstown Catholic-Holy Name game will play the winner of the North Catholic-St. Catherine's game at 2 o'clock in the first game of the semi-finals. At 3 o'clock the winner of the Central Catholic-St. Joseph's game will meet the winner of the St. Stanislaus-St. Thomas contest.

The final game will be played at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. A consolation game will be played one hour earlier. Trophies will be awarded immediately after the last game. No action is scheduled for tonight because of the final Duquesne varsity game with Carnegie Tech in the Tech gymnasium.

HOPPE CUE VICTOR

DETROIT, March 4.—(AP.)—Willie Hoppe continued to win in yesterday's play of the round robin three-cushion billiard tournament in progress here, defeating Champion Augie Kieckhefer, 50 to 40, and Welker Cochran, 50 to 41. Kieckhefer won a game from Joe Bozeman, 50 to 44, and Cochran went into second place by beating Bozeman, 50 to 45.

Fight Results

At Bridgeport, Conn.—Jack Delaney knocked out Phil Johnson, 2 rounds.

At London—Larry Gains defeated Dan McCormick (the British Empire heavyweight championship), 15 rounds.

At Cincinnati—Jack Dempsey defeated George Trosky and Ray Vargas, 3 rounds each; Tracy Cox won by technical knockout over Mickey Doyle, 4 rounds; Jess Caldwell won by technical knockout over Ted Graham, 4 rounds.

At Toronto, Ont.—Freddie Steele defeated Freddie Goldstein, 6 rounds.

The Vangs, of the Pittsburgh Polo League, will make their first home appearance in several weeks when they meet the 107th Field Artillery tomorrow night in Hunt Armory. Adams, star of the Vangs, is one of the league leaders on individual scoring.

Watson, who has been starring for the artillery, will lead Kiser, Reed and Collins in the game. Adams will have Vang and Babcock with his team. Col. George Cherrington will referee.

Pitt and Tech To Arrange Swim

Franklin and Marshall's varsity swim team engages the Carnegie Tech splashers in the K. A. C. pool this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The visitors arrived by train early this morning, having canceled their planned flight by airplane due to poor flying conditions. Tomorrow, the visitors meet Pitt in the Trees gym pool.

A meeting between Pitt and Carnegie Tech officials will be held tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of arranging a swimming meet between the two institutions for next Wednesday. Through a mixup in the schedule, the rival squads were not booked for a clash. Neither has been defeated to date.

VAUGHN SHINES IN PRACTICE

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 4.—Floyd Vaughn, former Wichita star and at the present time a contender for the shortstop berth of the Pirate ball club, is one recruit whose sensational play is attracting considerable attention.

The former Wichita ace has been playing under wraps as yet, that is to say, he has not advanced into his real stride, but his actions around the keystone bag, have drawn favorable comment from onlookers as well as the members of the Pirate squad.

"Vaughn looks to me like a vest pocket edition of Honus Wagner," Gibson stated when asked his opinion of the youngster. "He has that same stooping position that was made famous by Wagner, and can field balls, hit to his left or right with considerable ease."

Art Griggs, who piloted Wichita last season and has been a visitor here for the past few days, declared that Vaughn is the most promising looking prospect that has entered the major leagues in years.

Pie Traynor arrived in camp today and brought the number of players to 32. Howdy Groskloss arrived on Wednesday and took part in his first workout yesterday. He played second base in the Yanigan infield and looked to be in great shape.

The first of the Regular-Yanigan games probably will be played tomorrow. Manager Gibson is anxious to get the game under way to be able to get a line on how his recruits perform under fire.

Layden Named On Coaches' Board

Elmer F. Layden, head football coach and director of athletics at Duquesne University, is the Second District representative of the American Football Coaches' Association for the year 1932. Layden accepted the invitation of Mal Stevens, of Yale, to serve in that capacity.

There are nine districts which comprise the association territory. The Second District of the association includes New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

A.-K. TOURNEY NEARS FINAL

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 4.—Oakmont and Franklin joined Freeport and Falls Creek as semi-finalists in the Allegheny-Kiski Valley school tourney here last night. Oakmont rallied to beat Kittanning High, 29 to 19; Franklin set down Vandergrift, 24 to 14.

In consolation contests, New Bethlehem defeated Verona, 30-27, and Aspinwall tripped Arnold, 20 to 17.

The semi-finals will be played tonight, Falls Creek playing Freeport and Franklin battling Oakmont, with the final games tomorrow, Springdale and Harbrack and New Bethlehem and Aspinwall meet in tonight's consolation tilts.

SHARON ELIMINATED

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 4.—Greenville High eliminated Sharon and Sharpsville tripped Grove City High in the second round Mercer County school tourney games last night. Sharon lost, 19 to 15, and Grove City fell, 29 to 15.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The officials of the W. P. I. A. L. shift the scene of their basketball eliminations tonight to two out-of-town courts and the City League champions, Schenley and Fifth Avenue, move into the spotlight of the Pitt Stadium pavilion this afternoon for the opening contest of their championship series.

The spacious gymnasiums of Beaver Falls and Washington high schools will be the battlegrounds for the four W. P. I. A. L. contestants slated for action in second-round contests.

Down in the Beaver Valley, New Castle, champion of Section III, makes its first start in the eliminations by engaging Zelienople, champion of Section XVIII. Zelienople qualified for tonight's battle by eliminating Leetsdale, champion of Section II, on the same floor last Monday night. Leetsdale was a big favorite.

NEW CASTLE FAVORITE

Sweeping through their schedule in Section II, of the City League, without dropping a contest, Allegheny High takes the floor in the Stadium pavilion this afternoon a favorite over Coach Gross' Schenley combine. Schenley dropped three out of its 12 league encounters, but had enough class left to defeat Fifth Avenue in a playoff contest for the title.

TEAMS IN FINE SHAPE

Allegheny and Schenley are about evenly matched and their series for the City League championship should prove a thriller from start to finish.

The second game of the series will be played on the same floor Tuesday afternoon and if a third game is necessary, it will be staged a week from this afternoon.

Allegheny and South Hills are the only Section II schools to win the championship of that group since it was organized in 1926. Schenley and Fifth Avenue have divided the honors in Section I during that same period of time. Schenley is the defending champion.

Neither Allegheny nor Schenley will be eligible to compete in the P. I. A. A. playoffs as the two City League contestants do not hold membership in the state body. This situation assures Fifth Avenue, which finished second in Section I, of a chance to represent the city schools as the District No. 8 representative in the P. I. A. A. eliminations.

SPRINGER'S RECORD GOOD

Developing championship teams is nothing new for Coach Harry M. Springer, of Allegheny. The North Side mentor is only W. P. I. A. L. coach to win the title for two different schools.

In 1920, Springer, a comparative newcomer in local coaching ranks, turned out a basketball team at Bellevue High School that won the W. P. I. A. L. title, shifting the scene of his activities to Wilkinsburg. Springer lost little time in bringing the football and basketball championships to the Holy City. His football and basketball teams of 1922 were crowned W. P. I. A. L. champions.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Les Canadiens	2—Montreal	1

By CARL W. SHATTO

The ancient Craig street arena was damaged by fire last Monday, and the local skaters' chances of gaining the International Hockey League play-offs, considerably dampened by the 3-1 triumph which Buffalo achieved, are embers almost as dead as the Garden's charred wall.

Last night's battle was one of the fastest and most furiously contested engagements seen here this season, and the league leaders had to go an extra period to break a 1-1 deadlock and pull out the decision. Tomorrow night, however, the Bisons and Canary Shirts are to resume hostilities, on the formers' Fort Erie glaze, and if they play as the did last night the pace-setters should cop this one with somewhat less trouble, for Stu Dunning, sturdy Pittsburgh right wing, will be nothing more than a spectator at the fray.

MURRAY INJURED

After accidentally cleaning the flesh from the nose of Al Murray, Buffalo defense man, late in the second period, Dunning was handed his third major penalty of the season. The league rules say that any player suffering three major penalties automatically becomes ineligible to participate in his team's next game. This means that Coach Charley Reid will have to dig up a new right wing and revamp his lineup for tomorrow's clash.

Dunning injured Murray when, after overtaking the speeding Bison, he attempted to lift the latter's stick off the puck. As Stu brought his stick upward he missed the visitor's weapon, and struck the tip of Murray's nose with such force that the top of the member was scraped clean of skin and cartilage. Dunning was reaching around Murray at the time, and did not know that he had inflicted an injury until the Bison dropped to the ice.

Murray was assisted to the dressing room, and was not able to return to the battle.

Norman Locking was in the sin bin serving out a penalty for a very foolish bit of slashing when Buffalo caged a goal to take the lead at 18:10 in the first period. Godin had Goalie Sonny Box Baxter at his mercy after Murray and Lauder had placed him in scoring position.

JACKETS TIE SCORE

Cam Proudlock received a perfect pass from Whitey Fields at the mouth of the Buffalo goal in the first act of a little scoring drama that deadlocked the count at 7:45 in the second period, and, although the play continued fast and furious, it was not until 3:50 in the extra period that further scoring efforts bore fruit. At this stage of the proceedings Gross backhanded the disc into the coop after receiving an assist from Martin, and at 5:12 these two Bisons reversed the procedure to put the game "on ice" with another tally.

The defeat was the fourth for the Jackets in six overtime duels on home ice this season, and it came at a very inopportune time in that it brought to an abrupt halt the Reidmen's determined drive toward a money berth. The locals cannot suffer more than two additional setbacks and remain in the championship picture.

Last night's game was witnessed by a wildly excited crowd of almost capacity proportions. The fans had considerable cause to be thrilled, for the battling, fast and furious throughout, was very even until the dawn of the extra period. The lineup:

Baxter	G	Vaughan
Fraser	D	Lauder
Matte	D	Murray
Goodman	C	Voss
Romnes	W	Martin
Barton	W	Gross

First period—Buffalo, Godin (Lauder, Murray), 18:10. Penalty—Locking, slashing.

Second period—Proudlock (Fields), 7:45. Penalties—Matte, tripping; Voss, charging; Dunning (major), charging.

Referee—Guy Smith.

RUTH TO QUIT BASEBALL FOR GOLF

By FRANK (BUCK) O'NEILL

International News Service.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—Babe Ruth, greatest baseball player of all time, may retire from baseball and become a business man golfer.

The only condition Babe makes is that the Yankees win the pennant this year. If they fail, he will give the game one more whirl. He wants to play in one more world series.

There has been talk from time to time of the Babe taking up golf and quitting baseball, but it remained for the great Bambino to say that even now he was making plans for next year. He may come back after that, but only as manager.

The Babe himself told the writer of his impending retirement from baseball. We were sitting on the sixth tee at Pasadena yesterday.

"This game is too sweet to give up," he said.

"Well, I'm not giving it up," he continued. "I'm just beginning to take it up. One more year with the Yankees; one more world series, and the Babe is through with baseball. It will be Babe Ruth, golfer, then.

"I'm going to become a business man golfer. George Von Elm is doing pretty well, and I guess I could do just about as well. I've had a lot of offers to tour the country. I've talked some to Johnny Farrel and Billy Burke. It would be great just to play golf."

BRAVES HURLER IS INJURED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP.)—Pitcher Bruce Cunningham was the first Boston Brave casualty of the season yesterday. A line drive hit by Pink Hargrave struck him on the back of his gloved hand and forced his retirement from the practicing session.

Mrs. Walter Maranville, wife of the veteran infielder, who arrived two days ago, received word of her brother's sudden death, in Rochester, N. Y., and left for home later.

Mrs. Riley Plays Mrs. Holsinger Today

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 4.—Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Pittsburgh, is playing in the semi-final round of the title consolation class in the annual Florida east coast women's championship golf tournament over the St. Augustine links today. She is opposing Mrs. Joe Holsinger, of Gainesville, Fla.

Mrs. Riley advanced as her scheduled opponent, Mrs. M. Maus, of St. Augustine, defaulted.

International Loop Umpires Selected

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—William B. Carpenter, dean of the umpire staff of the International League, again will act as supervisor of the arbiters for 1932, it was announced today.

Six members of last year's staff are retained. They are William J. (Barry) McCormick, W. Jack Carroll, George L. Parker, William R. Summers, Mike Donohue and Louis C. Kolls.

Handball Tourney Expected to Be Fast

The national junior handball championships in singles and doubles, which are to be held at the Keystone Athletic Club, March 10, are sure to see some extremely fast competition. The new 1932 rules are to be enforced.

Theos Manos, K. A. C.; F. Smith, K. A. C.; A. Bialas, K. A. C.; E. C. Clark, K. A. C.; C. Thornton, K. A. C.; Joe Lang, Y. M. C. A.; Carl Dellerstine, Y. M. C. A.; H. S. Foley, Y. M. C. A.; Steve Myers, Y. M. C. A.; Tom Davies, Y. M. C. A.; E. Preminger, Y. M. C. A.; V. Schantzenbach, Y. M. C. A.; Pete Peterson, Y. M. C. A.; Joe Aiuppa, Y. M. H. A.; Aumer, Y. M. H. A.; Wolk, Y. M. H. A.; Ostbaum, Y. M. H. A.

Section 3 School Playoff Dates Set

HARRISBURG, March 4.—(AP.)—Dates for the playoff for the basketball championship of District 3, Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, were fixed last night at a meeting here. Hershey will play the winner, still undetermined, of the Berks County League, at Lebanon, March 8.

Steelton, winner of the Central Pennsylvania League championship, will play Waynesboro, at Gettysburg College, March 9. Columbia will play Hanover, at York, March 9.

Morris' Assailant Under Arrest

CENTURY, Fla., March 4.—(AP.)—Wounds of a knife plunged into Big Ed Morris' chest during a fight at a fish fry given in his honor Monday night caused the death of the veteran pitcher for the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

Soon after he died, Joe White, a gasoline station operator at Brewton, Ala., was arrested and charged with murder.

Witnesses said he and the pitcher engaged in an argument at the party that was intented as a farewell to Morris on the eve of his departure for the Red Sox training camp at Savannah, Ga. Morris knocked the gasoline dealer down and then tripped and fell. As he lay on the ground, the witness said, White stabbed him twice. The knife blade barely missed his heart.

Eddie Kapphan's weekly professional boxing show in his Addison Street Arena and a benefit amateur tournament in the Moose Temple, downtown, make up the fistic entertainment for the local fans tonight. There has been no show in Pittsburgh since the Motor Square Garden billing of last Monday, so the fans have not been overfed as in recent weeks.

Billy Holt

The amateur bouts are the preliminaries of the Tri-State tournament, under the auspices of the 111th Infantry Veterans' Association, the semi-finals and finals of which will be staged tomorrow night. The field is sufficiently compact to insure its completion in the two nights' span. Proceeds will go to the welfare fund of the vets. It is a mighty fine cause and merits the support of the followers of the sport.

DOUBLE WINDUP AT ARENA

Two 10-round bouts make up a double windup for Kapphan's show. Billy Holt, Negro welterweight, of Homewood, who dragged down a decision over Tiger Joe Randall his last time out in a bout for the local Negro welterweight title, in the same ring, meets Ray Lyle, of Akron, in the main event, and Joey Thomas, local featherweight, boxes Dandy Allen, Negro, formerly of Philadelphia, in the other feature bout. Sammy Paris, of the Hill, is in with Johnny Cataline, of Charleston, W. Va., and Elmer Kozak, of Turtle Creek, meets Fritzie Zivic, of Lawrenceville, in the two six-rounders, the first of which is slated for 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Battling Gray, the Detroit whirlwind fully recovered from his recent illness and his title heat woes, is in addition to his bout with Eddie Lloyd, of Harrison, Ohio, and Cleveland, one of the two 10-rounders at the Garden Monday night, he meets Cowboy Eddie Anderson in their postponed return bout at Flint, Mich., the following Thursday night. Gray returned yesterday from his training quarters in the mountains near Jamestown and will finish his training here. Spider Pindner boxes Jimmy Thompson in the other feature bout at the Garden.

Daniel (Dandy) Allen, young Negro 126-pounder, of Philadelphia, who bokes Joey Thomas in one of the two 10-round bouts at the Kapphan Arena tonight, has boxed Johnny Dixon, of New Kensington, and Paul Balint, of the North Side, in bouts at Erie, in addition to doing a lot of campaigning in Philadelphia, throughout New Jersey and in New York. Another better-known mark he has hooked are Eddie Reed and Fidel Zuloff. He is being managed here by Bumpy Harris.

Pat is looking for a big turnout for the dual boxing meet with Army at the Moose Pavilion tomorrow night. The West Point team is a strong one and should prove a good attraction.

Mose Balch, Oakland bantamweight, will be one of the principals in the main bout of John Bork's first show in the Moose Temple next Wednesday night.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter is chafing about for a show for next Thursday night, on March 17 and 24 he will stage a Diamond amateur tournament for heads in the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight classes with Diamond Pins going to the winners and diamond studs to the runners-up.

Jack Dempsey will box in the Carnegie Auditorium in Clarksburg, W. Va., March 16. He will receive the first $4,000 taken in, with a privilege of 40 per cent of any sum over that amount. George Parks, Homestead heavyweight, will be Dempsey's opponent in a bout at Youngstown one week from next Monday night.

A Benny Leonard-Jimmy McLarnin bout is being steered up for New York this summer. Leonard defeated Billy Mc Kinley in 10 rounds a few nights ago and is to be further tested by Mike Ballo and Buster Brown.

CITY LEAGUE HOLDS FIRST CONFAB

By TOM BIEKS

With four teams on hand, and no plans laid for the coming season until the next meeting rolls around, the City Baseball League held its first organization session last evening at Books.

President Harry Yerx and Treasurer Fred Alger were not present, but with Everett Sweeney taking charge Homewood, Dormont, Books and J. L. Thomas intimated they would be back this season.

Hank Daly represented Homewood, Bill Fuchs and George Falconer, Dormont; Pip Contestable and Ray Kennedy, J. L. Thomas team and Ed Buch and Bestering the Book outfit.

For the first time in many years, the City loop faced its initial meeting without a few clubs angling for a vacant berth. Johnny Dunky attended, but it was evident he will not be at Pleasant Valley this season. There is little chance of a City League team operating at Wilson Avenue field.

Reports state that Mart Kenny will have a team called Pleasant Valley, but in another loop. This, however, may be confirmed this evening.

League officials tried to round up eight teams, but last night's session indicated that eight strong clubs are definitely out of the question.

The Greater Pittsburgh League is causing lots of worry this spring. Two different sponsors are trying to whip the teams into line. One holds a meeting tonight, while the other meets Sunday afternoon.

A number of clubs in that class are not going to operate. It is said that Universal, North Bessemer and Cup Jenkins will not be back on the diamond. Verona is doubtful. The Wilkinsburg Murs may be operating in another circuit.

THE Important Thing IN MEN'S CLOTHES IS

Eye-Appeal!

There can be no such thing as Real Value without it —

When she says, "You look great, where'd you buy it?" you know your purchase has been worthwhile. But if she merely says "I see you have a new suit"—no matter what you paid, it's been a pretty bad investment.

Fintex knows that you can buy a covering for your body at most any price—but as far as modern man's demands in dress are concerned Fintex insists that first in importance is EYE-APPEAL!

FINTEX CLOTHES pass the "Eye-Test"

(1) Put on one of the new Fintex Suits or Topcoats. (2) Call in your friends and relatives. (3) Ask THEM how well you look and how well your clothes fit.

Unless they pass 100%, unless they say you're as smartly dressed as they've ever seen you [regardless of what you paid] we'll refund your full purchase price.

Let the Eye-Test prove to you the remarkable Eye-Appeal of Fintex Clothes . . let your friends decide.

Introducing Style-Rhythm

Anyone can toss in a lapel, a new button arrangement, a slanting pocket, a few angles and call it style . . . but in STYLE-RHYTHM Fintex introduces designing in harmony with modern tastes . . . no harsh overtones, no worn-out ideas . . . but wide-awakeness, swing, tempo.

Style-Rhythm is far from the usual in styling . . . planned by brilliant designers . . . demanding more expensive hand tailoring, finer workmanship than has ever before been applied to popular priced clothes.

Packers Seek Relief

New York Curb Market

PACKERS HOPE TO GET PACT CHANGE

Look to Court for Right To Distribute Products Other Than Meat Lines

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
United News Service

NEW YORK, March 4—Business sentiment shifts at various stages of the business cycle. For example, during the war profiteering was regarded as distinctly anti-social. Nowadays, in this red ink era, there is a disposition to erect monuments to the chief bucking profit-makers.

Accordingly, it is difficult to [illegible] all the pro-Roll [illegible] packers [illegible] counsel [illegible] to [illegible] restrain [illegible] trading [illegible] products [illegible] related to the meat business. Now that the public has become more interested in economical distribution than in awaiting business, the current [illegible] is being reopened. The Supreme Court of the United States will be asked in a few weeks to decide whether this inhibiting order shall remain in effect be modified or entirely vacated. Briefs will be filed by the government and by the packers within the next fortnight.

Mr. Rukeyser.

HOPE FOR RELIEF

Believing that the highest court has never passed on the economic aspects relating to cheaper distribution, the packers are hoping to get relief from an onerous pact, to which they consented 12 years ago when public opinion was distinctly hostile to them.

The packers contend that the organized wholesale grocers have been chiefly instrumental in keeping them in a straight jacket.

Almost since the decree went into effect it began to be challenged. Certain growers and farmers of fruit and vegetables objected, because it cut off their outlet through the packers. This was the beginning of extended litigation, which comes to a focus in the present case.

The growers have objected to modification of the decree on the stated ground, among others, that modification would give the packers an advantage over them on account of the packers' car routes and branch houses distributing system.

MARKETING CHANGED

The reason for reopening the case now is the contention that the marketing of food has been revolutionized since 1920, making the decree archaic, and out of harmony with present conditions, including the vast growth in importance of chain stores.

Only the four largest packers are restrained by the decree. They contend, if the restrictions against handling non-meat items were dropped, that they could distribute meat products more cheaply by dividing up the overhead cost, thus benefitting both the livestock producer and the consumer.

It is well that the Supreme Court will air this highly controversial question. We should cease perpetuating by law practices which entail economic waste and an addition to the cost of living.

Size of Short Interest In Market Reduced Recently

[illegible] the market though the [illegible] reduced [illegible] the past few weeks. Some [illegible] are inclined [illegible] for [illegible] that [illegible] impressive [illegible] time when [illegible] partial [illegible] and [illegible] movement was [illegible] comfortable [illegible] was good [illegible] ing on the [illegible] ment of Pittsburgh [illegible] Quite a few of the important trade [illegible] although credited with being possessed of [illegible] sight, have not been pushing out [illegible] securities. A few of these are known to have covered recently and have been out on the side lines for developments within the market.

The covering recently has come from outsiders. Commission houses several weeks ago had the experience of trying to keep clients from selling short. The supply came from those who became disappointed over the inability of the market to move forward for more than a short period and who were convinced that the line of least resistance would be downward. They put out shorts despite the advice of brokers.

There has been rather good buying in Reynolds Tobacco B on occasion recently. The demand has been attracted by the fact that the stock could be obtained to yield approximately 8 per cent on the investment. Some of the buying has been for investment but a moderate amount of speculation also has been in evidence. The company has paid dividends uninterruptedly and at increasing rates since 1913 and was able to make an excellent earning showing in 1931 despite the depression in business.

For the moment the brokerage fraternity might be said to be showing more confidence in the market's abilities than can be found in the banking world. Comment in bank circles conveys the impression that any attempt to stir up speculative enthusiasm in a big way will not find much encouragement thereabouts. One banker, asked if he had seen some of the strong brokerage recommendations which have gone out recently, was moved to remark that he was not much impressed and that such action might kill what market there is. Presumbly the powers that be do not want to encourage any big public following at the moment, and perhaps might be found offering stocks if necessary to discourage any tendency in that direction.

A number of divisions in the General Foods organization have continued to make a favorable showing. It has been reported that the sales of Swans Down flour last year showed an increase of 16 per cent over 1930; that the volume of Sanka Coffee was 18 per cent in excess of the preceding year and that the Certo division had a business which was 30 per cent larger than in the 1930 year.

Interests identified with the can making industry do not agree with some of the pessimistic views which have been heard from time to time in Wall street regarding American Can. They admit that earnings last year were affected by the sharp reduction in the packs of tomatoes and peas, but add that the steady increase in the demand for products packed in tin containers assures American Can a resumption of a rising profit trend as soon as there is a return to more normal business conditions.

Petroleum Stocks Lower in January

WASHINGTON, March 4—The United States Bureau of Mines reports a decrease of 504,000 barrels in storage of all petroleum oils, crude and refined, during January, comparing with an increase of 3,355,000 barrels during December, and a decline of 4,313,000 barrels during January, 1931.

STOCK MARKET NEARING BEST 1932 LEVELS

Active Buying Develops In List After Midday; Steel Shares Sluggish

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—The stock market crept up close to the best levels of 1932 today, as bulls were encouraged by further evidence of the restoration of banking stability.

The list encountered a little setback in the first hour, but offerings were readily absorbed and early losses erased. Active buying developed after midday.

Bullish activity switched into the utility group after midday, and such issues as Public Service of New Jersey, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union Gas amounted 1 to more than 2 to new tops for the year. Among miscellaneous issues rising a point or more were American Telephone, General Electric, Union Carbide, New York Central, Southern Pacific, American Can, Montgomery Ward, Penney, G. W. Grant, Safeway Stores, Kroger, Corn Products, National Dairy, Purity Baking, Beatrice Creamery and American Ice. International Business Machine rose 5 points in response to its favorable 1931 earnings. New York Tractions were again bid up. United States Steel, however, was sluggish.

The market remained largely professional, but some brokers reported traces of public buying. The bidding up of such issues as utilities, chain stores and food shares, representing relatively stable industries, was apparently in an effort to attract a public following.

The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report scant change in general conditions, although the strengthening of the banking structure, and indications that commercial credit will be more plentiful when needed, were regarded as maintaining a markedly better feeling all around. It was disclosed bank suspensions dropped off sharply in February, reaching the lowest levels since last July.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW GAINS

CHICAGO, March 4.—Grain prices rallied quickly today from dips at the start. There was a noticeable absence of selling pressure on wheat, and a cold wave in the West furnished some incentive to buyers. Opening unchanged to ½c lower wheat afterward more than recovered. Corn started unchanged to ¼c off, and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Freezing temperatures, high winds and lack of a snow blanket, conditions threatening crop damage, were reported from various points in domestic winter wheat territory in Kansas and Nebraska. At other places, however, early snowfalls tended to bring about wheat price reactions.

Confirmation of big shipments of wheat this week from Southern Hemisphere countries was a further stimulus to bears. Exports both by Argentina and Australia were much larger than a year ago. There were assertions that Germany was expected to favor purchases from Argentina.

RAIL MERGER VALUES GIVEN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Interstate Commerce Commission this morning introduced a statistical compilation of the railroad consolidation hearings showing primary values of the four eastern systems and the other lines which they would acquire under the four-party plan as of December 31, 1930.

The New York Central System would have a total valuation of $2,502,719,622; the Pennsylvania System, $2,143,084,636; the Baltimore and Ohio System, $1,638,049,245, and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate System, $1,581,791,290.

The New York Central would have 13,474 miles of road; the Pennsylvania, 17,107 miles; the Baltimore and Ohio, 11,975, and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate, 13,661.

Forbes

Jealousy One Cause of Our Economic Woe

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT LAMENTABLE lack of statesmanship in the modern conduct of important industries! Cutthroat competition which harms all is rampant.

But vanity among individual leaders is also playing a harmful part.

TAKE FIRST the steel industry. The great bulk of the business is done by a handful of companies. Presumably, it should be possible for sensible businessmen to refrain from killing their own profits by uneconomic price cutting. Whenever it has appeared that live-and-let-live policies were to be given a fair trial, someone has invariably sneaked around and booked business below a reasonable price.

Mr. Forbes

The result has been that the industry has been afflicted not only by serious diminution in demand, but by wholly unprofitable prices.

When James A. Farrell retires from the United States Steel Corporation next month, what one steel company president calls "a new generation" will come into power. Gone are the stalwarts who originally directed its destinies—Judge Gary, the late J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, H. H. Rogers, H. C. Frick, etc.

The industry awaits with intense interest the naming of Farrell's successor. Will he prove co-operative? Will he play ball? Will he act constructively? Will he lead the industry out of its present deplorable state?

PERSONAL JEALOUSIES have wrought even worse havoc in the rubber industry. More than one rubber company head has sacrificed profits to feed his pride. "Volume" has been worshiped, worshiped at all costs. Prices have been subordinated to astigmatic ambitions.

No concessions have been considered too costly to swell egotism. There have been sold at cut-rate prices to large distributors tires which the manufacturers would not dream of branding with their own names.

Yet, rubber company stockholders have not risen in rebellion. And rubber company directors have been either unable or unwilling to bring their chief executives under control.

THE COPPER people are messing along miserably. They first made the mistake of attempting to hold copper prices at boom time levels long after the boom was over. That inevitably invited grave economic complications, laying up trouble abroad and at home. Since then copper leaders have acted more like schoolboys than business statesmen. Now they are in a worse quandary than ever. The prospect is that all connected with the industry, including miners and stockholders, will suffer inordinately.

WHAT OF THE oil industry? Was there ever in history, in any nation, such unconscionable squandering of a priceless natural resource, a resource vital not only to industry and transportation and every other class of business in the land, but vital to national defense, national safety?

Personal jealousies perhaps have been less mischievous in this industry than in the others already named; but, according to responsible oil men, they have not been wholly absent.

ONE WEAKNESS in our economic structure is that on all sides industrial and financial leaders have concerned themselves only about their own immediate interests and have not been guided by thoughtful consideration of whether their operations were calculated to lead the nation.

Each has thought only of himself and his own organization, none has manifested a larger, a national sense of responsibility. Each has been for himself, none for the state.

HAVE WE descended near enough the brink of disaster—one hesitates to say economic revolution—this time to bring [illegible] to flop and [illegible] cardinal importance of taking up and solving the problem of readjusting and reforming and replanning our economic activities to fit modern conditions, modern human needs?

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Dan Howley, who collects a Walter Damrosch salary for conducting the grind-organ Reds, is an optimist who stands as an inspiration to Daniel, at present is working on the perennial Grantham puzzle—and he thinks he can solve it. More power to him.

One of Dan's cheer leaders is Jack Ryder, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who has been writing baseball since the catchers took 'em on the first bounce. Jack is harmonizing beautifully with Howley as Grantham belts the ball all over the Florida training ground of the Reds.

And now, folks, you will hear a few words from Jack Ryder. Mr. Ryder:

"Though it was his first sight of a baseball since last fall he (Grantham) hit harder than any of the others. Just a natural batter and quick on the getaway to first base. Asked where he would place Grantham, who has played first and second base and the outfield, Dan said, 'I can't tell yet, but he'll be in there somewhere. He is too fast and too powerful a hitter to be kept out of the lineup. We need punch and speed and George has both. I don't know where I will use him, but there will be a spot for him. You may be sure of that.'"

It is easy for Pirate fans to understand why Daniel is charmed by the picture of Grantham hitting a ball and then racing on the basepaths. Power and grace are both there in generous quantities, but the portrait may be turned for Poor Dan some day in midsummer, when the same graceful George fails to come up with an ordinary grounder with the tying run headed plateward.

Nevertheless, thousands of Pittsburgh baseball lovers will be pulling for Grantham, who really deserves his popularity. On the many occasions when George kissed a rocket out of the ball lot to win for the Buccos he shrank from any plaudits in his unaffected manner. And I never heard him crab about any hit that might have been taken from him by an official scorer. His generosity and naturalness were two qualities that endeared him to his clubmates.

Grantham perhaps would shine for many years to come if played in an outfield berth. Bill McKechnie had him assigned to pasture duty during one spring training season and he really looked the part of a star. George disliked second, but he was a soldier and he would go to the post without a complaint when ordered there. Had he requested an outfield assignment he might have had it, but he was not the one to bring up the question.

Throughout his career, Grantham has been a brilliant performer on hard chances. Fans would gasp at the double plays he started around second, plays that were possible because of his speed, but a moment later he might fail on an ordinary action. In the outfield his speed would be enhanced and maybe George could "go and get them" in a satisfying way. Well, here's hoping he has a big season.

KEPLER MEETS KENNEDY

G. C. Kennedy, K. A. C., and G. W. Kepler, P. A. A., are scheduled to meet in the Class B city squash racquets championship tourney final at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Keystone Athletic Club as a result of their victories yesterday.

Kepler yesterday defeated Alex Robinson, Allegheny C. C., 15-11, 9-15, 15-5, 9-15 and 15-4, while Kennedy downed Capt. P. A. McMahon, P. A. A., 15-3, 15-12, 6-15, 15-11.

LOOP TO MEET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The recently formed Interscholastic Tennis Conference will permit no sod to flourish beneath its feet. Having swept definitely into existence, the new secondary school net organization aims to go very actively active and that at once.

Announcement from John H. Irwin, Taylor Allderdice High School representative in the racquet group and president of the outfit, has it that delegates from the 10 affiliated schools will convene for dinner and special meeting at Shady Side Academy, out Fox Chapel way, next Monday evening—and, furthermore, general invitation is hereby issued to all preparatory and high schools of the district to attend the coming function, there to learn of the aims and regulations of the conference and, if interested, to join in addition of extra sections to the currently proposed bi-divisional loop.

BIG SOCCER TILTS SUNDAY

Sunday is going to be a big day in soccer so far as national ties are concerned. Western Pennsylvania fans naturally will be interested in the Castle Shannon Morry-Cleveland Shamrock game, at Cleveland, in the Western final of the National amateur cup.

At New Bedford, the Eastern final will be held, with Santo Christo, of New Bedford, opposing Upper Darby, of Philadelphia.

At St. Louis, the Stix-Bauer and Fuller elevens will battle with the Chicago Bricklayers in the western final of the National Challenge cup, the winner to meet the New Bedford Whalers in the grand final, April 3.

In the Charity cup tomorrow Beadling goes to Ambridge, with Pat O'Conner handling the whistle. Westinghouse meets the Rovers at Leslie Park, with Evans as referee and Keystone Shaft hooks up with National Tube at McKeesport. Kelly will referee the latter game.

Westmoreland Co. Tourney Dates Set

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 4.—The eighth annual Westmoreland County High School basketball tournament will be staged here March 11, 12 and March 17.

Eighteen teams have entered, eight in Class A and 10 in Class B.

In Class A the opening round will be played March 11. It will bring together Jeannette and Scottdale, Mt. Pleasant and Norwin, Greensburg and Monessen and Hurst and Latrobe. Class B games will be run off the same day, Youngwood meeting Sewickley Township, East Huntingdon clashing with West Newton, Washington Township meeting Avonmore, South Huntingdon opposing Trafford and Derry Borough meeting Salina.

Semi-finals have been listed for March 12, while the finals will be played here Thursday, March 17. In case the winning teams of each class desire, they will be permitted to play a county titular contest on Saturday, March 19.

Friends Here Learn Of Poles' Death

Word was received here today by Mrs. Young Faust, 1607 Wylie avenue, his foster mother, of the death of Edward (Googles) Poles, former star member of the Pittsburgh Scholastics baseball and basketball teams.

Poles was attending a party in Baltimore and was fatally shot following an argument. Poles played for many seasons with the Baltimore Black Sox and the Lincoln Giants baseball clubs, playing third base and shortstop.

Leaving these eastern professional teams, he joined Chappie Johnson's All-Stars. He had been residing at Glenburnie, Md.

Gains Wins, Second Dies During Fight

LONDON, March 4.—(AP.)—Larry Gains, Toronto Negro, won the British empire heavyweight championship at Albert Hall last night, but his victory over Dan McCorkindale, of South Africa, cost the life of his chief second, Jack Goodwin. Goodwin suffered a heart attack as the fighters went to their corners at the end of the thirteenth round, collapsed and died.

Gains won on points in 15 rounds.

Dempsey Booed, Fails to Stop Foes

CINCINNATI, March 4.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey tackled two more opponents on his comeback path last night, failed to knock out either of them and won a chorus of boos from the crowd. George Trinkle, Oklahoma heavyweight, took Dempsey's offerings in a 2-round exhibition without trouble. Ray Vanzke, 210-pound Chicago heavy, found the going tougher and was on the verge of a knockout at the end of the second and final round.

More Suitable Quarters Is Aim of Lily Lou and New Girl Friend

CHAPTER XXVI.

Maxine Rochon might not be "a nice girl," as measured by the landlady's standards, but at least she was young and friendly, and after the lonely weeks with no one but Mrs. Grampas to talk to, Lily Lou welcomed her warmly.

There was a coolness in the landlady's greetings now. She shook her head, and spoke to Lily Lou in the tone Woodlake people always reserved for those recently bereaved. Her "dearies" were as numerous, but not so hearty. It was plain that she considered Maxine a lost soul, and that she held little hope for Lily Lou.

"What do you say we move?" the older girl suggested after a few days of intimacy. "We can save money bunking together, and we can't find a worse place than this tomb. Besides, I am on the trail of something good, and you might as well get in on it—if you're interested—"

"I'm interested, if it's cheap, and we can find another place where they won't mind my singing—"

Maxine Rochon's tawny eyes gleamed. She took a couple of dancing steps, whirling lightly on her toes. "Now this may fall through, so don't count on it. There's a Mrs. Paula Manchester, a widow, who has a swell apartment over on Thirty-fourth. She has a maid and an ...tra bedroom—that's where we come in—"

"But we couldn't afford anything like that! At least I couldn't!"

MAXINE ENTHUSIASTIC

"Keep still, Lansing! Don't talk poverty to me. You don't know what it's all about. Didn't I tell you I stopped wearing stepins to cut down expenses, and I owe my aunt out in Columbus $200, besides having hocked my diamond ring and my suitcase and—"

"I know, but it's sure to cost more than we—"

"Listen! It isn't going to cost anything. At least not as much as it does here. Every smart girl in this village chisels. I've been a little slow getting started, but I tell you I'm off now. I'm on my way, and Manchester is my first angel—"

Lily Lou hoped she wasn't looking shocked. She didn't want to be laughed at for an innocent, but she didn't want to go any further with this wild-eyed Maxine Rochon. Maybe Mrs. Grampas was right. She looked at the excited girl with wide, frightened eyes. Maxine Rochon . . . stagey sounding name. About 26 or 27. Pretty, dancing hazel eyes, careless brown bobbed hair, and a face that would have been classic if it hadn't been for irregular, protruding teeth, and that elfin grin . . . After all, what did she know about Maxine, except what Maxine told her and the landlady hinted . . . What sort of thing was Maxine dragging her into?

ECONOMY NECESSARY

Maxine chuckled. "No, darling child, I'm not going to introduce you to a life of sin! Manchester is respectable all right, and I'm not planning to steal her silver or anything!"

When Maxine laughed, Lily Lou had to laugh, too. Maxine's laugh was infectious. She carried you right along with her. She laughed loud and merrily, like a rather naughty little boy.

"Just the same I've got to live cheaply, and I've got to have a place where I can practice. Now that I'm feeling better and have a job again I'll have to begin studying with someone—that's what I came to New York for—and your Mrs. Manchester would throw me out bag and baggage the first week, even if we COULD be taken in cheaply—"

"Lansing, will you learn to trust grandma? Your singing, my gal, is what gets us in. That and my art. The Manchester woman affects young artists. I met her over at Wanda Pillsbury's, but Wanda doesn't need her any more, so she handed her over to me. I don't look quite serious and refined enough, but when she gets one squint at you and your ladylike pallor, it will be all fixed. We're going to have tea with her tomorrow, so that she can give you the once over, and after that—"

"It's perfect nonsense. Maxine, you're crazy!"

"Crazy as a fox! And you can get off in time to go. I told Wanda the layout."

Wanda Pillsbury was Maxine's friend, the dancing teacher for whom Lily Lou was playing the piano. So if Maxine had it all arranged . . . .

Maxine did. She called for Lily Lou at 4 o'clock the next afternoon, and the dancing teacher waved them away with a "Good luck, darlings! Don't muff it!"

"Wanda's a good egg," Maxine said, striding up Thirty-fourth street with the still dubious Lily Lou. "She'd give you her shirt, but she'd work you to death and then cuss you out for dying on her. She's one of those corn-fed Nebraskans with the strength of a mule—and about the same disposition. Don't you ever try to get any of her men away from her or it will be the worse for you, let me tell you. And don't ever think they don't fall for her, in spite of her flat face and that kind of sloppy look she's got. Fall! Why, that woman has diamonds enough to keep her the rest of her life. One fellow gave her a car, but she sold it—"

"Anyone ever give you diamonds, Maxine?"

Maxine flashed a penetrating look at her questioner. "No—I'm not the kind, if that's what you're asking, Lansing. But I tell you that any girl is a fool who doesn't take all she can get in this town, and if you use your head you can get plenty!"

A LUXURIOUS PLACE

"And keep your self-respect?"

"And how! Why, there are people in this town that just throw money away. Take Wanda Pillsbury. I don't know how or why she comes in for diamonds and the car and all that. It's none of my business. But I do know she gets free theater and concert tickets from a lot of old women who like to help the struggling artist, and she gets week-ends at wealthy homes, and all that, and, believe you me, I'm going in for it. I've got just as much personality as Wanda Pillsbury—and so have you. Come on now—don't forget your parlor tricks!"

They were entering the apartment where Mrs. Manchester lived. Maxine lowered her voice, impressed by the doorman in purple and gold, and Lily Lou stopped worrying about Wanda Pillsbury's diamonds, and Maxine's easy acceptance of them, and began to worry about Mrs. Manchester.

As they shot up in the elevator she wished she hadn't come. Wished she'd never met Maxine . . . wished she had kept to herself in her dingy room, though if she had she wouldn't have had any job, and . . .

A pretty, dark-skinned maid was opening the door. Mrs. Manchester, tall, faded, vaguely pretty, was coming forward to greet them. She had a soft voice, and large, sad eyes. . . .

"So sweet of you to come," she was saying, her large eyes on Lily Lou.

Lily Lou sank into one of the deeply cushioned chairs. She saw the grand piano near the windows, the thick, silky rugs, the Japanese prints on the walls. The pretty maid brought a tea tray which she placed on the low table by Mrs. Manchester's chair. "This is perfectly ridiculous. Why, Maxine and I could no more fit in here . . ."

Lily Lou's troubled thoughts were interrupted by the soft thud of a great orange Persian cat, who had noiselessly entered the room, and decided to jump into her lap.

She hadn't realized how sorely she needed to fondle something, to feel some warm, living thing to her arms. Her brown eyes softened. For a moment she was afraid she was going to cry. . . . This room, the only attractive one she had entered since she shut the door on her own apartment . . . shut her heart against Ken, against love, against memories. . . .

She forgot her tea. Forgot to listen to Mrs. Manchester and Maxine, chattering about Wandas' art, and the Andre Werain exhibit.

The warm, soft weight in her arms moved, pressed against her heart. "Ken, I can't be without you!" she cried silently. "I can't bear it . . . oh, Ken . . . come back to me. . . . . It's no use my trying to go on. . . ."

"And is it Miss Lansing, or Mrs. Lansing?" Mrs. Manchester was asking in her sweet, thin voice.

Reactions to a Columnist's Divorce

HEAR them chatter. Look at them smile. It's all over. The romance of the very beautiful girl and the Broadway Columnist. Hardly news that will startle the world—yet interesting enough, I suppose, to those who enjoy the gossip and the tales of the Broadway world. Hear them chatter. Look at them smile. Listen to them say, "I told you so."

Let's you and I step out today and catch a few of the reactions as the folks discuss the situation. And what is the situation? Well, it's as simple as it can be. The columnist and the beautiful girl are married some three years before. It's a grand romance—but the inevitable happens. And, eventually, the story breaks.

That's all there is. Nothing more, nothing less. Yet they always chirp and they always cackle. Let's listen . . .

* * *

Reaction of a young Wall street clerk:

"I don't blame her. I've heard plenty of stories about that fellow, and you can take it from me that some of them were not so pretty. I never could figure out why she married a newspaperman in the first place. None of them ever turns out to be any good.

"From what I understand, she became fed up with the fact that he was always running around to night clubs and such. Of course, he said he had to do it because of his column—but she was much smarter than that. It's pretty hard to put anything over on those girls in the show business. They're too wise.

"That's what they are. Too wise." . . .

* * *

Reaction of the society millionaire:

"So she's getting a divorce, eh? Well, well, well. No, I never met her, but I've seen her on the stage a number of times. And I will say that she's just about the most gorgeous thing I've ever looked at.

"What did you say her husband was? A newspaperman? Oh, my. Well, that explains everything. It's too bad that such a charming creature was ever involved with such low people. It's the same thing as I always tell my wife. She's very fortunate to have married such a man as I.

"Will you remind me, Willie, to get the young lady's telephone number? As long as she's getting a divorce, there's just a chance that we might have jolly times together." . . .

* * *

Reaction of a showgirl in the Follies:

"Sure. There you are. It's no surprise to me. I could have told you all about it a long time ago. But you know me. I keep my mouth shut. If I see things, I keep them to myself. That's why I got where I am.

"You and I know she ain't as wonderful as they say she is. 'The Most Beautiful Woman in the World.' Huh! It's nothing but pull that got her where she is, and don't I know it. Don't you think I'm just as pretty as she is? You bet I am. Plenty of people have told me so. The only trouble is that I've been going with that lousy gangster so long that I can't get none of the breaks from a decent guy.

"That husband of hers isn't any too swell, either, but I guess he's getting the best break at that. You wanna know what I found out this afternoon? Well, listen—," . . .

* * *

"What'sa matter wit' thata girl? She musta be crazy. Thata man—he'sa one of the besta fellers you ever wanna meet. If I am the girl, I thinka 20 time before I try to catch heem a divorce.

"I tella you again; he'sa a wonderfula man. You know what he do? He always give me $1 tip. He's granda man." . . .

* * *

Reaction of a taxi driver:

"I tell you, Dottie, that I used to drive the both of 'em down to the theater at least four times a week. And I knew it couldn't last. All you had to do was look at 'em—and that was your answer.

"You can bet your life it wasn't her fault. I don't like to say nothing about this, but there was one time when I heard him yelling at her in the back of the cab. Imagine yelling at such a girl. I felt like telling him he was a little bit goofy, but I didn't dare. After all, driving a hack is my bread and butter.

"You don't know how swell she really is, Dottie. Never talks out of turn, or anything like that, and always says please when she asks for a match. And honest, I never saw a more beautiful—

"What's that? What do you mean—I've got a crush on her? What? Aw, stop being silly. No, I tell you. Listen, Dottie. If you're gonna be jealous like this, the devil with our getting married." . . .

* * *

Reaction of a Broadway Wise Guy:

"Did you read about that divorce action this morning? Yeah, you know who I mean. What's that? Do I know the inside? Say, any time little Charlie doesn't know just what's going on, he's gotta be asleep. And I ain't asleep right now.

"Get close, fellers, and I'll slip you the real low down. It's the greatest story you ever heard. You know she was supposed to be in the Ziegfeld Follies all this winter. Well, she wasn't there at all. No, sir. She was over in Paris with an old banker who got stuck on her a long time ago. They had another dame in the show who was dressed to look like her.

"But wait a minute. You ain't heard nothin' yet. While she was in Paris, who do you think the columnist was goin' for in a big way? Well, you'll die. Peggy Joyce! Nobody knew nothin' about it exceptin' me, and you know I never tip my mit.

"But that's another story. Here's the real kick. Seems like, when the dame came back from Paris, the columnist got wise to the whole affair. He gives her a big bawlin' out, and then she turns around and tells him just where he gets off. After that there was nothin' to do but get a divorce.

"It's just like I always said, boys. When it comes to show business, you can't be on the level. A guy and a dame have gotta get wise to each other long before it happens in any other business. Look what happened to me and my frau. And all because I slammed her in the kisser just twice!

"Don't say nothin' about what I told you, fellers. I just gave you the whole inside, but I don't want it to get around. See you later."

* * *

Reaction of the Columnist to his friends:

"You know the only thing I feel badly about, boys? When I want to go out now, who's going to put the studs in those stiff shirts?" . . .

* * *

"It's going to be awfully tough without you, baby. Awfully, awfully tough." . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

Meeting day tomorrow! Thousands of members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club look forward to these Saturday meetings as the biggest event of the week. They are always sure to have a good time besides seeing special pictures booked for their benefit. And after the Komic Club meeting is over, members are permitted to remain for the regular program of the day.

Prince Theater, Ambridge, is the meeting place for one of the most active chapters in the club. Little Myrna Heberling has developed into a clever mistress of ceremonies, and presides over the stage shows at the meetings.

The downtown, Pittsburgh, chapter, meeting at the Harris Theater, Diamond street, will be entertained tomorrow by the big 10-piece band, made up of members of the East Liberty Boy Scouts. Joe Mowod, grand jester of Harris Chapter, has arranged a program of stage acts by members of the chapter.

New officers were elected at the Mt. Oliver chapter last week. For the next four weeks Pauline Watt will act as grand jester, and the board of governors will be Jimmy Bowman, Patsy Zulino, Albert Siegworth, Doris Hanning and Ruth Wade. On the stage for the revue were Rita Schaming, Eileen Mae Brennan, Mildred Lanz, Helen Rose, Jean Spurrier, Teddy Weiland and Jimmy Edwards, all members of Jean Boyles Juveniles.

Mt. Oliver: Olive Moon, Jack Kraft, Evelyn Friedman, Milton Powers, Eugene Carroll.

Enright: Dot Policitti.

Etna: Beryl Edwards.

Belmar: Carmen Tedesco, Joseph Polombo, Rud Tortoretti.

Cameraphone: Mary Sobatasse.

Memorial (McKeesport): Lillian Greenfield, Elsie Heidenfielder.

For nobody has any yen to be cheered up—
To much louder groaning they'd rather be geared-up.
It gets you in bad to ooze sunshiny chatter
Implying: "Tish! Tish! Why, it can't really matter."
If you would supply what is most in demand, it

Stadtfeld Rejected

It Means a Harder Fight, but the Vare Machine Has Been Beaten Before, and Can Be Beaten Again.

After holding out the hope that it would place Judge Joseph Stadtfeld on its slate as a candidate in the April primary for a full term on the Superior Court bench, the Philadelphia Republican machine dominated by William S. Vare has definitely rejected the Pittsburgh jurist.

That means a harder fight will have to be made to keep Judge Stadtfeld on the bench.

There is encouragement for the belief that the fight will be successful in the support that the Judge has gained from lawyers in all parts of the state, including former Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, of the Supreme Court, now practicing in Philadelphia.

Judge Stadtfeld is so well qualified for the bench that it would be a misfortune for the whole state if the Vare organization should succeed in defeating him.

There is comfort in the reflection that the Philadelphia organization is not invincible. It has been beaten before, and it can be beaten again.

A Five-Cent Bus Fare

Council Might Get Some Useful Information from the Oriole Motor Coach Lines.

The City Council seeks information which will enable it to determine whether or not to accept as satisfactory the reductions in public utilities rates offered by Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries.

One of the concessions that Phillips offers is to cut a trifle more than 2 cents from the price of a ride in the buses of his Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company if people will buy enough tickets. He promises, if the city will agree not to sue for a lower rate, to sell five bus tickets for $1, as against the present rate of nine tickets for $2.

The rate for a single ride, however, for persons who do not care to buy five tickets is to remain at 25 cents, even though they do not ride more than a block.

The Oriole Motor Coach Lines, Inc., has just offered, in connection with an application to the Public Service Commission for permission to extend its lines, to carry passengers in Mt. Lebanon Township for a 5-cent fare.

Council might obtain from the Oriole company officers some useful information as to what constitutes a fair bus rate, information which would be of value in considering Phillips' offer.

Jobs in Public Works

The Subway and Town Hall Should Be Built Now to Help Relieve Unemployment.

The contractors who are to build the new postoffice say 1,000 men will be employed in its construction.

Pittsburgh's charitable organizations estimate they will require about $10,000,000 more to take care of the families of the unemployed during the next 12 months.

It would be better for all if the money should be disbursed as work-relief rather than as direct-relief. Let large public improvements be made which will furnish jobs to the needy.

There are two such projects which the voters have ordered done and for which payment can be made through bond issues already authorized.

One is the Town Hall. The other is the subway.

Better Judges Needed For Thieving Bankers

From Los Angeles comes word that two thieving bankers have been let off with light sentences and a thieving cashier granted probation!

If the people want better bankers they will have to elect better judges.

There were 2,000 bank failures in the United States last year.

In Canada, where the depression is equally severe, there was no bank failure.

Why?

The main reason is that it isn't healthful to be a dishonest banker in Canada.

The last bank failure in Canada was in 1923 and the responsible official has been in jail ever since.

When we get courts like Canada has we shall have trustworthy banks like Canada has.

As long as swindling is profitable and immune from punishment in the United States it will be a widely favored means of livelihood.

One was just about to jump in when the other said:

The would-be suicide answered:

"Oh, I had money and I spent it on women and drinking and gambling and now I'm broke and I am going to end it all."

The other fellow said:

"Well, I worked hard all my life and saved my money and thriftily put it in the bank and now the bank is broke. Move over, buddie, we will hop off together."

This story is meant to be a joke, but, unfortunately, it is not an unfamiliar tragedy.

Two thousand banks failed in the United States last year and none in Canada, though Canada was suffering from just as great a depression. Think that over carefully, good citizens. The main fault is in your government, and in your courts, and in yourselves.

If your government and your courts cannot protect you from the depredations of swindlers and plunderers, you would better shuffle the political cards a little and get a new deal, and a decent one.

What They'd Like to Do

(Copyright, 1932.)

The shrewdest international wire pullers and thimble riggers in the world, the professional diplomats of the Old World, are determined to saddle the whole cost of the Great War (which they alone provoked) on to the United States, which was innocently drawn into the conflict.

At stake are their solemn obligations totaling more than TWELVE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS.

Those twelve thousand million dollars came from the pockets of United States citizens in exchange for Liberty Bonds upon which the United States must pay interest, and, in time, redeem.

To cancel foreign war debts is to transfer this twelve thousand million dollar debt from Europe to American taxpayers, and their tax burdens are bothersome enough as it is.

Strange as it may seem, we harbor here so-called Americans of the internationalist persuasion, including many of our "diplomats" and some of our head servants at Washington, who would rejoice to see the foreign war debts cancelled and the cost of the war shifted to our taxpayers.

But the American people will never stand for such a procedure.

Prepare for a Shock; And Know the Reason

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The New York Times, after a survey, announces that unemployment is on the increase. That means that human misery is spreading. It means that men who have been out of work are not getting jobs, and that men who have had jobs are losing them. Meanwhile, the deflation of wages goes on apace. The purchasing power of the American people is being constantly reduced.

And the Times announces that "some observers are agreed that the swing is away from the Republican party." That seems incredible! One would naturally assume that the swing would be toward the administration whose stupid economic policies have done so much to destroy the purchasing power of the Americans and has done everything possible to destroy the foreign markets.

* * *

The Market-Minded Statesmanship

The Administration of Undertakers seems concerned most of all in the stock market. Its wrath is turned against the "shorts," conveniently forgetting that it was the "longs" with the administration's sturdy encouragement that wrought the ruin. Its eye is fixed on quotations on the stock exchange, and its impatience grows because the stocks are not soaring. This is the market-minded statesmanship to which we have frequently referred.

If stocks soared now it would transparently be crooked. With business prostrate, with the foreign market ruined, with the purchasing power of the American people still being reduced, the earning power of stocks cannot possibly justify them in soaring on the market.

It can only be restored by restoring trade—and the administration circle is determined that nothing along this line shall be done.

When we regain the lost markets overseas that the President's Grundy act lost us, and restore the purchasing power of the millions, who scarcely can manage to exist without jobs, industries will thrive again and the market will look better.

* * *

Result of the Grundy Act

No community has been hit harder by the Grundy act, which President Hoover barely forced through under the Presidential lash, than New York City. It cannot thrive when foreign trade is stopped. Export and import brokers are going into bankruptcy and closing shop. The great office buildings are filled with vacant suites as a result.

Only a little while ago the New York Harbor, the finest in the world, was crowded with great ships bringing goods here and carrying goods away; now it is pathetically lonely.

Railroad freight cars that only a little while ago reached New York packed with products of our factories and fields, to be loaded on ships to be carried to the marts of the world, are no longer filled, and there is sheer tragedy in the number of empty cars.

Great ocean liners are now forced to do little pickup picnic stunts like carrying passengers to Cuba and Canada at ridiculously low rates. They are fighting against ruin. The railroads depend now on government credit—otherwise not a few of these would be in bankruptcy.

And much of this is due, not to the World War, not to conditions abroad, but to the most idiotic tariff act ever enacted, which President Hoover insists is sacrosanct.

An export and import broker told me the other day that his business had been reduced from $30,000 to $8,000 during this year.

* * *

All Will Be Hit By New Tax Bill

That is his business and misfortune, not ours? Let's see. He paid income tax on $30,000 last year; he will pay on but $8,000 next year.

He will pay only a fraction of what he has been paying and at a time when we are faced with a deficit in the Treasury of the United States of about two billion —$2,000,000,000—which must be met if the credit of the nation is to be preserved.

The Treasury will be shocked when the returns are made March 15. The man referred to is no exception—there are tens of thousands like him. It means the reduction in revenue from income and corporation taxes will be appalling. Everyone knows that.

It must be wiped out through taxes other than those on incomes and from corporations.

And that means that not one American but will feel the pinch in the tax bill that is now pending. We are up against war taxes of the worst kind at a time when there is no war boom in business.

Part of the deficit has been bonded; but we must raise by taxes in one year to meet the astounding Hoover deficit, $1,240,000,000! Why, there are debtors of ours across the sea that claim they cannot pay us what they owe in 60 years that owe us no more than that. There are powerful nations across the sea that plead their incapacity to pay us three or four billion—in 60 years. But we must raise, over and above normal needs, $1,240,000,000 in one year!

* * *

A Deficit of Two Billion Dollars

Such is the ripe, or rotten, fruit of the policies of the Hoover administration. Instead of "eliminating poverty" its most impressive achievement has been to give us a deficit in the Treasury of TWO BILLION DOLLARS.

The G. O. P. bubble has burst and millions are hurt.

This tragedy has come upon us after 12 years of undisputed Republican rule, with Congress Republican, with "the greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Hamilton" managing our finances; and when the Democratic House was sworn in it was informed that the Treasury was empty, that there was a deficit of $1,240,000,000 to meet—if the credit and honor of the nation is to be preserved.

That tragic condition came when the Democrats had no power and the administration party had all power—it is the Hoover deficit.

And every American will have to go into his pocket to save the face of the administration, because it is the Government of the United States.

* * *

Who Is Responsible!

The speeches made by the members of the Administration of Undertakers on Hoover's birthday —or was it Lincoln's?—were a fair warning to the misrepresentations and deceptions these men will resort to in trying to escape responsibility for the tragedy that has come to the American people. When the tax bill is presented to Congress the responsibility should be fixed definitely. It will be the most appalling tax law in peace times ever visited on the people of the country, and they will want to know who is responsible.

The bill has been prepared in a non-partisan spirit—for this deficit is the deficit of the United States, and it becomes the problem of all the people. But the responsibility for the deficit rests upon those who were managing the affairs of the government during the period when business was wrecked, trade was stopped, and the deficit was created.

It is said that boxing improves the eye. Perhaps it does, but there are times when boxing puts both eyes in mourning.

A lot of people won't even take the trouble to climb up the ladder of success—they sit down and wait for the elevator to start.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

So, This Is Spring!

So, this is SPRING!

Oh yes, it is! The calendar SAYS it is! And, while you may doubt a clock or a thermometer or a man's vows of eternal love, you've got to believe a calendar, unless you're a fearful skeptic.

* * *

Spring! When a man's heart, however battered, bruised or dented, springs right back into working condition, and his pulse springs into action.

* * *

When a woman springs at anything that looks like a new romance—and a girl leaps lightly from flirtation to flirtation.

When nature springs a head-cold or the grippe or that annual lassitude on most of us — and the heavens spring a daily surprise, in the way of snows and freezes.

* * *

When the florists' windows spring forth into a riot of daffodils, lilacs, hyacinths and tulips—and the milliners' windows spring like magic into a garden of tempting, glamorous flowered hats.

* * *

When hope springs (eternal) in the Tired Business Woman's soul, and she trips forth to have another permanent, a new tint of hair and a face renovation—

* * *

And the Tired Business Man springs a giddy, aurora-borealis necktie and a buttonhole carnation on the dazzled eyes of the women in the office.

When the springs of the faithful old living-room divan heave a sigh of relief and are sent out for repairs—and the rumble-seat girds up its loins for the strenuous days ahead.

* * *

* * *

When the restless married man springs a business-trip or a "fishing-trip" on his wife—and the discontented married woman springs a trip to Reno on her husband.

* * *

When the passion for new and lovely clothes springs up in a woman's breast, and gushes over into an orgy of hysterical shopping and the old wanderlust and longing for adventure spring up in a man's breast, and make his "going-foot" tingle to be off!

* * *

Oh, yes, the snow may be a foot deep, outside your door, and the thermometer may be racing toward zero—but you KNOW it's spring, just the same! You know it, by the way YOUTH springs up in your veins and your heart, your pulse dance, and you long to go adventuring or to fall in love, or to get on a ship and sail away somewhere—ANYWHERE!

* * *

That's spring inside you—the sap of youth and romance and daring, rising up and calling for expression.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 4.—Thoughts while strolling. Donald Ogden Stewart meets Robert C. Benchley. Now, ha, ha, the quips will fly. Ho! Ho! I've never seen Mrs. Grover Whalen. Or Mrs. Gilbert Miller. George Jessel's whacking big cheroot. DeWolf Hopper's son, Jack—vice president of a bank.

Paul D. Cravath, a Berlin Heights (O.) boy who made good in the city. James Stillman is the last of the saunterers. It takes an Englishman to wear those sweater vests. One of my favorite ladies—Peggy Hoyt. Nothing so comic to me as a feather boa. I love an arcade.

Ethel Merman's face is perfectly square. C. T. Brainard of Harper's. Once a newspaperman, too. Ben Hampton's widow—the former Claire Adams of the films. Sign: "Daylight Dancing." What—no dancing in the dark? I've got to do better than that to funny this up. The lovely Clare Boothe Brokaw.

Years have touched Grace George lightly. Once she was a double for the nicest lady I know, ahem! One word description of Mrs. Brock Pemberton—regal. Gabe Hess and beautiful bride, Linda Watkins. A dozen fellows from Kansas look like Senator Capper. Roxy's daughter, Beta.

That shake to Park avenue as trains shoot underground. My hair never began to thin until I got to worrying about it. Wish Phil Baker would come to town. And what became of Chaz Chase, who swallows cigar butts and lighted matches? On second thought, never mind.

Otto Kahn's Fifth avenue mansion recalls the Marcus Loew story. A year after buying a Long Island estate, Mr. Loew opened what he thought was a closet door. And found 18 more rooms. With all the depression shows, why not a musical by George Gershwin, Jerome Kern and Irving Berlin?

Nobody wears white fur like Julia Hoyt. Or an evening dress suit like Earl Benham. All of a sudden I'm famished for pot roast and noodles. The gorgeous dull red of a Central Park sunset. The frosty fuzz on dry twigs. And dusk withers into night.

* * *

A current play has a boulevardier explaining he has a good wife but moans she ran off with his closest pal. "Too good to be true," snaps a cynic.

* * *

Don Clarke, in his cubhood, was sent to interview a famous man. Waiting in an ante-room for hours after sending in his name, he approached a gum-chewing phone girl. "I'm a reporter," he explained. "Well, it's no good worrying," she replied.

* * *

It occurs to me I have never seen Henry Hull, one of the very best actors, on the street, in a cafe or peacocking at any of the other haunts where otiose theatrical people are usually in evidence. Maybe that's why he always has a first-rate job.

An executive tells this story. He spends many hours at his desk daily and noticed when looking up suddenly things spun in a dizzy whirl. Specialists found nothing physically wrong, but told him to slow up. Two weeks ago his swivel chair broke and a stationary chair was substituted. He has not had a dizzy spell since.

A Manhattan dipsomaniac of higher social brackets does not cleave to usual alcoholic theorems. She goes on a brandy bender every six months, isolating herself for the period of inebriacy in a de luxe hotel. Instead of customary filth and disarray, she is the personification of neatness. She dons fresh negligees at intervals, wears hair neatly coiffed, is rouged and powdered daintily, and about her quarters is the delicate, refined scent of orris and old lavender. Yet during such lapses she is utterly blotto, her talk is a blurry, hiccupy jumble.

* * *

Radio announcers suggest the ghosts of Corse Payton and other scenery eating actors. They try to circus up a program by ranting. My idea of a perfect radio interlued is a calm, swift and simple announcement at the beginning and end, and that's all. Or am I cackling through the chapeaux again?

* * *

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You want life. You do not know exactly what life is, but you want it.

Once you had it—had it unconsciously, without effort. There was a call, a glitter, a wonder waiting just over the horizon; within you, an eager, yearning tide. The day was not measured in hours. It was measured in desire and excitement, in adventures and in curious explorations. Nothing was common. Nothing was uninteresting. You had your nose in everything.

Then, your heart was open to all the world. Every human was a fellow adventurer. You might battle and brawl, but there were no walls between you. Consciousness was an open thoroughfare. You gave yourself to life, and life gave itself to you.

And then, gradually, there came a change. The call grew faint; the glitter dimmed; the warmed tide lagged and failed. You withdrew into yourself. Walls rose around you. You began to be cautious, suspicious, timid, fussy, resentful; each day more lonely; each day more bored.

And now you cry, "I want to live!" But you have lost the secret. You are cold, and nothing comes to warm you. You are unsatisfied, but nothing fills your hunger or brightens the drab monotony of the days.

"It is all over," you say bitterly. "There is nothing left. That joy and eagerness I felt as a child were simply the physical energy of a young animal. As soon as I stopped being a child, those adventures stopped. They had to stop. You can't feel that way after you're young. Well, I might as well make the best of it—but what a farce life is!"

You're wrong! Adventures do not stop UNTIL WE MAKE THEM STOP. The joy of life is not just a matter of youthful blood pressure. Life can be as eager and as open at 50 as it was at 15, IF WE WILL LET IT BE EAGER AND OPEN.

But we, ourselves, close the thoroughfare of life. We close it with our selfishness and fear, our self-indulgence and conceit. Out of these things we build the walls that shut us in; but outside the walls, the same old mystery waits, the same wonder and glory and delight.

HOW CAN WE FIND LIFE AGAIN?

By going out of it. By putting aside the habits that have built walls about you, and coming into the open. By hurling yourself recklessly into life, into new adventure and companionship, as you did when you were a child.

You didn't live INSIDE YOURSELF when you were a child. You lived OUTSIDE YOURSELF. You lived out in the middle of things, and you took things and people as they came. You didn't fuss and fret and weigh and ponder and try to fit things to your petty personal pattern.

Of course you did plenty fool things; made many mistakes. But you didn't make that most tragic mistake of all. YOU DIDN'T SHUT OUT LIFE. You suffered penalties and punishments; BUT YOU HAD LIFE AND THE JOY OF LIFE, AND THAT WAS WORTH ANY PRICE YOU HAD TO PAY. No day was monotonous, no prospect hopeless, nor was any person wholly a stranger or an enemy.

YOU WERE PARTNERS WITH THE WHOLE HUMAN RACE.

Go out and be partners again! Stop sniffing and snooting and hiding and haggling and peeving and objecting. Go out and share your joy and sorrow, your pride and humiliation, your weariness and wonder, your dreams and delight and despair with every soul you meet—as once you shared mud puddles.

Kick down your self-made barriers. Cut loose from your self-made shackles. Leave your old person. Be a new person.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Joy Is a Bird

Joy is a bird that flew away
Before life's wintry skies of gray,
And in its going took along
Earth's loveliness of bloom and song.

My heart, which once by joy was blest,
Is now a drear, deserted nest,
Since joy has flown away so far
To lands where sun and summer are.

But well I know when spring returns
And bloom within the garden burns,
That joy, the bird of plumage bright,
